—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

LATEST "MONEY NEWS." The dollar drops again. The United States is buying gold from France, paying the new high price above $32 an ounce. Wise Frenchmen were shipping gold from New York to Paris in neat little kegs, tons of it, when it sold for $20 an ounce.

Also, the United States may soon issue $11,000,000 in silver certificates.

THAT WOULD be better than issuing eleven million dollars more government bonds on which taxpayers would pay interest.

Some day this country will realize that the government's promise to pay is just as good on a piece of green paper as it is on a piece of yellow paper, the green paper having the advantage of not paying interest and increasing taxes.

EDMUND SCHULTHESS, president of the Swiss republic, wise man, says the Swiss kept out of the big war, no fighting powers daring to trespass on Swiss soil. All knew that every Swiss under fifty is trained, armed, ready to fight for his country.

Switzerland will now spend what may be necessary to protect her borders, believing that if war comes Germany will try to go through Switzerland this time as she went through Belgium last time, because of recent Belgian and French frontier fortifications.

THROUGH SWITZERLAND the German army might "turn the French flank" and connect with Italian allies. Germany expected to connect with Italian allies last time, but the Italian allies were not there.

The best defense for Switzerland might be one good squad of powerful bombing and gassing airplanes and the statement:

"We shall at once destroy the biggest city of any nation that sets hostile foot on Swiss soil."

Yesterday, old Jerusalem, that once depended on a great wall around the little city, learned that the airplane is here, and works.

A great crowd of Arabs, moving to join a demonstration against the coming in of Jews, was dispersed by one low-flying airplane. That roaring just overhead is disconcerting.

WHILE GERMANY, with Capt. Eckener and his Zeppelin, shows how easy it is to fly from Germany to South America and from South America to Chicago and back to Germany by dirigible, the British are pushing their heavier-than-air passenger and mail line across the Atlantic to the United States, with a base at Newfoundland.

The route would be, Liverpool to northern Scotland, Iceland, Greenland, Labrador, Montreal and other American and Canadian cities.

This country that invented the flying machine sits, watches and sings, "Who's afraid of the big bad wolf?" That is a better song for three little pigs than for forty-eight big states.

UNDER NRA rules, control of industry and business will drift more and more into control by organized labor.

The unions, according to Mr. Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, have about 5,000,000 members now and hope to enroll as many as 25,000,000 men.

Such an organization would be the government of the United States. No other groups could stand against it.

Therefore it is important for union labor to consider above all things future efficiency, since 25,000,000 enrolled union men would not be able to get more than their share of such prosperity as might exist.

THE TWO industries that have made greatest progress in the United States, conquering competition even in foreign countries, have been open-shop industries, free of union labor control, namely, the automobile industry and the moving picture industry.

They have also been the two industries paying the highest wages. In the long run only results count, and union labor as, and if, it takes control of industries hitherto "open-shop" will want to plan for continuance of efficiency, profits and production. Otherwise the number of jobs will shrink.

You cannot create jobs artificially, except with the United States Treasury to draw on, and even that could not last forever.

MEN HAVE been a long time on this earth, but are still amazed by its weather. Washington, Pa., reports frogs croaking in November, first time in sixty years, and pussywillows budding.

Last Tuesday was the hottest Oct. 31 that New York City has ever seen. Sun spots have something to do with it, and what happens behind the sun spots also, so the wise men tell you. But just what happens, they don't say.

THE GOVERNMENT is expected to tax whisky made abroad five dollars a gallon more than the same products made at home, and that, it is thought, should encourage the home products.

Why allow foreign whisky to come in on any terms? Why not let Americans that drink whisky drink the kinds made of grain raised by American farmers, distilled by Americans, employing American labor.

Whisky is whisky, and for those that think they must have "Scotch" a smokey taste could easily be provided. Beer and whisky used here should pay revenue to this country only, wages to working men in this

MINERS TAKE PROTEST TO ROOSEVELT

Want Hearing Before President to Demand 'Square Deal'

By AL GOUGH
Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Eight grimly determined coal miners from the Connellsville coke region of Pennsylvania presented themselves at the portals of the White House today to ask for another New Deal.

They want President Franklin D. Roosevelt to make a new captive mine agreement, but most of all they want to hear words of assurance from the man they idolize—assurance of a square deal if another new deal is impossible.

Doughty Billy Hynes, president of District 4, United Mine Workers' of America, and fighting Martin Ryan, are heading the delegation.

Other members included: Ralph Courtley, Mather; Dan Sabula, Weirton Steel Company's Isabella mine; Silas S. Lynch, Frick-owned Lemont; James A. Hall, Mather; Patsy Minerd, Republic Steel Company's mine, and Andrew Ritchie, Frick-owned Filbert.

CONFER WITH LEWIS

Arriving by automobile from Uniontown at 11 o'clock this morning, they went immediately into conference in John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers' headquarters in the Carlton Hotel. They were scheduled to meet with Gen. Hugh S. Johnson. Johnson previously had assured leaders he would escort them to the White House. He was delayed in New York, however, but sent word he would return at 5:30 p. m.

The members of the delegation, strategically chosen from all parts of the coke region, represent the feelings and determination of up-

SPINELLI'S EXTRADITION ORDERED

'Big Mike' to Stand Trial Here in Volpe Killings

ROME, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—The Supreme Court today granted the United States government its request for the extradition of Giuseppe (Big Mike) Spinelli, wanted in Pittsburgh on a charge of murder.

[Pittsburgh authorities want Spinelli in connection with the massacre of the three Volpe brothers, shot down in the Roma Coffee Shop, in Wylie avenue.]

The court, in which the Italian-born Pennsylvanian was making his stand against removal to the United States, rejected all three arguments presented by Spinelli's attorneys, who sought to show that he never had lost his Italian citizenship.

The court ruled Spinelli was no longer an Italian citizen and that he should be sent to America to answer the charges against him.

APPEAL PROPOSED

Spinelli's attorneys said they were astounded by the decision and would prepare immediately to take the last step open to them—a formal request to Pietro De Francisci, minister of justice, to overrule the court's decision.

Immediately after hearing the verdict they made an appointment to see the minister Tuesday.

His attorneys, Mario Vanelli and Saverio Castelletti, argue that Spinelli is an Italian, because when he applied for his first citizenship papers in the United States he omitted to file a declaration with the Italian consul that he intended to relinquish his Italian citizenship.

SPINELLI'S DEFENSE

They add to their argument that Spinelli returned to Italy and maintained a residence in Agropoli, where he has a wife and three children, and that their client kept his name on the Italian electors' list.

Furthermore they say extradition should not be granted because Giovanni Volpe, whom Spinelli is alleged to have killed, was an Italian citizen.

WARRANT OBTAINED

In the absence of District Attorney A. T. Park, his first assistant, George F. P. Langfitt, said a warrant signed by former President Hoover already was held for the bringing back of Spinelli to this country for trial.

Langfitt said Prosecutor Park had made arrangements with the County Commissioners to finance the trip of two men, probably Lieut. Frank Ferris, of the city homicide squad, and Assistant Chief of County Detectives James S. McGinley to go to Italy for Spinelli. The latter is indicted for the slaying of John Volpe, one of three brothers killed by gangsters on the Hill more than a year ago.

PINCHOT FOR $22 A CASE RUM PRICE

Governor Wants to Bar Competition By Bootleggers

By MARK SHIELDS

The best grade of bonded whisky will sell in Pennsylvania state liquor stores for $22 a case of 12 quarts after repeal becomes effective.

The tax will be so low that this price will be possible and at the same time afford the distiller and any middlemen dealing with the state a reasonable profit, while permitting the impost of a federal tax larger than that asked by the state.

In hotels and legitimate restaurants the price for consumption on the premises will be higher than the cost to the purchaser from a state store, as these purveyors will be compelled to add the cost of their own overhead.

FINAL CONFERENCE

These figures and plans are the basis on which state officials and representatives of wet and dry groups have amicably discussed the coming of liquor, a final conference on the subject being held in Harrisburg today with Attorney General William A. Schnader presiding.

The Governor will not stand for a return of the old Brooks law, and will kill it with a veto if the Legislature attempts to over-ride the advice of the non-political wets and drys.

Complete harmony has marked the attitude of the wets and drys, though nothing has been heard from wet politicians who might

Roosevelt May Move Fleet to Atlantic

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—(INS.)—President Roosevelt is seriously considering transfer of the American fleet from the Pacific to the Atlantic.

The matter was taken up by the President at a White House conference today with Secretary of the Navy Swanson who has just returned from an inspection trip which included American fortifications on the West Coast and the Hawaiian Islands.

Actress and Escort Slain at Gethsemane

JERUSALEM, Nov. 3.—(INS.)—The bodies of Carol Niedergesses, 25-year-old New York actress known on the stage as Joan Winters, and an Indian companion named Muhammed Kirmani, were found today near Gethsemane. They apparently were victims of an attack.

Both arrived here aboard the steamer Vienna on October 29.

Blast Periling Her Also Saves Woman

HINSDALE, Mont., Nov. 3.—(AP.)—An explosion that almost killed Mrs. V. T. Hartley also saved her life. She struck a match to find canned goods in her basement. Flames spurted about her but an explosion believed caused by gas burst a water pipe, wetting her clothing and permitting her to dash to safety.

JOSEPH S. EZOLT AND HIS WIFE . . ETHEL PREMBLER EZOLT

Young Mr. Ezolt, the Monessen steel worker who today at the county morgue "believed" that the slain "mystery girl," found in a Verona sewer drop, was his wife. The body has also been identified as that of Catherine (Boots) Brown, alias Jackson, alias Holmes.

DOUBLE-LIFE TANGLES CLUES

Sewer Murder Corpse Identification Still Cloaked in Doubt

BULLETIN.

An East End man was arrested late today in the investigation of the murder of the girl believed to be "Boots" Brown. Homicide detectives reported the prisoner beat the girl several days before she was found murdered.

Who was she?

Was she pleasure-loving Catherine (Boots) Brown, of East Liberty?

Was she the bored young wife who deserted her husband in Monessen for a gayer existence in Pittsburgh?

Was she neither of these or was she both?

The controversy raged today over the identity of the dark-haired young woman who, murdered, lies on a morgue slab past which 50,000 or more curious have paraded silently.

George W. Murren, chief of the county detectives, and his staff were convinced by today's developments that the girl was the young wife who deserted Joseph Ezolt, of Monessen, after four years of married life.

DOUBLE LIFE HINTED

Murren believes the bored Mrs. Ezolt deserted her husband, moved to East Liberty and took up her existence as Catherine (Boots) Brown.

If this be true, then "Boots" added bigamy to her list of activities, for after leaving her husband in December, 1932, she married one Nick Palladino in East End last May.

Ezolt himself studied the body of the murder victim today and pronounced it as his wife's. He said he was certain.

But morgue officials refused to accept this identification as official.

They looked in vain for the scar which Ezolt said his wife bore on the temple—result of an automobile accident.

And when Ezolt said his wife had not had an appendectomy during their married life, they pointed to the scar, several years old, left by such an operation.

But Murren pointed to examples of the handwriting of Ezolt's wife and of Catherine (Boots) Brown and insisted they were written by the same person.

Supporting Ezolt's identification were three Negro women of Clark street on the Hill. They said the girl, under the name of Dorothy Jackson, had lived in their home for a few months early this year.

Ezolt said the last time he had seen his wife was in the Negro home. She had left him in September, 1932, and three months later she had written asking him to pay a $10 fine which would release her from jail. She had been arrested for street-walking. He paid the fine and gave her a few dollars to go to New York to visit a sister, he said.

SISTER IN NEW YORK

The sister in New York furnished one indication that Mrs. Ezolt and "Boots" Brown were one and the same.

Shortly after "Boots" married Palladino she wrote to a sister named Sybil in New York.

And in a notebook in the Monessen home was the name of a sister of Mrs. Ezolt—Mrs. Sybil Degattuno, of 1231 Linton avenue, the Bronx, New York.

U. S. RAIL LOAN SPUR TO STEEL

Large benefits to Pittsburgh industries were seen today in the $135,000,000 railroad loan announced in Washington by the Federal Public Works Administration.

Of the huge sum allocated, $51,000,000 will be spent for 1,000,000 tons of new rails and 400,000 tons of fastenings. The remainder, $84,000,000, goes to the Pennsylvania Railroad for completion of electrification of its Washington-New York link.

A good-sized share of the resultant orders were expected to find their way into the Pittsburgh steel mills and the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company.

Joseph F. Guffey, Democratic state leader, described the loan as the greatest boon to Pittsburgh that has come out of Washington for many months. Guffey said:

"While the $51,000,000 to be spent for rails will not all be awarded to Pittsburgh district

DICK POWELL, CUPID LINKED

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—The film capital wondered today if a new romance is in the offing in the Warner family, with Dick Powell, singing actor, and Miss Gwen Heller as the principals.

Miss Heller is a cousin of Mrs. Jack Warner and makes her home in New York.

She has been seen frequently in Powell's company.

She is to act as bridesmaid at the wedding in New York, January 3, of Mervyn Leroy, film director, and Miss Doris Warner, daughter of Harry M. Warner, president of Warner Brothers-First National.

Bus Riders at 25 Cents 'Suckers,' Says McNair

William N. McNair, Democratic nominee for Mayor, told a group of Pitt students today the people of Pittsburgh were a "bunch of suckers" for paying a 25-cent bus fare.

McNair held the same spot that Mayor John S. Herron occupied yesterday in submitting to questioning by the students.

Explaining his attitude on public transportation, McNair said:

"All the buses are doing is to keep out automobile competition for the Pittsburgh Railways Company. We have plenty of reason right now to throw the trolley cars off the streets, put on trackless trolleys as they have in Dayton, O., and have a five-cent fare."

Other questions and answers were:

Q.—Would you have a shake-up of the police bureau if you were elected?

A—Well, I think a lot of them would be good if I got in. We might have a mass meeting of racketeers in Carnegie Hall and tell them, 'You have got to quit paying our policemen for protection or we'll raid your places and if you don't we'll take you off the city payroll."

Q.—What do you know about crooked elections?

A.—There hasn't been a straight one in Pittsburgh for 20 years.

Q.—Are you in favor of the real estate board's proposal to cut teachers' pay another 10 per cent.

A.—No. Teachers should be the highest paid workers in the city.

PEN FOR DIME HIT-RUNNERS

A dime which two men are said to have given a 12-year-old boy to get rid of him after his auto injury, loomed many times larger to them in Criminal Court today.

Judge Ralph H. Smith mentioned the bit of silver in imposing workhouse sentences of six months to a year on Harry Harris, 35, of 1844 Webster avenue, and his brother-in-law, Israel Goodman, 42, of 3513 Beechwood boulevard, convicted of failure to stop and render assistance in a motor accident. They also were fined $100 each.

Judge Smith said:

"While the accident undoubtedly was unavoidable, these men apparently are trying to conceal something when, with a piece of silver, they tried to assuage this boy's injuries and put him out to shift for himself within a stone's throw of a hospital."

The lad, Claude McGuire, a Juvenile Court ward, of 4426 Penn avenue, was injured last March 22 at Penn and Friendship avenues.

Navy Flier Killed, Refuses to Leap

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Nov. 3.—(INS.)—Crashing in flames from the height of 14,000 feet after a collision with another Navy airplane during gunnery practice, Lieut. G. D. Hard, 28, of Louisiana, was killed today when he elected to remain with his craft instead of "bailing out."

Lieut. C. E. Ekstrom, who piloted the other craft, managed to bring his plane back to the naval air base.

Senator Kendrick, Stricken, Improves

SHERIDAN, Wyo., Nov. 3.—(AP.)—United States Senator John B. Kendrick of Wyoming, seriously ill since here, today had shown signs of definite improvement, physicians at the Memorial Hospital declared.

HUSBAND SLAYS WIFE, SELF

A man named Constabile, aged about 40, shot and killed his wife and then himself this afternoon in their home, rear of 319 Second street, Rankin, according to a Coroner's report from Rankin police.

Neighbors said the man has been unemployed for a long time and had been quarreling with his wife for several months. They are reported to have three or four children.

Rankin police found the two bodies in the sitting room of their little home. They were sent to the morgue.

The bullets had entered the woman's neck and the man's temple.

Society Woman Loses $800 Pearl Necklace

Mrs. William M. Anderson, Jr., well-known society woman of 1229 Winterton street, today is minus her $800 pearl necklace.

She reported to the detective bureau that it was last seen in her home sometime between October 26 and November 3. The necklace, she said, is 12 inches long with a diamond clasp.

School Gossip Kidnaped, Sent Home in Shorts

International News Service.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Nov. 3.—Rutgers University authorities today planned an investigation into the "kidnaping" of Sydney Margolis of Highlands, N. J., writer of a gossip column for the campus newspaper, by five masked youths, who threatened the columnist with a beating if he didn't "tone down" the column.

After police flashed a state-wide alarm that "five masked men in a gray sedan kidnaped a Rutgers student," a police cordon was thrown about the university section and all automobiles were stopped and searched.

Within half an hour, however, Margolis, a senior, was dumped from a car in front of his fraternity house from which he had been hustled clad only in undershirt, shorts and socks. He told police he didn't know the identity of his captors.

COUNTY SEEKS LEGISLATION AIMED AT UTILITIES, FEE OFFICES

PINCHOT ASKED TO SUPPORT PROGRAM

Commissioners Want Items Listed in Assembly Call

Drastic legislation striking at the public utilities, fee offices and providing a civil service system for county employes will be introduced at the special session of the Legislature if a request of the County Commissioners is approved by Gov. Gifford Pinchot. The three Commissioners met with Gov. Pinchot last night and discussed the legislation.

Seven items are included in the program which, according to Chairman C. C. McGovern, are important to the fiscal affairs of the county. Gov. Pinchot requested that further details of the legislation be sent to him and that he would consider it in making the call for the special session.

BILLS PROPOSED

The proposals suggested by the Commissioners are:

1—Regulating and improvement of civil service in counties of the second class.

2—Taxation of physical properties of public service and other corporations now exempt.

3—Regulate the expenditure of public money and prohibit such expenditures without preliminary public advertisement and competitive bidding.

4—Publicity in all criminal cases in which the costs are sought to be made a liability of the county.

5—Better accounting by and control over monies handled by public officers.

6—Require the recorder of deeds to record papers by photographic or photostatic process instead of by the antiquated methods now used.

7—Empower the County Commissioners to set up a commission to handle the monies borrowed from the federal government by the county for self-liquidating projects, without imposing on the taxpayers or reflecting upon the county's credit and bonding power.

M'GOVERN EXPLAINS

The first item, McGovern said, would prevent political reprisals and also protect the Commissioners in retaining reliable workers in the various departments.

The second one of the most important, according to McGovern, would bring thousands of dollars additional into the county treasury annually. McGovern said his plan was to have the county tax all properties of utilities which the county tax board decided were not essential for operating purposes.

Item No. 3, McGovern stated, would control the various departments of the county in the spending of huge sums of money each year. He said the Commissioners observe the $300 competitive bidding act, but other offices find old laws under which they spend money without proper bidding and advertisement.

AIM AT PHANTOMS

Aldermen and justices of the peace who during the last two years have been accused of taking huge sums of money from the county through phantom cases would be the target for the fourth item. McGovern said he would ask that once a month the members of the minor judiciary make known to the county the list of cases in which the county must pay the costs.

The fifth piece of legislation strikes directly at the fee offices of the county. McGovern would force the holders of such offices to turn over to the County Treasurer all collections, whether in fees or cash held during litigation. This would prevent, McGovern says, "the many private bank accounts where huge sums of money are drawing interest."

The last item is only for the county's public works program to be carried out by federal funds. A bill would empower the Commissioners to set up a corporation to borrow the federal funds in the name of the county, issue bonds and collect tolls on the self-liquidating projects.

McGovern said Gov. Pinchot wanted to go into each item in detail. The Governor promised, McGovern declared, that he would at least make the call for the special session sufficiently broad to deal with the last item covering federal loans.

U. S. QUIETLY BUYING GOLD IN EUROPE

Price-Boosting Plan Placed in Full Operation

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—The Roosevelt plan for forcing prices upward by increasing the value of gold was in full operation today with the government's agents quietly at work on the European bullion markets and the domestic price of the metal again reaching a new high.

For Reconstruction Corporation purchases of the metal when duly mined in the United States a price of $32.57 was announced, an increase of 21 cents since yesterday and 31 cents higher than the day's London price.

The London figure, $32.26, was the highest since the administration's gold buying began nine days ago.

Actual purchases abroad, which foreign dispatches said began yesterday, were wrapped in secrecy lest speculators here or in Europe seek to enrich themselves by the government's operations and possibly hinder them.

All power in making the purchases was delegated to the Federal Reserve Bank at New York and officials here said the only announcements of what is being done would be intermittent summaries covering the activities of a period of time.

In buying foreign gold, the Reconstruction Corporation is offering its notes in payment. This does not mean, it was asserted, that RFC notes will find circulation abroad. Instead, agents of the New York Federal Reserve Bank are making the purchases, ostensibly on their own behalf, and then selling to the bank and receiving the notes in return.

U. S. MAKES NEW MOVE AGAINST INSULL

Attempts to Obtain Cancellation of Greek Papers

International News Service.

ATHENS, Nov. 3. — American circles still seeking extradition of Samuel Insull, indicted Chicago utilities magnate, today snatched at one last hope of bringing him face to face with his accusers.

Despite the legal maze surrounding the verdict of the Greek Court of Appeals, refusing to permit his extradition on charges of fraudulent bankruptcy, possibility was seen that the United States, through diplomatic channels, may demand the Greek government cancel Insull's sojourn papers.

Since Insull's American passport has been canceled and he is still a fugitive from prosecution by the United States government, despite the Court of Appeals verdict, cancellation of his special Greek papers would automatically necessitate his expulsion from Greece.

He could then either be deported directly back to the United States or placed across the Greek border, where the American government could seek his rearrest and extradition in some other country which would not place protective barriers around the ex-millionaire.

International News Service was informed in American Legation circles that there was strong possibility the American government would demand the sojourn papers be taken up.

Insull, although worried over what moves the United States will take, interested himself by reading newspaper reports of the difficulties encountered by the NRA in America. He said:

"It looks mighty serious."

He also wrote letters to his son and others in Chicago, describing his court battle and victory over the extradition attempt.

The American Legation pointed out in communications to Washington that the court verdict admitted Insull committed an offense under both Greek and American laws, yet by its "curious" reasoning freed him.

Leaps From Bridge

HARRY L. KLUPPEL

VETERAN KILLED IN BRIDGE LEAP

Ill health apparently prompted Harry L. Kluppel, 45, a wounded World War veteran, to plunge to his death from the lofty Bloomfield Bridge last night, attaches of the Coroner's office announced today.

A four-leaf clover was found in one of his pockets.

Police found the crushed body of the veteran on the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks and removed it to the morgue. They were summoned by Mrs. Louise Gralewski, of 165 Cotton way, who, with her two sons, Edward and Chester, witnessed the leap, they said.

Mrs. Gralewski said the man mounted the railing in the center of the span and jumped before she and the sons could reach him.

Kluppel, who formerly roomed at the home of Arthur Terney, of 1027 Fredonia street, Elliott, was on furlough from the United States Veterans' Hospital at Perry Point, Md. He had come to Pittsburgh to visit friends and adjust his compensation.

Kluppel, a private in Company E, 37th Engineers, was wounded and gassed in France. He returned to the front upon his discharge from a base hospital. His friends said his oversea service resulted in failing health. His wife died three years ago. He was born in McKeesport.

WIGGIN MADE $18,000,000 IN 2 YEARS

Sold Short as Banks Tried to Halt Market Crash

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Albert H. Wiggin, former head of the Chase National Bank, now revealed as one of the richest men in America, shared an income of $18,000,000 with his family in the boom years of 1928 and 1929, it was disclosed today by the records of the Senate banking inquiry.

This income came to Wiggin, his wife and two daughters from his salary as chairman of the governing board of Chase bank, their investments and the profits of their personal corporations and trust funds.

SHORT SALE PROFITS

It included $4,008,538 profit from Wiggin's short-sale operations in stock of the bank.

Wiggin conducted these operations, the record revealed, in the midst of the 1929 market crash while he literally poured millions of dollars of the bank's money into the "Morgan pool" to halt the panic.

On one day, he sold Chase stock short even as he conferred with the desperate bank leaders of New York City and used his bank's funds to stem the crash of market values.

The income of Wiggin and his family for these two boom years, was disclosed by the records, as follows:

Wiggin's personal income from salary and other sources, $3,173,123.

Income of Mrs. Wiggin, their two daughters and trust funds, $3,400,000.

Income of Wiggin's three personal corporations, $7,530,030.

Profit from his short sale operation, $4,008,538.

Total family income, $18,011,691.

SELLING DENIED

From October 25 to November 4, 1929, Wiggin sold 4,550 shares of Chase stock short for a total of $884,981. This was at a time when Thomas W. Lamont, of J. P. Morgan & Co., spokesman for the "Morgan pool," declared the bankers were not selling any stock.

On October 30, John D. Rockefeller and his son, John D., Jr., helped to rally the market by buying common stocks. The next day, Wiggin sold 1,750 shares of his bank's stock short, a $319,916 transaction. His final short sale in the midst of the panic was on November 4, when prices collapsed 2 to 17 points a share. Then he sold 2,390 shares short for a total of $451,889.

MINERS ON WAY TO ROOSEVELT

wards of 20,000 miners, dissatisfied and suspicious of the peace pact entered into between the President and owners of the captive mines last Monday.

They do not hesitate to express themselves thoroughly and frankly, with possibly the exception of Billy Hynes, who has assured his followers that he will stand by them.

Ryan, more outspoken perhaps than the rest, says:

"We are worse off with this agreement now than we were under the temporary truce, the conditions of which brought about this present holiday movement. There was no minority representation in the truce agreement, but now they tell us there will be one.

"Who do they mean—the company union brotherhood?"

Minerd added, vehemently:

"We elected representatives under the terms of the truce, but did the Frick company recognize them? Did they give us back our jobs like they promised they would in the truce agreement?

"I'm here to tell you they did not, and I don't think they ever will, until somebody makes them do it."

Sabella has something to say:

"We're organized 100 per cent United Mine Workers down at Isabella, but now since this minority clause comes into the agreement, the company wants to organize a company union. One by one, they'll get rid of the rest of us until there's nothing left but the company union men. Is that fair?"

Courtley put in a word:

"They're doing the same down at Mather, where we are organized 100 per cent, too. We who have been active in this union fight haven't got a chance under this agreement. They'll have us out of there in less than a week. I've got a wife and family to think about. What'll happen to them when I'm blackballed all through the region?"

Lynch, the only Negro on the committee, said:

"They don't want members of our race unless they can keep them under suppression. Already they have a bunch of our fellows cooped up at Edenborn. They're afraid to talk to me because the company bosses are watching them all the time. That's the way they're holding them together and making them join the brotherhood."

Entered as second-class matter at the postoffice at Pittsburgh, Pa., under the Act of March 3, 1879.

Ritchie said:

"They promise anything down at our mine at Filbert, but try and get it. The only way we'll be sure of anything is through our own union."

Hall added:

"Roosevelt will treat us square, once he knows the real truth of what is going on back in the region. We'll do what he says, because we know he won't tell us anything wrong."

Pinchot's Aid Hinted In Mine Resumption

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Nov. 3.—(AP.)—Belief that Gov. Gifford Pinchot will move to bring about compliance with any presidential decision to end the mine strike was expressed today by Anthony J. Cavalvante, the Governor's representative in the soft coal fields. He asserted:

"The people may rest assured that any presidential decision will be enforced, regardless of the number of state police or military force required."

He stressed the point that he was not speaking for Pinchot, but his statement was made upon his return from Pittsburgh, where he had a long conference with the Governor yesterday.

With a United Mine Workers committee of eight Fayette County men in Washington today to lay their problem before President Roosevelt, Cavalcante and others in the strike area look hopefully for peace.

The H. C. Frick Coke Company last night notified Sheriff Harry E. Hackney it is prepared to resume work "immediately after knowing the employes are safe from molestation."

Hackney promised to provide the necessary protection that would send 20,000 men back to work.

Regarding the posting of the agreement notices, Cavalcante said:

"The employes contend that posting of the notice is not equivalent to posting the Appalachian agreement between commercial mine owners and workers, provided in the agreement with the President."

FRANC IN PERIL, CABINET WARNS

PARIS, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—The danger signal of the franc's peril was hoisted by Finance Minister Georges Bonnet today as Parliament met for a vote of confidence on the Sarraut cabinet's efforts to rehabilitate public finances.

Francs are being withdrawn from the banks and sale of treasury bonds is diminishing, the minister told radical Socialists in a confidential note urging quick and solid support of budget balancing efforts.

Meantime, the vanishing of a billion francs in gold from the Bank of France within two weeks shadowed the maiden appearance of the new cabinet formed by Albert Sarraut to supplant the fallen ministry of Edouard Daladier.

BOYS FACE RISK TO SAVE FLIERS

International News Service.

DENVER, Nov. 3.—Two Junior High School boys were credited today with saving the lives of three men in an airplane.

Robert Flucken, 15, and Herbert Conover, 15, noticed Pilot Lew Hindert flying with one wheel missing. They rushed to the landing field at Municipal Airport. Hindert raised his plane to avoid hitting them and the two boys drew his attention to the missing wheel.

Hindert then landed in such a way as not to overturn the plane. Roscoe Lawton and William McGlothan were riding with Hindert. Lawton recently underwent an operation for collapse of one lung. Even a slight injury to his chest would probably have been fatal.

PINCHOT BACKS RELIEF BONDS

Pleading for approval by voters Tuesday of the $25,000,000 bond issue for unemployment relief and state aid for hospitals and colleges, Gov. Pinchot, in a radio address last night, said unless the issue is approved immediate heavy taxes will be necessary.

He said the proposed tax on liquor suggested in the event of repeal would come too late while road funds, also proposed, cannot be used as they are tied up in work under way or under contract.

He said:

"A loan of $25,000,000 looks mighty big to you and to me, but after all, it is less than one-tenth of the state's biennial revenue. It sems to me that it is good business to borrow this money and borrow it now, for we can pay it back at the rate of $2,500,000 over a 10-year period. No sacrifice could be too great to keep our unemployed from starving and our hospitals from refusing treatment to the helpless poor."

Gov. Pinchot said Pennsylvania's only obligations are outstanding road bonds and they are automatically paid off by motor license receipts.

GERMAN ENVOY SCORED ANEW

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—An official State Department expression of concern at a public oral attack on an accredited ambassador to the United States failed last night to stop the attacker.

Dr. Hans Luther, German ambassador, was accused in a speech by Samuel Untermyer, a New York attorney, of having spent German funds in this country for Nazi propaganda. Luther went to the State Department and denied it, whereupon Secretary Hull expressed his "concern."

Whereupon Untermyer remarked it is "well nigh incredible that Dr. Luther is so naive as not to know what is going on in this country in the way of far-flung country-wide Nazi propaganda."

He expressed an expectation that the forthcoming investigation by the House Immigration Committee will develop "considerable of which Dr. Luthern does not seem aware."

Red Ousted Again In Reich Fire Trial

BERLIN, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—Georgi Dimitroff, fiery Bulgarian defendant just back in the courtroom after one day's exclusion from the Reichstag Building fire trial, was excluded for three more days as the case was resumed this morning.

The presiding judge in the case in which two other Bulgarians, a Dutchman and a German Communist also are on trial, called Dimitroff's questions to the prosecutor "insulting."

CHURCH BACKS HITLER

BERLIN, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—The Protestant Church today joined in Chancellor Hitler's campaign for peace and equality.

Ludwig Mueller, the Reich's bishop, told an assembly of bishops it was their duty to secure the nation's "unanimous yes" for the Chancellor in the national plebiscite election November 12.

The bishop said:

"The issue at stake is whether falsehood or truth shall prevail in the life of the nation."

The assembly telegraphed President von Hindenburg and Chancellor Hitler assuring them of its support.

Mueller continued:

"Peace within the church is only possible if the pastors refrain from politics in the church."

He said the recent reorganization of the church would follow the lines of the Reich's reforms.

Cattle Turned Loose By Farmer Pickets

LEMARS, Ia., Nov. 3.—(INS.)—The river bottoms near here were literally alive with roaming cattle and hogs today, taken away from their owners last night by striking farmers.

The picketing farmers halted 15 trucks carrying livestock to market and unloaded the cattle and hogs and set them free.

Hitler Opponents Plan Mass Meeting

The Jewish People's Committee Against Hitlerism will hold a mass meeting at Frick Training School at 8 p. m. next Wednesday.

The purpose, according to President Harry Simon, will be to mobilize sentiment to enforce boycott of German-made goods.

CALLS BANKER 'BRIGAND'

CLEVELAND, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—The aftermath of the $13,000,000 Standard Trust Bank crash in 1931, here, brought prison sentences yesterday to two of its former officers.

Convicted on charges of embezzling approximately $19,000 from the institution, C. Stirling Smith, former president, was sentenced to serve from two to 37 years in the Ohio State Penitentiary and was fined $10,000 and costs by Common Pleas Judge Arthur H. Day. Dalte T. Winslow, former auditor, and co-defendant with Smith, was given a sentence of from one to 30 years.

Addressing the two men before he sentenced them, Judge Day, who heard their nine-day trial without a jury, turned first to Smith and said:

"As the evidence unfolded, I became convinced that you were no longer a banker in these deals, but a brigand."

Angered by Radio, Man Fires 3 Shots

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—A neighbor's radio was the innocent cause of John W. Grimes' arrest on a charge of reckless use of firearms.

Recentful because the neighbor would not close the door of his apartment and turn down the radio, Grimes, 50, fired three pistol shots into the ceiling of the apartment corridor, police said.

Newspaper Comics Good For Child, Savant Says

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—The comic sections of the daily newspapers constitute an important childhood literature, in the opinion of Dr. W. F. Lorenz, of the University of Wisconsin.

In a talk before the Wisconsin State Teachers' Association here, he said:

"The influence of the comic as emotional education for children is good.

"The comic sections supply material for emotional exercise that is healthy and normal for a child. I see only good and no harm whatever for children in the comic sections of our daily papers."

Dr. Lorenz also said the movies were good and healthy influences in the child's emotional life.

Six Lawyers Nominated For Cummins Vacancy

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—The county Republican committee today nominated six men to run for Common Pleas Judge at xt Tuesday's election in place Judge Erwin Cummins who ed yesterday.

The nominees are Roy I. Parn, of Charleroi; Warren S. urchinal, District Attorney of ashington; David M. McCloskey, f Charleroi; George I. Bloom, of Washington; Adolph L. Zeman, of Canonsburg, and Dwight M. Anderson, of Donora.

Judge Cummins' name already has been printed on the ballot but the County Commission today authorized the use of stickers bearing the name of the man who will be chosen by the county committee.

Commenting upon the death of Judge Erwin Cummins, 53, yesterday in Houston, Washington County, Gov. Gifford Pinchot today said:

"I am particularly grieved to learn of the judge's death because of his outspoken and courageous stand for the right of miners and other workers to organize. Labor has lost a sincere friend."

Judge Cummins' death was attributed to complications caused by laryngitis contracted during his campaign to succeed himself. He was a graduate of Westminster College, New Wilmington, in 1901 and of the old University of Western Pennsylvania in 1905.

HULL TO GIVE DEBT STATUS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—Secretary Hull told newsmen today he may soon be able to say whether the British debt conversations have narrowed to the question of the December 15 payment instead of a general final settlement.

Hull made this statement at his press conference after being closeted over an hour with Dean Acheson, Undersecretary of the Treasury. Acheson declined to comment.

Hull was asked:

"Are the conversations nearing an end?"

The Secretary replied he could not answer that question until later and that the conversations were still going on.

LATROBE VETERAN SLAYS WIDOW, THEN ENDS OWN LIFE

MOTIVE SOUGHT IN DOUBLE KILLING

Jobless, Pension Cut, Faced Parting With Woman He Loved

LATROBE, Pa., Nov. 3.—A motive was being sought today in the murder and suicide that claimed the lives of a Spanish-American War veteran, father of seven, and an attractive widow with whom he had been keeping company.

Mrs. Catherine Neager Graff, 32, twice widowed mother of two children, was shot down in her home late yesterday, police reported, by Harry Wilt, 53, former Frick mine boss and Latrobe storekeeper. He then fired a bullet into his own head.

Mrs. Graff was dead when neighbors investigated after hearing the shots. Wilt died later in the Latrobe Hospital without throwing light on the tragedy.

DESPONDENCY BLAMED

State police said despondency over the prospect of leaving the woman he loved may have prompted Wilt's act.

His pension as a veteran had been cut from $60 a month to $15. He had been unemployed and would have gone to Sewickley Monday to live with a daughter.

Wilt and his wife had been estranged for several years, according to state police. Since then Wilt had been seen frequently in the company of Mrs. Graff and visited her home.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Smith, occupying the other half of a double dwelling in which the slain widow lives, told police they had heard no quarreling before the shots.

'EXPECTING COMPANY'

Mrs. Graff had been shopping and told neighbors she was expecting company, prior to Wilt's arrival.

Hospital attendants told state police Wilt had been drinking.

Mrs. Graff has two children by her two husbands, Francis Ficfield, 17, and Mary Graff, 12. The husbands are dead. The slain woman's family is prominent in this district, her father having been a hotel proprietor for many years.

DENIES CHAPLIN WAS KIDNAPED

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Nov. 3.—(AP.)—Radio and published reports that Charlie Chaplin, movie comic artist, was kidnaped, held over night and released on payment of $20,000 ransom, several weeks ago brought the following statement from his manager, Alfred Reeves:

"A lot of paragraphers have had their fling on that kidnap story. I don't exactly know its source, but you may say Mr. Chaplin was not kidnaped, paid no ransom."

Previously Chaplin had denied the story to friends.

Ancient London Taxicab Spares Banker's Hat

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—An ancient taxi which cruised the streets of jolly old London for 14 years has been brought to New York because William H. Hamilton doesn't like to have his hat crushed every time he rides in a cab.

It seems these London cabs are high if nothing else, and the one Hamilton brought over is no exception. Compared to the streamlined cars of today it has the appearance of an old-time carriage.

Hamilton, former officer of the Guaranty Trust Company, took some friends for a trial spin in Gramercy Park yesterday, and said he was satisfied the cab suited his needs, in addition to giving him plenty of headroom.

The machine, which was built in 1919, cost Hamilton $37 in London, with ocean freight and import duty bringing the total cost to slightly more than $100.

MISS MILDRED SIGAL, 18 . . . . SHE'S SUING PAUL SPECHT

Dancer Accuses Specht Of Leaving Her Stranded

Band Leader Finds Contracts Attached On Arrival Here

A writ of foreign attachment for $300 brought against him by a pretty 18-year-old girl dancer does not disturb Paul Specht, dance band leader.

Arriving in Pittsburgh last night to play at Islam Grotto, he learned that both his contracts to play at Islam Grotto and also his contract to play for the University of Pittsburgh sophomore hop tonight had been attached by Mildred Sigal, of 2501 Center avenue.

A dancer in a burlesque show chorus here, she charges in her writ filed in Common Pleas Court that Specht stranded her in Reading, Pa., and forgot to pay her any salary. She says she was to get $50 a week.

Paul, undaunted, went ahead and made merry music anyway, saying:

"Miss Sigal was a dancer with the band for three and a half weeks and not six, and besides her salary was $30 a week and not $50.

"I'm the one who should file the writ. I got sick with ptomaine poisoning at Geneva, O., and while I was nearly dying Miss Sigal and four other dancers and the band ran away. I'm the one who should kick."

Specht, Mildred says, met her in Frederick, Md., and liked her dancing. He invited her to join his show, and she worked six weeks. Now she wants him to pay up. Her attorney, Samuel S. Cohen, filed the writ.

Miss Sigal said, when questioned about the matter:

"In the language of Mae West, he done me wrong—he ran away with my salary."

MRS. DICK ILL, DODGES QUIZ

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Mrs. William K. Dick, widow of John Jacob Astor who went down in the Titanic, was carried from the Monarch of Bermuda today on a stretcher, too ill to grant interviews or to continue her journey further than the Doctor's Hospital.

One question was brought to her bedside before disembarking:

"Are you going on to Paris to marry Enzo Fiermonte, the Italian boxer who claims you are engaged to him?"

She sent back word she had nothing to say.

Her physician, Dr. O. Weeks, who attended her on the voyage from Bermuda, said the shoulder and arm breaks she suffered in a fall some weeks ago were serious, and that she also is run down and in a nervous condition.

An unconfirmed rumor aboard the steamer was that Mrs. Dick's illness prevented her from carrying through plans to proceed directly from the Bermuda liner to one leaving for Cherbourg.

Fiermonte, who recently was refused admission as an "undesirable" to Bermuda, was formerly a boxing trainer for Mrs. Dick's two sons.

SUNDAY MUSIC TICKET SALES LEGAL HERE

Symphony Society Gets Permit Under New Concert Act

The Pittsburgh Symphony Society today has the first legal permission to sell concert tickets on Sundays. They will be to its five Sunday night concerts.

The first concert of the season will be held, in Syria Mosque November 19.

The permit was issued under provisions of the Sunday Concert Act approved by the State Legislature June 2, which limits the Blue Laws of 1794.

Its issuance marked the end of a fight begun in 1927, when 10 members of the organization were arrested for violation of the Blue Laws in connection with a concert for members of the society who subscribed to the fund necessary for defraying expenses. No admission tickets were sold at the door that night.

When brought to trial the 10 were acquitted. Since that time the society has continued to hold concerts under the subscription method.

George Gershwin, noted composer of "Rhapsody in Blue," will be the guest conductor at the first concert. He will play his own composition, a concerto for piano, and accompany a 90-piece orchestra when it plays his rhapsody.

The orchestra will be conducted by Antonio Modarelli.

SCORES KILLING OF PARK GAME

Unsportsmanlike hunters shooting tame squirrels and quail in Frick Park drew fire today from Public Works Director Edward G. Lang. He said:

"I regret very much that any men are so dead to humanity as to shoot tame wild life in city parks. The fullest penalty of the law will be meted out to those found guilty."

Lang said he would ask police to patrol the park, a game preserve under state law. Hunting also is forbidden within city limits.

Hunting casualties in Western Pennsylvania declined sharply yesterday.

Five persons were injured, none seriously, among them Mrs. Mary Ann Minerd, 70, shot in the arm and side as she stood on the back porch of her home near Masontown.

Sleuths Hunt Graves Of Two Cabaret Girls

Racketeers' Sweeties Believed Victims Of Gang Guns

International News Service.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 3.—Detectives today scoured the pinelands of Southern New Jersey and the woods near Downingtown, Pa., for the graves where they believed lie buried the night club girl sweethearts of two Philadelphia racketeers marked for death because they attempted to "muscle in" on the numbers racket at Camden.

Meanwhile, Lawrence Doran, chief of the Camden County detectives, questioned a woman witness who it was believed may have some clue to the fate of the two girls, the sweethearts of Edward (Cowboy) Wallace, "taken for a ride" in Camden last Wednesday morning with his companion, John Zukorsky, who, however, survived the hail of gangland bullets.

The woman, who lives in Gloucester, N. J., told police she was almost struck by a bullet fired from a wildly careening automobile resembling the machine of Ethel Marshall, one of the missing girls. The shots were fired as the car sped down a mid-city street in South Camden early Wednesday morning, the woman said.

The Marshall girl's bullet-torn and blood-stained car was found abandoned on the farm of Robert F. Curry, 10 miles northeast of Downingtown. Discovery of the car led police to believe the girl, who was Zukorsky's sweetheart, and Florence Miller, formerly a cigaret girl in an Atlantic City night club, Wallace's girl friend, were slain by the same gunmen who had marked the two men for extinction.

A heavy fog over the Brandywine Creek halted searchers near Downingtown for several hours, but the hunt for freshly-dug graves was resumed later in the morning.

JAPAN SHIFTS CHINA TROOPS

PEIPING, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—With speculation rife regarding possible trouble between Russia and Japan in Manchuria, great interest has been aroused by Japan's sudden complete withdrawal of troops from the demilitarized zone.

With the sudden complete withdrawal, a full Japanese division will now be made available in Northern Manchuria in case relations with the Soviets grow worse.

Reversing its former stiff attitude, Japan allowed Chinese police to bring artillery and machine guns into the neutral zone to fight bandits, thereby constituting a police military body capable of controlling the area.

DIVORCE WAITS BALM OFFER BY M'CORMICK

Lawyer Hints $250,000 Demand to Settle $1,500,000 Suit

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—Henry Uterhart, counsel for Mrs. Rhoda Tanner Doubleday in her $1,500,000 breach of promise action against Harold F. McCormick, wealthy Chicagoan, said today there might be negotiations for a settlement out of court.

John P. Wilson, of Chicago, counsel for Mr. McCormick, is in New York, Uterhart asserted, adding that the question of a settlement has not been discussed by the attorneys for the two sides since before the case was started.

Uterhart's Chicago colleague in Mrs. Doubleday's case, Henry K. Urion, conferred with him last night. Uterhart said:

"I am going to my office and shall be open to offers."

He has had no offers so far, he said, and no intimation that a settlement will be reached today.

The Chicago attorneys are not here by pre-arrangement, Uterhart said.

A cash settlement of at least $250,000 is expected by Uterhart. He said Mrs. Doubleday has in her possession 100 or more letters, which he described as "classics," written to her by McCormick.

Mrs. Doubleday is a socially prominent New York divorcee.

After the suit was filed in Chicago October 24, McCormick announced that he would fight the action. Counsel for Mrs. Doubleday has intimated, however, that McCormick "didn't care to let the suit come to trial."

Ganna Walska, former opera singer, who divorced McCormick a few years ago, recently arrived from Paris. Asked whether her coming had anything to do with speeding up the present suit, Uterhart answered:

"I can see no connection."

SLAIN GIRL HELD VANISHED WIFE

unable to locate Sybil at that address.

Further proof that the girl who was found slain in a sewer beneath the Allegheny River boulevard, near Verona, last Monday had many aliases was furnished today when a prisoner, handcuffed, was taken from the county jail to the morgue, where he identified her as "Boots" Shirley, a waitress in Hill district restaurants.

The prisoner is James Capadonna, jailed on a liquor charge.

MET GIRL IN DETROIT

Young Ezolt said he had met the girl he married in Detroit in 1929. Her name was Ethel Treadway, Ezolt said. They were married in Pontiac, Mich., in 1929.

But whether she is or is not Ezolt's wife, he told county detectives he had no money with which to bury her.

Ezolt produced a photograph of his wife, which County Detectives Sam Whisner and Michael McDermott declared was a picture of the woman they dragged from the storm sewer near Verona last Monday. They contend that the corpse's changed appearance is not unprecedented.

MANHUNT SNAGGED

With the furor over identification, the hunt for the killers was at a standstill. Nor have the police been able to locate Palladino who was reported to have gone to New York after two months of quarrelsome married life with "Boots."

A dozen acquaintances of Palladino and "Boots" have identified the corpse as that of his wife, who worked in several East Liberty restaurants. But one or two others insist otherwise; they say she isn't "Boots."

AIR LINER CRASH LAID TO BOMB

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—A theory that a bomb left aboard a New York-to-Chicago transport plane exploded and caused it to crash with the death of its seven occupants near Chesterton, Ind., was advanced today by the Tribune when it said it had learned federal men were seeking a gangster.

While Department of Justice agents refused to comment, the Tribune said it had learned from an authoritative source that the man sought, whose name was not given, would be charged with murder if caught, for having left the explosive aboard while a passenger on a previous trip.

Officials of the United Air Lines, operators of the giant twin-motor ship that dropped out of the skies the night of October 10 while farmers watched, said they were not at liberty to comment. They said their part in the investigation was merely to supply information.

MOTHER TELLS MURREL STORY OF 'ATTACK'

Universal Service

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Nov. 3.—The assistance of an internationally known criminal lawyer has been offered Lieut. John H. Murrel, 9th Infantry, former West Point football idol, to fight a federal charge of attacking Miss Blanche Ralls, 28-year-old Birmingham beauty, at Fort Sam Houston, on October 22.

The offer of aid was announced by members of the young officer's family. They said the attorney, whose identity they refused to divulge, would be retained by wealthy admirers of the former All-America football star in New York. No intimation was given whether the offer would be accepted.

FAMILY VERSION

Meanwhile, Mrs. J. R. Murrell, mother of the accused officer, gave the family's version of the night club party which ended in the filing of the attack charges by the comely red-head.

She said Miss Ralls was in the company of Phil Wright, Jr., son of the San Antonio commissioner of police, and Forrest Miller, a government employe, when her son met her.

It was at a filling station operated by Wright that Murrell met the party after leaving Shadowland, a night club.

Miss Ralls, according to Mrs. Murrell, fell out of the Wright car into a grease rack. She refused to re-enter the car and when Lieut. Murrell offered to take her home, ran down the street, saying she did not want to go home with a strange man.

DRINKING AT CLUB

Miss Ralls, so the family version relates, was finally calmed by the young officer and placed in his car. She appeared ill, they said, as there had been much drinking at the night club. Lieut. Murrel started for Fort Sam Houston, to have his mother and sister put Miss Ralls to bed.

The couple, the mother said, tried to park on the highest hill on the military reservation, but the brakes were not working well, and the car started rolling down the incline while Miss Ralls was seated on the running board.

She was jolted off and the jar revived her, Mrs. Murrel said, permitting her to give Lieut. Murrel her home address, and he took her there.

Court in Turmoil As Husky Sleuth Does Hula-Hula

OAKLAND, Cal., Nov. 3.—(INS)—A husky 250-pound policeman today [illegible] his "interpretation" in court of the hula-hula dance he witnessed before police raided the [illegible] Palace, Oakland's burlesque theater.

The policeman is Jack R. Leonhardt. When he attempted the "kind of a round-and-round motion," as he explained it, Judge Harold L. Bacon had considerable difficulty in restoring order in the courtroom.

Even the 12 women jurors, 10 of whom are mothers, doubled up with laughter.

KIDNAP DEFENSE ASSAILS POLICE

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Hoping to save George McKee from the gallows for an alleged part in the $30,000 kidnaping of Miss Mary McElroy, defense attorneys today promised to introduce evidence of police brutality in an effort to bar testimony of detectives and policemen.

Ralph Harding, defense attorney, obtained this concession after the state had introduced Detective William Simpson as a witness in its efforts to show McGee was implicated with his brother, Walter, and others, in the plot to abduct the 21-year-old daughter of H. F. McElroy, city manager. Simpson was one of the detectives who returned McGee to Kansas City following his arrest at Roanoke, Va.

Harding told Judge Emory H. Wright:

"The testimony of these policemen should not be admitted. You will understand why when I introduce evidence of police brutality of which I can scarcely tell. No policeman should be in this case after that."

Judge Wright then offered to hear such testimony.

NOTES OF LOVE FAIL TO CLEAR N. Y. SLAYING

Universal Service

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—The latest murder in poet-ridden Greenwich Village continued a mystery today as the death of Walter E. Kleinert, who worked at the prosaic job of claim adjuster and played at a pseudo-artistic social life, went unexplained.

A pair of blue silk pajamas and love letters from girls were unrevealing clues in solving the murder of Kleinert, found in his small Jones street apartment strangled to death. He was a powerful man and police were baffled by the fact that the apartment showed no signs of physical resistance by Kleinert.

No motive was revealed as authorities discovered money and jewelry intact. Only thumbprints showed on the victim's throat.

Kleinert, born in Waterbury, Mass., lived for some years in Bridgeport, and spent a year at Camp Greenleaf, Chattanooga. Later he moved to Hartford, thence to Worcester, Mass., and finally arrived in New York as a claim adjuster.

His life in New York was typical of Greenwich Village. There were late candle-lit cocktail parties, long haired youths read poetry to each other or there were gayer nights when there were women visitors with considerable drinking and dancing.

SQUIRE TO HEAR WISER CHARGE

An information against Lee A. Wiser, burgess of Forest Hills, charging misdemeanor in office, has been filed before Justice of the Peace Calvin D. Blakley, of 715 Larimer avenue, Wilkins Township, and a hearing will be held tonight at 7 o'clock.

The information is made by W. J. Campbell, a citizen of the borough. Wiser is accused of being interested in the sale of paving materials to the borough during his term of office as burgess.

Assistant District Attorney George F. P. Langfitt has refused to join in a petition to oust Wiser, brought by five citizens of the borough and based on similar charges. Langfitt said the evidence as submitted did not warrant action.

COMPANY SUES FLANNERY FOR $600,000

J. Rogers Flannery, Pittsburgh business man, is named defendant in an equity suit filed in Federal Court by the Flannery Bolt Company, a Delaware corporation with offices here, which asks an accounting for disposition of approximately $600,000 funds of the company, while he was president.

The bill avers Flannery controlled policies of the company through three members of the board of directors, his wife, Mrs. Adelaide F. Flannery, also vice president, and James J. Flannery, Jr., a brother, and Franklin H. Allison.

Mr. Flannery said:

"The suit involves ownership of a bolt now being patented which the company asserts I own and in which I have absolutely no ownership.

"Financial claims against the company more than offset the claims cited."

GRAF THRILL FOR GRANDMA

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—The flying grandmother—Mrs. Peter Holland, 74, who played hookey from home to board the Graf Zeppelin, has been having, as the man in the street might say, "a swell time."

After the Zeppelin reached its home port at Friedrichshafen, Germany, yesterday, Mrs. Holland sent a radiogram to her daughters, Mrs. Lillian Dobson and Mrs. J. W. Young, that she "never had so much fun in her life."

Mrs. Holland boarded the big dirigible at Akron, O., last week, and didn't let her relatives know she was aboard until the airship was over the Atlantic. She has no relatives in Germany and made the trip just for the ride.

She started back home last night by boat.

Convicted Bombers Facing Long Terms

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—(INS.)—James Catuaro and William Palermo, convicted by a jury of professional bombers, today faced the prospect of serving from 5 to 25 years in the penitentiary.

The two men were convicted under the state bomb law forbidding possession of dynamite "for bombing purposes." Police arrested the pair and found a packet of dynamite sticks, with fuse attached, in the automobile they were driving.

PARENTS BALK SCHOOL STRIKE

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Nov. 3—(AP.)—Parental authority today broke a one-day strike called by 21 boys at the Wilkes-Barre Township High School.

Protesting against being transferred from their regular classroom to the auditorium, which they declared was cold, the boys went on strike yesterday.

They also complained they were compelled to take physical training, although most of them are on the football and basketball teams and get enough exercise.

The boys called off their strike today, but won a concession. School authorities agreed that the strikers would not have to report for classes until Monday.

Denying that the auditorium is cold, officials of the school said crowded conditions necessitated the change and added the boys are really more disgruntled about the loss of their "home room" and the compulsory physical training than about "cold."

THOMAS SEES FASCIST TREND

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—The trend in America, declares Norman Thomas, is more definitely than ever toward Fascism.

The Socialist leader, who returned yesterday from a six weeks' tour of the Middle and Far West, said the plan of Gerard Swope for self-control are regimented industry is a further evidence of this trend.

Thomas said:

"Only the united opposition of labor and the agrarian areas can prevent the set-up of a Fascist state. With such unity behind him, President Roosevelt—if he is of a mind to do so—can thwart this final effort of the capitalist system to save itself."

Although he reported finding a steady lessening of confidence in the NRA and the AAA, Thomas said:

"The President is still as popular through the land as when he assumed office."

WHISKY AT $22 PER CASE SEEN IN STATE

be interested in the [illegible] which could be derived through intricate licensing.

Federal officials also have been consulted, and from them has been obtained some estimate of the proposed federal tax.

The total proposed tax per gallon is $3. The federal government wishes its share of the tax to be $2.20, with the state levy 80 cents. Some state officials believe that if legislation can be rushed ahead of the convening of Congress in January they can fix the state tax at one dollar, and thus block the federal government into imposing no more than $2.

BLENDS CHEAPER

While Gov. Pinchot, in Pittsburgh yesterday, declined to discuss details or figures, it was learned from a reliable source that the $22 a case figure is the index of his efforts toward which he has been working. Blended whiskys would be sold at a cheaper price.

State liquor stores would be established at convenient locations throughout the state, and there would be as little trouble as possible confronting the purchaser.

The Governor's desire is to make whisky so cheap as to offset any competition from bootleggers, and he believes the $22 price would do this. Under no conditions will he accept legislation which means a cost of more than $24 a case, or $2 a quart.

MAY LIMIT QUANTITY

Some limitation may be placed upon each purchaser, though it is understood that this is not bulking large in the Governor's plans. With the people voting repeal, he is represented as disposed to feel that the individual should regulate his own temperate consumption, the effort to legally force teetotalism having failed.

As a means of keeping the operation of the state liquor stores out of politics, the Governor has offered to have them staffed by employes under civil service, who could become no part of a political machine.

Centralized supervision of the stores would be under control of a commission or single administrator, a post for which John D. Pennington has been urged by many wets and drys.

NOT FOR BARBECUES

Licenses for resale, or to places which would sell for consumption on the premises, would be confined strictly to legitimate hotels and restaurants.

Places which now have beer licenses could also procure liquor licenses if they meet the requirements.

The "ham sandwich" and barbecue type eating place will not be considered as a restaurant.

The fee for these places has not been determined, but it will be higher than the license for beer.

HIGHER-POWERED BEER

Coincident with the liquor legislation after repeal, the state beer law will be rewritten to eliminate the provision fixing the alcoholic content at 3.2. Instead of specifying the alcoholic content, the law will apply to "malt beverages," which means that higher-powered beer can be brewed and sold under the same conditions which now obtain.

The aggreement on the liquor question will be laid before the Legislature. It is sure to meet opposition from certain types of lawyer members who will fight anything which eliminates them from representing liquor clients.

The plan, however, will have the support of the Governor, the drys, and the wets who have been in the forefront of the repeal battle, including the Crusaders and the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment. Acting together they will push for adoption of the proposal.

VETS' LEADER SCORES FARLEY

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—James E. Van Zandt, national commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, charges the Democratic administration "has broken every promise made to veterans in its campaign pledges." He said last night:

"They have openly disregarded the preference granted to veterans under the civil service law.

"James A. Farley has carried on wholesale discharge of veterans in the immigration service and the veterans administration for the sole purpose of passing out jobs to his political friends.

"I urge every veteran to keep this in mind when voting at the next congressional and the next presidential elections."

Mormons Hold Key To Repeal in Utah

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—Leaders in Utah's repeal campaign, both those for and against abolition of the Eighteenth Amendment, concede the outcome hinges on the attitude of the membership of the Latter Day Saints Church.

The church membership is estimated as constituting about 60 per cent of the state's 140,000 votes. Officials of the church have asked for an anti-repeal vote next Tuesday, but a number of influential members have been quoted in the press as advocating repeal.

Two From County Get U. S.-State Jobs

HARRISBURG, Nov. 3.—(INS.)—Two Allegheny County residents held appointments today to the Federal-State Employment Service office at Pittsburgh. William H. Storer, Pittsburgh, and Mrs. Hilda A. Baker, Clairton, were named senior employment examiners.

Vote for Repeal, Farley Urges North Carolina

International News Service.

RALEIGH, N. C., Nov. 3.—The opportunity is at hand for North Carolina to take a decisive part in ending the disastrous and costly experiment of national prohibition, Postmaster General Farley, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, declared today at a meeting of the state's Democratic leaders.

North Carolina will be one of the six states which on Tuesday next will vote on the question of repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

Farley said:

"President Roosevelt has indicated to me his personal interest in the early accomplishment of repeal. I feel not the slightest hesitancy in saying that he would suffer a personal disappointment should repeal fail next Tuesday. The President has kept faith with the people of this country in his covenant with them. Now let us keep faith with the President."

Farley warned against overconfidence, saying he did not dispute the fact that the overwhelming victories for repeal in 33 states which have already voted, encouraged a tendency to believe "it is all over but the shouting." He added:

"The fact remains we cannot win elections without voters. It does no good to say that the American people have made up their minds to remove the Eighteenth Amendment from the constitution. It must remain there until the thirty-sixth state has ratified the twenty-first amendment."

PRESIDENT EYES LIQUOR POLICY

By GEORGE R. HOLMES

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—President Roosevelt is giving serious study to federal liquor policy after the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment on December 5, next.

While the questions involved in sale, consumption, the return of the saloon, etc., automatically revert to the states upon repeal's becoming effective, the federal government still has some knotty questions of its own to work out.

The government has to decide upon tax and tariff rates, how to protect dry territory from wet invasion, and how much, if any, control to attempt over importations. The situation as it now exists is:

Foreign importations are forbidden under the presidential embargo laid down some weeks ago. This embargo will continue until repeal is effective.

Thereafter, liquor becomes like any other commodity so far as importation goes, being subject only to tax and tariff rates.

REPEAL VERDICT DUE TUESDAY AT MIDNIGHT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—By next Tuesday midnight the nation should know whether the Eighteenth Amendment is to be deleted from the Constitution.

Ballots in six states will tell the tale, although actual ratification of the result, in state conventions, cannot come before December 5.

Kentucky Tuesday postpones tabulation of ballots for a day, but returns from Pennsylvania, Ohio, Utah and North and South Carolina should show the outcome.

Administration leaders express no doubt about the result, claiming that all these states will join the wet parade now numbering 33 commonwealths. Thirty-six states are necessary for ratification of the substitute constitutional amendment, leaving but three to be added.

EARLY TABULATION

The hours, in eastern standard time, at which the polls close in the six states are:

Pennsylvania, 7 p. m.; Utah, 9 p. m.; North Carolina, sundown, about 5:20 p. m.; South Carolina, 4 p. m., except 6 p. m. in three cities, and Kentucky, 5 p. m., with the count deferred a day.

Early tabulation is expected in most of the states because of the few issues before the voters.

Reports to administration officials from the states indicate:

PENNSYLVANIA—Wets leading by substantial margin.

KENTUCKY—Anti-prohibitionists confident of a majority.

OHIO—Drys expect to force a close vote.

UTAH—A tight squeeze for wets as drys pursue fight.

NORTH CAROLINA—Drys in western section along with complicated voting forecasts uncertain outcome.

SOUTH CAROLINA — Wets forging ahead despite little interest.

Besides repeal elections Tuesday, the end of the three-cornered mayoralty contest in New York City and election of assemblies in New York, Virginia, Kentucky and New Jersey are scheduled.

NATIONAL INTEREST

In view of the Republicans' recent opening shot for the congressional campaign next year, interest in these and other scattered elections has been stimulated.

Among the other election questions up Tuesday are:

OHIO—State repeal, old age pensions, limitation of real estate taxes, reorganization of county governments.

PENNSYLVNIA—Twelve proposed state constitutional amendments including modification of the Sunday Blue Law, bond issues for unemployment relief and bonuses for ex-service men.

VIRGINIA—Selection of a United States Senator, Governor, other high state officials and 100 members of the state House of Representatives.

UTAH—State repeal, minimum wage law for women and children.

KENTUCKY—House of Representatives, a number of Senate seats, various district judges and attorneys.

Society Matron Sees Hip Flask Doomed

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—Mrs. William Laird Dunlop, who is a member of one of Virginia's aristocratic families and whose business is bringing out debutantes, predicts repeal will soon ban the hip flask and its contents from fashionable parties.

During the prohibition years, she said, the brilliant social events for which she has been sponsor, in common with all events of their kind, have had the hidden accompaniment of the hip flask. She related:

"In the young society group with which I deal, prohibition made drinking the spectacular thing, and gave whisky far too important a place.

"Whisky became fashionable, whereas it used to be thought disgraceful. Before the Eighteenth Amendment, the young girl was shocked if her escort presented himself with even the aroma of whisky on his breath, and refused to go out with him.

"After the Eighteenth Amendment, drinking became such a vogue that unless a young man came with a flask, he was not welcomed.

"Repeal will kill that vogue.

"The very instant that liquor returns to a legalized thing, it will lose its false glamor."

Sees More Tubs For Bathing After Repeal

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 3.—(INS.)—Dr. J. C. Geiger, city health officer, yesterday predicted an increase in bathing as a result of the impending repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. He said:

"Bathtubs will be more available now that bathtub gin appears doomed."

U. S. and Mexico Negotiate Claims

MEXICO, D. F., Nov. 3.—(AP.)—Ambassador Daniels conferred for an hour late yesterday with Acting Foreign Minister Jiminez Dominguez, apparently in connection with negotiations for a lump sum settlement of all Mexico-United States claims.

It is expected an agreement will be reached before the end of the year.

No License, Bakery Driver Fined $25

A driver for the Rosenbloom bakery, of Squirrel Hill, was fined $25 today by Magistrate James J. Lumbie, in McKeesport Police Court. Police testified that the driver, Harry Beresbovsky, 20, of 574 Corey avenue, Braddock, was selling bread without a license.

STATE REPEAL LEADERS BUSY

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—While each side is moving to bring out its full strength on the question of prohibition repeal, there appears to be more interest among Pennsylvania voters in the adoption or defeat of proposed constitutional amendments to be voted on next Tuesday.

Coincident with the campaigns to fill a host of municipal offices, leaders in the repeal movement have been quietly at work to elect their 15 candidates to the state convention which acts December 5 on abrogation of the Eighteenth Amendment.

Similarly, organizations interested in retention of the law have been active in arousing sentiment for their cause.

All cities and other municipalities will vote on the question of permitting Sunday baseball and football between 2 and 6 p. m., and more than 300 communities will decide whether to permit the sale of beer within their corporate boundaries.

Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, incidentally, are the only two cities with major league baseball teams where Sunday games are not permitted.

Light Wines, Beer Inspire New Liberty Song

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—The imminence of "personal liberty" day at the World Fair—and other events, he said—moved Alderman John ("Bathhouse") Coughlin to compose a "New Song of Liberty" today.

"The song," said the alderman-poet, "is to be sung with free beer," which is to be dispensed with sandwiches next Wednesday—the day after several states vote on the question of repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment—at the exposition. It follows:

"Sweet liberty! What do I see?
Light wines and beer—dear heart.
They're here!
My dream's come true; full steins
Of brew!
You're the pretzel of my heart,
Sweet Liberty!"

Chaplin's Ex-Wife Fulfills Contract

MARION, Ill., Nov. 3.—(Universal.) — Mrs. Mildred Harris Chaplin, divorced wife of Charlie Chaplin, fulfilled her part of the contract when she appeared here for a Halloween dance even if her orchestra made a mistake and went to Marion, Ind., a court ruled here yesterday.

The ruling released her property which had been attached by the dance hall staging the Halloween entertainment.

RESTORE PEACE IN HOLY LAND

JERUSALEM, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—Peace was believed restored in the Holy Land today.

The Arab executive, sponsor of the Arab demonstrations against increasing Jewish immigration, ordered all Arab establishments to reopen for normal business.

Since the strike was called a week ago, outbreaks in many parts of Palestine resulted in the deaths of at least 30 persons. Hundreds were injured.

Authorities expressed confidence the situation was well in hand for the present, but continued to maintain a close watch.

RAE INDUCTED AS MEMBER OF TAX BOARD

James Rae, president of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce for two terms, today was sworn in by County Commissioner C. C. McGovern as a member of the County Board of Assessment and Revision of Taxes. The job pays $4,250 a year.

Rae was appointed by the board on McGovern's recommendation. He served for several months as an emissary of the Commissioners at Washington and Harrisburg. He was assigned the task of trying to get United States funds for self-liquidating and outright-aid projects for the county.

The vacancy on the board followed the death of John [illegible] last week.

Commissioner C. M. Barr joined with McGovern to appoint Rae.

FARLEY BOOST PLEASES M'KEE

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Joseph V. McKee, Recovery Party aspirant for Mayor, said today that the indorsement of his candidacy by Postmaster General James A. Farley puts him in the same class with President Roosevelt and Governor Lehman of New York.

McKee said:

"I am grateful, "for the expression of confidence in me on the part of the Postmaster General."

The recovery candidate has been charged by his opponents with attempting to present himself as the Washington administration's choice for the mayoralty. President Roosevelt has not declared himself publicly.

Mr. Farley last night explained he would vote for McKee, but his statement made it clear he was speaking as an individual and not as Democratic National Chairman.

Kane Assails Fisher As 'Mellon Employe'

Paints Ex-Governor As 'Alibi Man' For G. O. P.

Representative John J. Kane, Democratic candidate for City Council, at a noon meeting in Democratic headquarters today declared it was appropriate that former Gov. John S. Fisher, "Mellon employe," should be on the stage at the Republican rally tonight in Duquesne Garden.

In the absence of Senator David A. Reed and Republican State Chairman Edward Martin, whom Kane also referred to as Mellon employes, the former Governor is qualified to represent intolerance of approval of social legislation, Kane said. Kane referred to Fisher's position as president of the "Mellon-controlled Chamber of Commerce," as fitting him to explain to the voters the killing by the Republican organization of the old age pension bill and other measures which he said were in the interest of social justice.

The presence of Fisher, Kane declared, emphasizes that this municipal campaign dovetails into the next state political battle. Kane said:

"It is likely Fisher will devote most of his address to a recital of the glowing plans that the Republican party in the state has for the future. He may not be as outspoken as County Chairman William H. Coleman, who came out flatfootedly against the National Recovery Act, saying it was a failure and will never work.

"Of course, any act that has abolished child labor, that has eliminated the sweatshop and that has put an end to starvation wages, that is putting an end to price-cutting in industry, would never meet the approval of the Mellon brand of politics."

Kane said that Republican victory next Tuesday would be the first blow at the National Recovery Act and will be a return toward child labor and the sweatshop.

William N. McNair, Democratic mayoralty candidate, speaking at the University of Pittsburgh conference on municipal issues, reemphasized his taxation policies, saying that a tax on land five times that on buildings would help the small home owner. He promised to use his influence with the Legislature for laws which would permit a reorganization of the city government along economical lines.

Mayor John S. Herron, McNair said, in answering a Sun-Telegraph questionnaire, reveals himself as favoring a continued tax exemption on the real estate of public utilities which McNair would assess for local revenue.

Roosevelt Names 4 To Philippine Posts

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today appointed Joseph Ralston Hayden, of Michigan, to be vice governor of the Philippine Islands.

He named Anacleto Diaz, of the Philippines, and Leonard S. Goddard, of Tennessee, to be associate justices of the Supreme Court of the Philippines, and appointed J. Weldon Jones, of Ohio, auditor of the islands.

Van Essen Flays M'Nair Tax Plan

William J. Van Essen, Socialist candidate for Mayor, characterized William N. McNair as "safe to the very interests he has assailed in this campaign" at a meeting held in party headquarters yesterday afternoon. Van Essen said:

"When McNair expressed himself against public ownership of public utilities last Monday at the Hungry Club and advocated a tax plan that would lower taxation to a few large property holders, he made himself and the Democratic party safe to the very interests he has assailed in this campaign."

The final rallies of the Socialist campaign will be Saturday night at Federal and South Diamond streets and South Thirteenth and Carson streets.

Human nature, including fondness for speculation, does not change in one generation or in ten. A seat on the stock exchange, with its small membership, will be worth in future twice the highest price on record, with fairly intelligent stock exchange management.

RICH SPINSTER MISSING WEEKS

International News Service.

DENVILLE, N. J., Nov. 3.—Fearful her unexplained absence indicates she may be a kidnap victim or has met with foul play, state and county police today broadcast an alarm for Martha Jane Cooper, 71-year-old spinster, who has not been seen nor heard from since she left her estate on the outskirts of this town on August 16.

Two well-dressed women, who visited the estate shortly before Miss Cooper disappeared, are the immediate objects of a police search, officers disclosed.

News of her disappearance did not become public until several weeks after she left her home in company with the women, saying she was going on a "two weeks vacation to Parsippany," eight miles away.

When Miss Cooper failed to return at the end of the two weeks, Leonard Carnerio, caretaker of her property, notified Mrs. Kirk Phillips, a sister of Deadwood, S. D.

The missing woman, friends said, recently inherited extensive real estate holdings from her father's estate. It was also stated frequent and sizeable withdrawals from accounts she maintained in four banks had been made.

Cattle Rustlers Hijack Trucks In Chicago

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—(INS.)—Almost within the shadows of cosmopolitan skyscrapers, a gang of seven alleged modern cattle rustlers were under arrest here yesterday in connection with the hijacking of at least 20 trucks of cattle being driven to market by farmers.

Sergt. James Kehoe, who seized the gang, said three men confessed, bringing about the arrest of the other four. One of the men, he said, owns a farm at La Grange, Wis., where the stolen cattle were taken. For that reason, the whole gang will be turned over to the federal government, Sergt. Kehoe said.

Those arrested gave Chicago addresses.

RICH SPANIARD FLEES JAIL

MADRID, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—Juan March, Spanish millionaire, whose expulsion two years ago from the Chamber of Deputies on a charge of giving bribes and his subsequent imprisonment caused a national sensation, escaped late last night from Alcala de Henares prison.

Last night, according to the official version, he went to the night chief and pleaded that he was seriously ill, presenting certificates from leading physicians to prove his contention.

He also told the guard chief that he feared there was a Socialist plot afoot to assassinate him and that he was not safe in prison.

The chief yielded to the wealthy prisoner's pleas and permitted him to walk out of jail by the main door. There he was loaded into a fast automobile filled with friends, who started away at high speed.

TENEMENT FIRE TAKES 9 LIVES

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Nov. 3.—(AP.)—Nine Negroes, six of them children, lost their lives when fire swept a three-story building in a tenement district today. Three others are in a hospital in a critical condition from burns.

The dead were trapped on the roof and top floor of the building after the fire spread rapidly from the ground floor. Several other occupants made their way to safety in their nightclothes.

Police said the origin of the fire was of suspicious character and ordered an investigation.

Morgantown Man Commits Suicide

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 3.—(AP.)—J. Lewis Caldwell, 45, well-known Morgantown business man, was found dead in a bedroom of his palatial home last night, a revolver nearby.

Dr. R. C. Farrier, Coroner, said he died of a self-inflicted bullet wound. Police said they could discover no motive for the shooting.

Junior Patrol Mail Box

Warm weather the last few days makes it seem more like spring than fall, doesn't it, fellows?

Seems like old Dame Nature has been anxious to give us our fill of warm weather before she calls down the snow and icy winds from the North.

You know, we wouldn't be surprised if some of the trees and bushes haven't started budding during the warm spell. It would be interesting to look and see, anyway, fellows.

What are you doing to help others? Here's an idea—there are probably some boys and girls in your neighborhood who are just new. Perhaps they have just moved to your district. Why not go see them and invite them to join your Junior Patrol?

Junior and Spike and Snuggines seem to have taken on a big bunch of fellows when they agreed to play a football game with Butch and his gangster club. We wonder how it is all going to turn out. But we are banking on Junior to think up some smart things for his team to do.

Maybe he will try a forward pass right down the middle of the field. You know, a lot of football players watch the ends run out to each side and forget that a fast halfback may come running straight ahead. Or maybe Junior will try an end run when the gangsters aren't expecting it.

Football, of course, is a game that requires co-operation from all the players. We call it "team play." No one fellow can try to get glory all for himself and be successful. The fellow who carries the ball wouldn't get far if his teammates didn't "clear the way and block out the opponents who are trying to tackle him. We hope all the Junior Patrol captains remember that, and the members, too. The strongest club is the club whose members always work together.

Captains, we would like to have the programs of your meetings. If you have a party or have a show or a hike in the country, let us know about it. And, don't forget, all you members who would like to be captains, that you need 10 members in your club to hold an election for the captain.

DOPE RING SALE OF GIRLS FOR $100 BARED

By WOOSTER TAYLOR
Universal Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 3. — Young girls between the ages of 16 and 20 are being sold out of San Francisco to a ring of Sacramento dope peddlers at the standard rate of $100 each.

They are picked up at local employment agencies by women agents of the ring, who take advantage of the fact that the girls are hungry and desperate. The agent is allowed just one week to addict a girl to the use of morphine.

On delivery at Sacramento, the girl is placed in a disorderly house and the evolution of another steady "customer" for the dope peddlers is complete.

This almost incredible situation was revealed by William G. Walker, chief of the California Division of Narcotic Enforcement. He said:

"My hands are tied so far as interfering seriously with this terrible traffic in young girls. At present we have only two inspectors working in this entire northern district, and an equal number at Los Angeles.

"The federals can't help us. The government has cut their appropriation nearly in half."

The state enforcement chief said the outlook was never more serious, what with the sudden influx of narcotics from Japan, the curtailment of federal activity and the approaching repeal of prohibition, which will turn hundreds of underworld characters from bootlegging and liquor rackets to dope smuggling and peddling.

CAR HITS POLE, DOCTOR HURT

Dr. C. C. Moyar, of 12 North Grandview avenue, Crafton, was injured slightly when his automobile, forced off the road by another approaching from the opposite direction, struck a pole in Sawmill Run boulevard last night, according to a police report.

The pole, snapped off at its base, fell on the physician's machine. Dr. Moyar emerged from the damaged automobile with only a slight bump on the chest and a possible sprained wrist.

NADINE BATTLE ENDS IN COURT

Judge Elder W. Marshall yesterday wrote the last chapter in the dispute over construction of the Nadine road when he dismissed the preliminary injunction sought by the Pennsylvania Water Company to prevent the county from taking its property.

The Judge said his action was taken because the water company and others concerned had entered into a written agreement.

J. B. CULLUM TO BE BURIED TOMORROW

J. Barlow Cullum, well-known Pittsburgh businessman and Pennsylvania coal operator, will be buried tomorrow in Pottsville, Pa. Funeral services are at 3 p. m. tomorrow in Reading, Pa.

He died at 6 p. m. Wednesday at his River Edge Farm home in Reading, Pa., after an illness following an operation several months ago. He was born in Meadville, Pa., 64 years ago, a great-nephew of Gen. George Washington Cullum, chief of engineers in the Union Army during the Civil War and later commandant at West Point.

Cullum Hall at West Point was presented to the Military Academy by the general.

GRADUATED IN 1890

After he graduated from Lehigh University as a metallurgical engineer in 1890, Mr. Cullum got his first job with the Coleman Furnace Company at Lebanon, Pa. He became interested in coal mining in various sections of Pennsylvania, making his home in Pottsville, Pa., until 1899. Later he was associated with the Harbison-Walker Refractories Company in Pittsburgh and became vice president.

He retired in 1906 and traveled extensively in Europe with Mrs. Cullum, who was Miss Anne B. Milliken, of Pottsville, Pa. They were married in 1899. After his retirement, he maintained homes in Hampshire, England, and Pottsville, Pa.

MEMBER OF MANY CLUBS

He was a member of many clubs in Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, New York and London. At the time of his death he had homes at Sewickley and the Hotel Plaza, New York. In recent years, however, he spent much of his time at the River Edge Farm in Reading, where he was interested in the breeding of registered Guernsey cattle. His herd had a nation-wide reputation.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. J. Barlow Cullum, of Reading, Pa.; a sister, Mrs. Louis C. Shipherd, of Eastern Maryland, a daughter, Miss Mollie, and two sons, Allan M., of Reading, and James B. Jr., of New York City.

'AMEN' DINNER TOMORROW

Te annual testimonial dinner of the Amen Corner, graced by the presence of former Gov. Philip La Folette, of Wisconsin, and former Assistant Secretary of State Raymond Moley, and Floyd Gibbons, war correspondent, will be held tomorrow evening in the William Penn Hotel.

La Folette will arrive tomorrow by plane, Moley from Washington, Pa., where he will address Washington and Jefferson students, and Gibbons from New York. A reception and luncheon will be tendered out-of-town guests at the William Penn.

With 1,000 reservations received, the main ballroom will be filled to capacity for the affair, held in honor of retiring President William M. Furey. Judge Frank P. Patterson will be toastmaster. A Hungarian orchestra and Luke Barnett will provide entertainment.

Auto Injures Man Boarding Trolley

Connelly, 56, of 433 Dunlap avenue, North Side, was in St. John's Hospital suffering from a possible fracture of the skull and other injuries. Robert M. Toler, 33, of 121 Fairfield avenue, New Castle, driver of the automobile, was arrested on a reckless driving charge by Woods Run police.

NRA NEAR SPLIT WITH ROPER ON U.S. CONTROL

By WILLIAM H. DOHERTY

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—A break between the NRA and the Department of Commerce over the recovery program was seen as imminent today following issuance by a department committee of a blast against "governmental interference and control" of business.

Following a declaration by Administrator Hugh S. Johnson that government must keep a tight rein on business, the Business Advisory and Planning Council for the Department of Commerce in a resolution said:

"The continuance and advancement of the American standard of living is of necessity the prime concern of American business.

"To maintain this standard of living, business should remain free of governmental influence and control and must be permitted to continue to exercise the initiative and the aggressiveness that have characterized its remarkable development in the past."

Johnson had said the government must curb the natural desire of business to over-produce in prosperous times and thus bring on depression cycles. He urged the "Swope plan" for a superchamber of commerce to regulate business needed federal supervision, and added:

"Absolute control is necessary. If combinations are permitted without this, it will lead to exploitation."

Seasonal Gains Less, U. S. Report Shows

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—The Department of Commerce said today that industrial production fell less rapidly in October than in August and September. The department said in its monthly report:

"Available distribution indices fail to record the seasonal rise usually evident in the fall, despite the continued growth of purchasing power.

"Commodity prices have risen, and recent increases have been more pronounced in retail than in wholesale quotations.

"Real income, however, is considerably higher than in the early months of the year, as well as higher than a year ago.

"Output of mines and factories in September declined contrary to the normal movement, and the adjusted index dropped 8 per cent, or at about the rate as in the preceding month. Manufacturing production declined relatively more than mineral output.

"Decreases were general in all of the major industries with the exception of food products.

"While the recent drop in total industrial production reduced the September increase over a year ago to 27 per cent, production in the third quarter was 49 per cent higher than a year ago.

"Retail sales in September failed to extend the August gains. The increase in department store sales fell short of the usual seasonal increase and the adjusted index dropped 9 per cent. The increase in freight car loadings in September was less than the usual seasonal rise, and the same was true of the merchandise less-than-car-lot group.

"According to official estimates over 600,000 persons returned to work in September. Factory employment increased by 4.4 per cent and payrolls by 3.4 per cent.

"Movements in the financial markets have been irregular. Banking figures reveal a steady increase in 'all other' loans, and a decrease in advances against securities."

LABOR FIGHTS SWOPE PLAN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—Labor claimed to have found proof today for its predictions that business could not agree to the single organization proposed in the industrial plan of Gerard Swope.

Spokesmen for organized workers based this view on an announcement by Robert L. Lund, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, that "a national organization such as is envisioned by the Swope plan, set up to administer the codes with semi-governmental authority could not logically handle such questions with the best results to industry and business."

There was no letup in union labor opposition to the Swope plan. Apparently it sided at least in part with Lund that there was no need for change now other than enlargement of the present recovery staff.

Farm Strike Grows As Violence Flares

DES MOINES, Ia., Nov. 3.—(INS.)—The farm strike went beyond control of its leaders today, spreading in scope and intensity with bombings, clashes with police and general disorder in its wake.

The strikers, determined to paralyze movement of produce to market, resumed picketing on highways into leading market centers.

FORD'S STAND UPHELD BY U. S. LABOR BOARD

DETROIT, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—Collective bargaining, salient feature of the NRA concerning which the holdout Ford Motor Company until recently had maintained silence, today stood as an accepted provision by Henry Ford, both in administration headquarters at Washington and at the manufacturer's Dearborn office.

The statement of Senator Robert F. Wagner, chairman of the National Labor Board, that he interpreted a pronouncement of the Ford company in regard to a strike at its Edgewater (N. J.) plant as complying with the NRA's collective bargaining provisions, lent emphasis to recent remarks of Ford officials, who stated the company always has been willing to bargain collectively.

Ford has been represented by his associates as stating that he does not intend to permit outside organizers to come into his factories. The associates said that "inasmuch as the NRA provides for the unionization of industry, Mr. Ford's position at the time the act came into being was that in signing the code the NRA was accepted and virtually forms an agreement to hand the industry over to union labor officials."

They indicated plainly that any form of collective bargaining by the Ford company will be solely between company employes and the Ford management, and that the NRA or the National Labor Board will not be made a part of the negotiations.

EDGEWATER, N. J., Nov. 3.—(INS.)—The 1,600 strikers from the Ford Motor plant here voted today not to accept the reply to their demands from the Ford Company. The reply, the strikers claimed, evaded the issue.

10,000 FEDERAL JOBS ADDED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—Jobs under the executive civil service increased by 10,017 during September.

The Civil Service Commission reported today that at the close of the month, 566,356 persons were holding executive civil service positions, of which 69,740 were in Washington. Employes here increased by 2,025.

The figure for the entire country at the end of September was 2,253 more than on December 31, 1932. The peak for all time, 917,760, was reached November 11, 1918.

The NRA accounted for 1,922 employes at the end of September, 1,180 of them being in Washington. The emergency Public Works Administration had 1,190 employes, 729 of them in Washington.

The figures do not include the men enrolled in the Civilian Conservation Corps camps, which are estimated by the commission at 315,000 men.

The turnover for the month was 31,413 additions and 21,396 separations.

FARM PARLEY URGES PACT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—A gigantic marketing agreement under the Farm Act, covering the major farm commodities of the Middle West, was proposed today at the conference between the administration and the governors of five states as they sought agreement on an immediate farm price-lifting program.

This trend in the discussion was reached after Secretary Wallace had reported to the White House that difficulties had arisen in the effort to work out a price-lifting program.

Under the new suggestion before the conference an agreement would be drawn up under which farmers who signed would be guaranteed a fixed price for their products to be based on "parity" levels.

It would be designed to give the products the equivalent of their pre-war purchasing power.

The farmer would agree to curtail production in future years as found necessary by the Department of Agriculture to fit the supply and demand situation for each commodity.

THE OLD REFRAIN:

"Sor-ry—We're JUST OUT"

Hasn't it MADDENED you to be told, in a store, that "we're JUST out of that size—yes, that number's been SO popular—we just couldn't keep it in stock." And this in seasons when, with a slow dollar, you could turn the world upside down before breakfast! Of course, there IS a bit of justification for the sorry song THIS season because, with NRA and strikes, getting the goods meant you had to know the proprietor, the head designer, the shipping clerk—and even that, in some cases, failed to get delivery. But, and however, it's a store's job to HAVE THE GOODS . . . or isn't it? And if you ask for a size 16, blue, and we have it only in brown, we don't blame you if you blame us. This season, though we may run out of this, that and the other—we have the largest stock we've ever had—far, far more units. Come see; and bring husband, son or father if you're feminine. We've got everything it takes to give him glamour—from overcoat to unnaware. And if you're of masculine persuasion, grab yourself a gal—mother, sweetheart or just a plain missus—and have her Hepburnized. Clothes make the men, you know, but girls of sugar and spice, need oodles of everything nice. And we have it—from slips to slippers.

You're Employed? Good!
Then You Can "Charge It"

Just tell us who you are, where employed and gives us a reference or two. Then, on our Extended Charge, you may take your own time paying. Also, whether you buy a nickel's worth or $1,000 worth, you do not, CANnot, pay a single sou above our regular cash prices.

And if you think we're making too much money on you, try the experiment of matching Harris merchandise at Harris prices. If you can buy it cheaper than we can sell it, you get back your money and no argument.

Roosevelt Upheld In Closing Banks

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—(INS.)—President Roosevelt's action in closing the nation's banks on March 6 last has been sustained as legal by the District of Columbia Supreme Court, Comptroller of the Currency J. F. T. O'Connor, announced today.

This is the first case, so far as known, wherein the legality of the President's proclamation has been ruled upon.

TRADERS URGE GOLD STANDARD

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—The Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York today urged the return to the gold standard as quickly as possible and attacked the commodity dollar and currency experiments.

These were contained in a series of resolutions adopted at a special meeting here.

The commerce chamber bowed to inflation sentiment by stating that "it may be desirable to incorporate certain economies in the use of gold" in going back on the standard.

A rise in commodity prices, the chamber asserted, is beneficial "only when accompanied by a rise in national income, and to accomplish this end there must be confidence, a reasonable reward for labor and enterprise, and confidence must not be disturbed by uncertainty as to the future of or through an alteration of our monetary unit."

U. S. RAIL LOAN SPUR TO STEEL

mills, it is likely that the bulk of the order will be rolled here.

"It is to be expected that a liberal share of the $84,000,000 appropriation to the Pennsylvania Railroad will be spent in the Pittsburgh district.

"Prospective similar loans to other railroads should result not only in additional tonnage for Pittsburgh steel mills but heavy orders for structural steel."

NNSY PROGRAM

Purchases to be made by the Pennsylvania Railroad in the carrying out of its program are:

Electrification equipment, $15,850,000; 132 electric locomotives, $16,525,000; 7,000 freight cars, $16,000,000; 28 multiple unit cars, $1,087,000; widening of Baltimore tunnel, $2,611,000; reconstruction of line at Elkton, Md., $750,000.

Under the plans drawn up by the railroad, both passenger and freight trains will be electrically operated on its Washington-New York branch.

According to H. M. Waite, deputy administrator of public works, the construction of electric locomotives for the Pennsylvania would take place in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Lima, O., Milwaukee and South Chicago.

Secretary Harold L. Ickes, public works administrator, was quoted in Washington dispatches as saying the railroad loan was a move "to aid the stricken heavy industries towards recovery with the belief that this, in turn, will increase railroad traffic so that the roads may more easily meet their interest charges."

W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, in Philadelphia, said the loan would provide much new employment on the railroad and other industries. He added:

"I hope it is the beginning of a new broad-gauge policy by the government in dealing with the railroads of the country."

SALES OF AUTOS PUT UNDER NRA

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—The NRA hailed today—the effective date of the motor vehicle dealers' code—as the passing of abuses in the automobile trade.

Outstanding in the departure from the customs of many years was a provision for an authority to regulate used car allowances, and a ban on selling below cost and of selling outside the dealer's own territory.

Added to this was the clause which prohibits a trade-in allowance at all on the so-called junk cars. The recovery administration and the code committee expressly wrote into the code that it shall be an unfair trade practice to permit junk cars to figure in the average used car values.

NRA Rally Set By Association

An NRA rally will be held by the Western Pennsylvania Commercial Men's Association in the Hotel William Penn Sunday at 2 p. m. The rally will be held in connection with the preparation of a code for member salesmen, to be submitted for NRA approval.

4 MILLION GIVEN FOR IRRIGATION

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—The Public Works Administration today made an initial allotment of $4,000,000 to begin construction of the $18,912,000 Verde irrigation and power project in Arizona.

At the same time the administration announced allotments totaling $13,578,855 to 41 non-federal projects in 15 states.

The projects, the Public Works Administration said, are expected to provide 61,690 man-months of work.

They include projects for power, irrigation, water, roads, barns, gymnasiums, hospitals, dormitories, sewers, dams, schools, bridges, street work and public buildings.

The Public Works Administration said today's allotments brought the total for non-federal projects so far this week above $154,000,000, a new high record for one week.

$1,000,000 Allotted Swamp Drainage

WASHINGTON, No. 3.—(INS.)—Allotment of $1,000,000 by the Public Works Administration to the Public Health Service today marked the beginning of a major attack by the government on the malaria problem in swamp lands of 21 states.

Drainage of malarial swamp lands will be undertaken in Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Missouri, Mississippi, North and South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia.

PRICE PARITY AIM OF NRA

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt is contemplating ordering a special study of means to bring about a more uniform parity in prices.

Reports from Secretary Roper indicate the administration has found some maladjustments in the price raising campaign.

The President already has recognized a disparity between agriculture and industrial prices in the upward movement, and is seeking a more uniform rise.

PRONOUNCED EYES'-LEES

MR. HEARST

We Disagree With You!

On Tuesday, your papers published a very depressing editorial, over your signature, about the NRA. In it you said,"—the blighting effect of the NRA policy has been so complete that a justifiable interpretation of the letters NRA would make them read appropriately, 'No Recovery Allowed.'"

Frankly, Mr. Hearst, Spear's doesn't like that statement, nor do we like the tenor of your editorials discrediting the NRA. Wasn't it just a week ago that we heard the President of the United States, in a radio talk, say, "—in the short space of a few months, I am convinced that at least 4,000,000 have been given employment, or saying it another way, 40 per cent of those seeking work have found it."

Four million unemployed back to work! . . . looks like recovery to us.

We, ourselves, are employing many more people and are paying out many more thousands of dollars weekly in wages . . . looks like recovery to us.

Spear's business, each month since July, has steadily increased over the corresponding month of last year! . . . Perhaps, as you say, it's not all due to NRA but . . . looks like recovery to us.

We know other good stores too, that have shown gains during the same period! . . . looks like recovery to us.

It was only a few months ago that everyone in this country was depressed. Morale, business, prices were at low ebb. But what do we find today? Let's quote again from the President's radio talk. Speaking of NRA, he said, "It has abolished child labor. It has eliminated the sweatshop. It has ended 60 cents a week paid in some mills and 80 cents a week paid in some mines. The measure of the growth of this pillar lies in the total figures of re-employment . . . and in the fact that re-employment is continuing and not stopping.

"The secret of NRA is cooperation. That cooperation has been voluntarily given through the signing of the blanket codes and through the signing of specific codes which already include all of the greater industries of the nation.

"In the vast majority of cases, in the vast majority of localities, the NRA has been given support in unstinted measure."

Now, honestly, Mr. Hearst, don't you think that at a critical time like this we should all pull together? Spear's believes in the NRA. Spear's proposes to continue to give unstinted support to the NRA. We believe, with our President, that "Our troubles will not be over tomorrow, but we are on our way and we are headed in the right direction."

FEARS RELIEF COLLAPSE IF BONDS FAIL

Collapse of the state unemployment relief program if the $25,000,000 relief bond issue amendment fails in next Tuesday's election, was predicted today by Arthur C. Kaufmann, Pittsburgh merchant and vice president of the Pennsylvania Retailers Association.

The amendment is No. 8 in the list of 12 to be passed on by the voters. It provides $20,000,000 for unemployment relief, $2,231,385 for state-aided hospitals and $2,564,000 for state-aided colleges and universities.

The remainder is for sinking fund and interest charges in connection with the bond issue.

Mr. Kaufmann said:

"Should this amendment fail of ratification, the consequences would be most serious.

"Our state unemployment relief program would necessarily collapse, and this would also entail the loss of federal funds which will be granted Pennsylvania only upon the condition that the state perform its share in caring for its unemployed.

"Likewise there would have to be a 30 per cent curtailment of state funds to our hospitals and a 33⅓ per cent slash in state aid to our higher educational institutions."

Mr. Kaufmann said retail merchants of the state are vigorously opposed to a new tax levy, which would be unavoidable, if the bond issue fails.

Additional taxes would be a burden on the people, already facing higher commodity prices under the NRA, he asserted.

POLE JOB OVER, M'MILLAN SAYS

No one will ever visit the North Pole again, Capt. Donald M. McMillan, veteran polar explorer, last night told the Academy of Science and Arts in Carnegie Music Hall.

Not only will none visit it, because there's no use in such an expedition, but it's almost impossible because of the danger due to ice, he said.

Back from a recent northern expedition, his twenty-fifth, Capt. McMillan declared that it took 300 years of effort before the Pole was reached, and now that it has been accomplished, to repeat it is foolish. Peary, he said, plumbed the seas surrounding it and found the water 9,000 feet deep.

Plane Forced Down By Fog in Ohio

ALLIANCE, O., Nov. 3.—With its fuel supply almost exhausted after drifting back to Alliance when unable to land at either the Cleveland or Akron airports because of fog, a transport plane bound from New York to Cleveland, made a forced landing six miles northeast of here at 4:30 a. m. today. Five passengers and the plane hostess were brought to the city by a farmer. They proceeded to Cleveland by taxi.

W. & J. Gives Degree To Raymond Moley

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 3.—(AP.)—Dr. Ralph C. Hutchison, president of Washington and Jefferson College today confers the honorary degree of doctor of laws upon Raymond Moley, editor and former Assistant Secretary of State under President Roosevelt.

The ceremony is part of the annual founder's day and homecoming celebration.

Tired..Nervous Wife Wins Back Pep!

HER raw nerves were soothed. She banished that "dead tired" feeling. Won new youthful color—restful nights, active days—all because she rid her system of bowel-clogging wastes that were sapping her vitality. NR Tablets (Nature's Remedy)—the mild, safe, all-vegetable laxative—worked the transformation. 5 HOME LOAN HEADS NAMED, FOUR TIES

A hard-fought election of directors of the Federal Home Loan Bank of this district resulted in the naming of five men and ties for four other positions.

The five elected, according to well-informed sources, were candidates sponsored by the group which at present administers the affairs of the bank in District 3, including Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Delaware.

Bye-elections will be held December 5 to determine the results in the four ties.

The election was conducted by secret ballot among the building and loan associations which are members of the Home Loan Bank here. There were two tickets in the field.

The home loan act provides that the Federal Home Loan Bank Board shall divide all members of each bank into three classifications which shall represent group A, the large institutions; group B, the medium sized, and group C, the small members.

Those elected were: David G. Morgan, Pittsburgh, three years (A); Joseph H. Reass, Jr., Wheeling, W. Va., two years (A); J. R. Smith, Ellwood City, Pa., one year (A); Charles Warner, Wilmington, Del., one year (B), and William A. Wood, Wilkinsburg, one year (C).

Candidates paired for new elections are: Claude P. Rhen, Pittsburgh, and Henry Brachold, Philadelphia, three years (B); S. L. Caum, Bethlehem, Pa., and H. M. Wick, Bradford, Pa., two years (B); William G. McCraley, Carnegie, and James J. O'Malley, Wilkes-Barre, Pa., two years (C), and L. C. Runk, Altoona, Pa., and A. E. Sheller, Altoona, Pa., three years (C).

U. S. HOME BANK CHIEF RESIGNS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—William F. Stevenson, of South Carolina, resigned today as chairman of the Home Loan Bank Board and President Roosevelt appointed John H. Fahey, of Massachusetts, to the office.

Stevenson, a former member of the House, continues as a member of the board.

In reorganizing the home owners' relief agency the President appointed T. D. Webb, of Tennessee, as vice chairman.

Stevenson in a letter to the President suggested the adoption of a rotation system for chairmen of the Home Loan Board and in line with that asked to be relieved of the chairmanship duties.

Mr. Roosevelt, who has been reported as desiring greater speed by the board in refinancing mortgages, readily agreed to the Stevenson suggestion.

Children to Share $18,000 Estate

She left Penn avenue property to three sons, Harry, Ike and Benny; $8,000 to her daughter, Sadie; $5,000 to four grandchildren, and $2,000 to 10 charitable institutions. The residue is left to seven children. Morris Browarsky is named executor.

'Annoyed by Squirrel, Sprays It With Hose

DENVER, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—A court's warning ringing in his ears, Dr. H. E. Smith, 70-year-old retired dentist, has promised to let the squirrels and the birds live in his trees in peace. He was fined $10 for knocking a squirrel unconscious by squirting a hose on it. Smith said the chirpy animals bothered him.

LAWRENCE SEES NATIONAL LINK TO ELECTION

The election here is important to Republicans as well as Democrats because of its bearing on state and national issues, Democratic County Chairman David L. Lawrence declared at a rally in Fifth Avenue High School last night.

Republicans don't want to face the people on those issues, Lawrence said, but asserted:

"The Mellons are concerned not so much in electing a Mayor, as in having the prestige, power and payroll of that office for next year's elections."

SEES MOCKERY

By defeating old-age pensions, minimum wage and child labor prosposals in the Legislature, the Republicans showed how violently they were opposed to the President, who has embodied similar measures in his program, Lawrence stated, declaring:

"It's a mockery for anyone connected with the Republiacn machine to say he's for the NRA."

Mayoralty Candidate William N. McNair opened his address in Italian for the benefit of an audience largely of that nationality. He touched briefly on many issues, scoring Mayor John S. Herron for arrest of boys distributing Democratic literature and an alleged "garbage scandal."

PLEDGE TO WASHINGTON

He, too, touched on the national aspect of the campaign, stating:

"We're going to sweep this town to victory and send a message to Washington: 'We're with you.'"

James F. Malone declared Fiorello LaGuardia was campaigning in New York for the same issues McNair was here.

The four councilmanic candidates also spoke. Frank Nerone was chairman.

DEMMLER RAPS HERRON BACKER

J. W. Bamford was attacked last night for his support of Mayor John S. Herron by Walter R. Demmler, Democratic councilmanic candidate.

The Building Owners and Managers' Association, with which Bamford is active, today disclaimed all responsibility for his political speeches. Bamford is manager of the Gulf and Koppers buildings.

Bamford, representing the association, in 1932 requested Council to let a contract for disposal of waste materials for one year for 1933, and ask bids for a long term contract within 90 days.

Although nothing has yet been done about it, Bamford is now favoring Herron, Demmler said.

Demmler, who spoke at Manchester School, said he failed to see any sense in Bamford's recent attack on William N. McNair, when he declared the nation would not need a President if McNair were elected.

M'ARDLE WON'T BOLT—HERRON

Councilman P. J. McArdle will not desert the Republican party in this campaign, Mayor John S. Herron told a women's meeting in Republican headquarters, Hotel Henry, yesterday. He said:

"Mr. McArdle is not turning Democrat, and his friends are rallying with our friends in this election."

Referring to charges made against him by Democratic candidates, Herron declared:

"If talk could win a campaign, we wouldn't have a chance with the Communists, much less with the Democrats."

Herron urged support of amendment No 8, providing a $25,000,000 bond issue for relief.

State Senator James J. Coyne asked election of Republican candidates, saying he was in politics to help his friends.

BILL PASSERS FIGHT ARREST

An injunction was to be sought in Common Pleas Court today by Attorney Daniel F. McCarthy, representing the Greater Pittsburgh Distributing Company, to end police interference with distributors of campaign literature of William N. McNair, Democratic candidate for mayor.

E. J. Strothers, manager of the company, said his men have been detained by police on four occasions. Two men detained in the Forty-third Street Police Station Wednesday were released yesterday morning.

Brotherhood Man Favors Democrats

Democratic Councilmanic Candidates John J. Kane, Thomas J. Gallagher and Walter R. Demmler, were indorsed today in a statement by H. L. Steading, president, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, Lodge No. 392.

Leader of Women Voters Backs McNair

Mrs. Stuart L. Henderson, chairman, educational department, Pennsylvania League of Women Voters, today announced her indorsement of William N. McNair, Democratic candidate for mayor.

M'NAIR BACKS FREE SPEECH

William N. McNair, candidate for Mayor; John M. Huston, John J. Kane and Thomas J. Gallagher, candidates for Council, and John Heinz, candidate for Sheriff, all Democrats have approved the six-point program of the Civil Liberties Union with respect to free speech and the ending of police raids without warrant.

W. Y. English, for Council, and Sheriff Frank I. Gollmar, Republicans, also approved. English suggested that North Side Carnegie Hall and the West Park bandstand could be set aside as meeting places where speakers would be free to utter their thoughts unmolested.

Other candidates did not reply to the questionnaire.

CRIMINAL VOTE SUITS HINTED

Possibility of criminal prosecution growing out of the primary election in the Sixth District, Ninth Ward, Pittsburgh, and the First District, Second Ward, North Braddock, appeared today when the return board certified the records of a recount to the District Attorney's office for investigation.

Judges Samuel H. Gardner and Thomas M. Marshall, comprising the return board, reported to Andrew T. Park that they had discovered discrepancies in the number of votes cast and other suspicious circumstances while supervising the recount.

County Detective David Drexler, election expert, today began an investigation and said he probably will call in witnesses next week.

LANE'S CHARGE DENIED BY VET

Max Henley, chairman of the United American Veterans' Association, denied the charge of Charles G. Lane, Jr., today, that they were not supporting the $50,000,000 state veteran bonus. He said:

"Lane was not fair at all in his charges. We have distributed thousands of pamphlets to veterans telling them to support Amendment 4, which will give them their bonus."

Lane told an assembly of legionnaires in North Side Music Hall Wednesday night that they had failed to organize or work.

MARTIN SEES G. O. P. VICTORY

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—After a conference with party leaders in Philadelphia, Gen. Edward Martin, chairman of the Republican State Committee, predicts defeat for the Democrats both in this city and throughout the state.

He asserted many "deserters" are returning to the fold.

His statement was followed by a plea from Mayor J. Hampton Moore for the voters to support the entire Republican ticket next Tuesday. Mayor Moore based his plea on the need for harmony.

Republican Rally Sunday in West End

A Republican mass meeting will be held Sunday night at Pulaski Hall, Linhart and Steuben streets, under the auspices of the Polish Citizens' Club of West End.

Voters League Will Hear Chicago Orator

Roscoe Conkling Simmons, of Chicago, Negro orator, will be principal speaker at a meeting of the Third and Fifth Ward Voters League, in the Roosevelt Hotel, at 8 p. m., Sunday. A number of Republican candidates have been invited. Clarence Webster is president.

TWO EX-FOES BACK HERRON

Two primary backers of Joseph N. Mackrell yesterday announced their support of Mayor John S. Herron.

They are John F. Donley, former Republican chairman of the Thirtieth Ward and ward chairman for Mackrell, and Mrs. Jetta Maier, who was vice chairman of the Mackrell campaign committee in the Twenty-sixth Ward.

Donley said he was supported by Mrs. Virginia Rauch, former ward vice chairman.

UNION INDORSES METRO PLAN

Indorsement of the Metropolitan Plan for the county, to be voted on as amendment No. 11, next Tuesday, was announced today by the Pittsburgh Building Trades Council.

Among other indorsements received, according to the Metropolitan Plan committee, are those from the Civic Club, League of Women Voters, Pennsylvania Election Laws Association, Allied Boards of Trade, and the State and Pittsburgh Chambers of Commerce.

COUNTY CHIEFS ACT TO SAFEGUARD ELECTION

POLITICS

State Police Will Guard the Election

By MARK SHIELDS

State police will be in Pittsburgh election day.

Gov. Pinchot has not given the order. In response to requests for their presence he so far has said no more than that he is turning the proposition over in his mind.

Mr. Shields

But the police will be here. They probably will be put under the orders of Common Pleas Court judges who will be in charge of the election.

Under normal conditions the Governor does not send state police into a city such as Pittsburgh unless the request is made by a governmental agency which is effected by the situation with which the police are expected to deal. They were sent here to protect registration at the request of the Registration Commission.

So far the request for police has come only from political agencies, the Democrats, especially. But there is a precedent for meeting the request, the Governor having sent police into other communities when he believed their presence was generally approved for possible activity in election brawls.

Democrats Plan to Fight Ballot Frauds

The Democrats are making comprehensive plans to prevent fraud they say will be attempted, if necessary. It is almost a certainty that some Republican enthusiast will try a trick or two, even though it may not be necessary, and though some leaders may disapprove their tactics.

A few of the men attached to the organization have not yet learned that a good organization which works hard at other times than election day can win honestly if it is entitled to public support—and should not win otherwise.

The Republican campaign will reach its public climax tonight in Duquesne Garden at a mass meeting which will be broadcast from 9 to 10:30 over WCAE. Senator John S. Weller, attorney for M. L. Benedum, the Democratic angel, will preside, and all of the candidates will have a chance to croon their pleas over the mike.

The Republican regulars are making capital of the fact that Judge Ralph H. Smith, Pinchot leader in Allegheny County, will be one of the speakers whose voice will go on the air. Judge Smith previously has declared his preference for Mayor Herron, though he has carefully and emphatically said that he thought the Republican party needed some new and enlightened leadership.

Perhaps he believes that Mayor Herron will furnish the need.

Broadcast by Lane Seems Significant

A significant feature of the meeting will be the broadcast of Attorney Charles G. Lane's speech. Mr. Lane being a candidate for Judge of the Juvenile Court. It is apparent from this that the organization realizes that of its county candidates Mr. Lane is most in need of all the assistance he can be afforded. Furthermore, speaking on the air, Mr. Lane will not orate extemporaneously, which the organization does not wish him to do.

In addition to the candidates the Republicans point with pride to the expected presence on the stage of former Gov. John S. Fisher, County Commissioner William D. Mansfield, Controller Robert G. Woodside and Clerk of Courts S. J. Topley, the last three having supported Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell in the primary. Their presence is a repudiation of the leap of Mr. Mackrell to the Democrats.

Several days ago the Republican publicity bureau announced State Chairman Martin as one of the speakers for tonight. The handout from the bureau today does not contain the Washington Countian's name.

Apparently there has been a perking up in Republican strategy. Only that could explain the elimination of Gen. Martin as a speaker after he had once been announced. Gen. Martin as a speaker would have served to dramatize the failure of the last Legislative session, the defeat of bill after bill designed to advance social conditions; the wabbling on the liquor question in Chicago and afterward by the state organization. It would have thrown into relief the attack on the direct primary.

Could Have Been Big Issues of Campaign

All of these things should have become issues in the hands of the Democrats. It is true that through the campaign there has been a sporadic attack on the record of the Republican leadership, but the Democrats have stumbled as well as have the Republicans, and have let this plan of attack slide.

It was a natural, something that the people could understand, an opportunity to call names, which is the best medium for a party of opposition. To have had Gen. Martin speak would have pictured the Republicans as handing the Democrats a weapon they had refrained from using effectively.

It may be that, even at this late date, the Republicans have learned not to spit in the bulldog's eye.

Honeymoon With N. Y. Beauty Cost Him Fortune

By WILLIAM PFARR

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Nov. 3.—Under a big circus tent on the unkempt Thompson estate auctioneers are peddling today the treasures Josiah V. Thompson gathered from all over the world, but they can't do away with the memories left by Hunnie Hawes.

There was a woman for you—gallivantin' Hunnie Hawes — a woman you could write a book about—no, not a book, but a trilogy bound in gold and trimmed with tinsel.

'HUNNIE' HAWES
Mrs. Blanche Hawes Thompson, the second Mrs. J. V., a beauty of the "Turn of the Century."

Hunnie was different — different even to the spelling of her nickname.

Hunnie was the second wife of the multi-millionaire coal baron who died in want.

But Hunnie had long since departed when the old man's bank balances were written in red. Hunnie had gone away from that mansion at Oak Hill with a check for $1,000,000 in her purse.

The curvaceous Hunnie, a beauty if ever there was one, had stepped into her diamonds, called for the chauffeur and departed to other fields.

Hunnie was an eye-filling widow of no more than 30 when she met "J. V." in the Waldorf-Astoria in New York in 1903.

Hunnie's first husband had just died and left her a modest little fortune which he had acquired around the race tracks.

So Hunnie asked J. V. if he wouldn't please invest the widow's mite in those coal fields he was acquiring all over Western Pennsylvania.

What man could refuse the lovely Hunnie? Not J. V.—especially not when he was then beginning to make millions hand over fist.

ENRICHED, THEN WED

So J. V. took the widow's mite and the legend in Uniontown is that in less time that it takes to say Lorelea, J. V. had multiplied Hunnie's mite to a half-million. Then he married her.

He married her a few months after he met her, his first wife having died, and she took him to Europe and Asia for 14 months.

Probably that honeymoon was the first big splurge of reckless spending J. V. had ever enjoyed. Nobody knows whether he spent one million or two or three to acquire the thousands of antiques he brought back to the mansion at Oak Hill.

There is some doubt that Hun-

Chickens Missing, Prowler Arrested

Caught prowling in the yard at the home of Levy Ross, 358 Independent street, early today, Thomas Ward, 26, of 11 Elliott street, was arrested in connection with the theft of chickens from Ross' coop.

Ross, who has noticed daily disappearance of his chickens, heard a noise in the yard and, investigating, caught Ward approaching the coop.

Tax Won't Be So Hard to Take—It Won't Be on Tea

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

When making out your grocery budget, figure $3 a quart for pure dairy rye.

Washington estimates that is all the traffic will bear. The government will skim a dollar for its bottomless deficit. Nobody can object to that tax. It ain't on tea.

On Tuesday three states toe the rail and 13-year prohibition joins the boy who went on a man's errand. We should be a weatherproof nation after drinking paints, oils and varnishes for so long a time.

The voting will not change the situation. It merely decides from whom we buy it.

We are off for another noble experiment in waltz time. Draw that chalk line on the barroom floor and give us plenty of room. All we ask is a fair trial.

DUGGAN FLYING WEST FOR TRIAL OF NURSE

Declines to Comment On Essentials of Defense Plan

With the trial of Miss Wilhelmina Frieda Weltz, 43-year-old nurse, charged with the murder of Francis J. Morgan Grace, scheduled to open November 12, Attorney John Duggan, Jr., of Pittsburgh, was to leave for Santa Cruz, Cal., by air today.

While declining to comment on the esential features of the defense, Duggan indicated that Miss Weltz's relations with the retired shipping magnate would figure prominently at the trial. Her story, as she told it to him a month ago, he said, points strongly to her innocence of deliberate, premeditated murder. Miss Weltz has denied a romance with the capitalist.

FRIEND OF FAMILY

Referring to an alleged statement in which Miss Weltz is said to have admitted firing the fatal shot, Duggan declared it was obtained while the nurse was ill. Use of a stomach pump, he said, was necessary to save her life.

Duggan, for 20 years a friend of Miss Weltz' Connellsville (Pa.) family, will be aided by Attorney Stafford G. Smith, of Santa Cruz.

SERVED OVERSEAS

The woman, who served overseas during the World War and since 1923 has been stationed at a government hospital on the West coast, has been held since September 11. Miss Weltz entered pleas of "not guilty and not guilty by reason of insanity."

When her plight became known to her family, a brother and sister, William and Meta Weltz, flew to her support. The sister, a Dunbar Township school teacher, who later returned to Pittsburgh, will rejoin her brother in Santa Cruz next week.

QUICK ROUNDUP OF BALLOTS ORDERED

Commissioners Seek All-Night Service To Ban Cheating

Seeking to prevent cheating on election returns after the polls have been closed and the count once made, County Commissioners today will ask the court to direct that Prothonotary John Vogt keep his office open all night November 7.

This will enable the members of the many election boards to bring in their official returns immediately after completing the count.

To further prevent any altering of returns, every minority inspector in the county is being directed to bring the ballot box to the new County Building immediately after the counting the votes has been completed. The boxes will be turned over to William T. Reese, custodian of election boxes.

OLD LAW ABOLISHED

A year ago the Commissioners succeeded in having abolished the old law which directed the election boards to turn the boxes over to the nearest justice of the peace or alderman. This provided an open door for after-hour cheating, officials say, and in addition, it was necessary to pay the alderman or justice of the peace, storage for caring for the boxes. A change was made making Rees custodian of all boxes.

In addition to bringing the boxes into the County Building as soon as the count is finished, Election Board officials will be able to certify their returns to the prothonotary during the night and throughout the following day.

SPEEDY PAYOFF

The city and county Treasurers will have their offices open also, and it will be possible to have the Election Boards paid off as soon as they deliver the boxes and returns.

Under an old ordinance the city is directed to pay $1.50 extra to every election member for service during municipal elections. Thus the election board members in the city will collect from two sources while the county election board members will be paid less from only one office.

The County Elections Bureau personnel was busy today receiving the ballots from the printer and preparing them for delivery to the judge of election in each of the county districts. In some cases the ballots will not be delivered until early Tuesday morning.

TARENTUM AIDS WELFARE DRIVE

Citizens of Tarentum, which until now has handled its relief problems independent of the Welfare Fund, last night voted to participate in the fund's 1933-34 campaign for $2,837,000 at a meeting in the Tarentum Municipal Building.

The action, on a motion by Burgess Henry, followed announcements by representatives of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass and Allegheny Steel Company plants that total contributions from those firms would go to the county fund rather than Tarentum's independent fund.

John W. Lawrence, general chairman of the campaign; Roy G. Bostwick, chairman of the unit division; George S. Ebbert, of the special gifts division, and Wilbur F. Maxwell, fund director, addressed the meeting.

A radio talk in behalf of the drive was given by Dr. Lester Hollander, director of the Pittsburgh Skin and Cancer Foundation, over Station WCAE yesterday.

HUNNIE HAWES ROMANCE RICH IN MEMORIES

nie enjoyed Oak Hill. Oh, she put on quite a show with her furs and silks and tallyhos and diamonds.

"FAILURE" AT SEWICKLEY

But one of her first shows was a social failure. And this may have depressed, perhaps infuriated her. Hunnie took herself and her retinue to Sewickley for a horse show.

What a retinue it was! Two maids, a footman, a secretary, a special hair dresser, a chef, a head stableman, a half-dozen grooms, a Japanese boy and her diamonds.

Needless to say, Hunnie won her share of gasps from the social-conscience natives of Sewickley, even if her horses didn't win any prizes.

However, soon after Hunnie took to her heels. Travel broadens the mind, and Hunnie traveled. Hundreds of letters J. V. wrote her to Paris, Berlin, the Riviera, California, Florida, New York. Hunnie seemed always on the go.

DIVORCE STORY SECRET

The divorce came in 1913—10 years after they were married. The testimony has never been revealed. And when Pittsburgh newspapers were rushed into Uniontown with the report of the divorce, J. V. bought up every one.

In the locked safe of the empire room in the Oak Hill mansion is a copy of the divorce testimony. But this is not for strange eyes.

The divorce settlement was one million dollars for Hunnie. And back to New York she went.

And when she died there a dozen years ago, of elephantiasis, she weighed 600 pounds—not the same dashing, beautiful brunet whose curves one day would have put Mae West to shame.

WEALTH GOES TO GIRLS

Hunnie still had a fair share of the million left when she passed on. And if you ask Pasquale Pallini, for 25 years Thompson's valet, he will tell you Hunnie left her estate to a home for wayward girls.

Well, that was Hunnie, the Hunnie among whose effects was found this little ad clipped from a New York paper of 1898:

"AMBITION to attain everything makes me take these measures. In return for wealth and cultured surroundings I will make a man happy. Identity must be known and honor assured before interview. Object matrimony. TWENTY - ONE, 412 Herald."

Wrapped about this ad was a letter from an amorous gentleman from Jersey City who wrote passionately of ideal love.

This was before J. V.'s time, although he would no doubt have prized the item as an addition to the historical collection he spent hours and thousands of dollars acquiring.

PRIZED MEMENTOES

Probably no one ever had a zeal for personal history like Thompson's. He traced his own ancestors back far enough to set up a coat of arms. He kept a personal record of every election held in Fayette County in his time.

He kept the pen point with which his first wife signed their marriage certificate.

He even retained three teeth he once had extracted to make way for a plate. And he wrapped the teeth in a slip of paper of which was written this historical paragraph:

"Enclosed are three loose upper front teeth, one having an abscess at root. Extracted July 23, 1924, by Dr. A. R. Starr, Jr., No. 8 W. 40 street, New York City, and other teeth instead added to plate."

Grete Stueckgold Sings Opera, Likes Jazz Songs

MME. GRETE STUECKGOLD . . . GLAD SEASON'S SHORTER

German Soprano Talks Art, Mum On Hitler

Madame Grete Stueckgold, famous soprano for the Metropolitan Grand Opera Company, is not sorry that the opera season in New York has been cut in half, she said yesterday at the Hotel Schenley.

She prefers to sing concerts and her concert tonight in Carnegie Music Hall is one in 40.

Madame Stueckgold is still a German citizen. But about the Hitler government, she has no opinion. Music and art, she laughed, have nothing to do with politics!

She likes jazz songs and Negro spirituals. And, sh-h-hh, she sings them for her friends!

Concerning opera, she seconds the opinion of Lawrence Tibbett, whom she rates this country's outstanding singer. For an American audience she thinks it would be better if most operas were sung in English. As she says:

"I do not blame most Americans for not understanding operas in foreign languages. At the Metropolitan, I think it would be fine if opera were sung in English at least three nights a week."

Of the secret of singing, she said:

"There is no secret. There must be a voice first, and then much training with good teachers. And the training should start early. I started at 16. And I am still practicing and still learning."

This is her first visit to Pittsburgh and the Oakland district was a surprise to her. She said that it was more like Paris than anything she had ever heard about Pittsburgh.

RAID 'FIX' TOLD AT M'CLURE TRIAL

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—Jose Rumler, man of letters and convict, former deputy sheriff and admitted bootlegger, testified in the Delaware County liquor conspiracy case today of another alleged raid which was halted by "influence," and then was turned over to the defense for cross-examination.

He resumed the stand as the trial of State Senator John J. McClure and 74 others, accused of participation in a "protection" organization, swung into its second month.

Chet A. Keyes, special assistant attorney general, asked Rumler if he knew anything about a still operated by John Troffo, one of the defendants. With a smile, the witness said:

"Johnny has had, I guess, 1,000 stills, but I will refer to one that was raided in 1929."

He named the raiders as O. N. Smith, chief of county detectives, and three aides of Smith and of District Attorney William J. MacCarter. All are defendants, except MacCarter. Rumler said:

"I got there just after the raid was over. Smith told Troffo that Mr. MacCarter had had a lot of complaints and the place had to be raided.

"Johnny called up some influential person in the Eighth Ward (of Chester). The person told Nick to wait until he got in touch with MacCarter. Then the phone rang again and Nick got some instructions. He took away a quart of wine and didn't touch the liquor."

Rumler explained that the "1,000 stills" was "figurative."

He said he was engaged in bootlegging as early as 1918 and admitted that he had been a hijacker.

The witness told defense counsel that he was under an order for deportation to Panama, but said it was a "frame-up" in a futile attempt to keep him off the stand.

Rumler testified he went to Chester from Long Branch, N. J., where he worked in a gambling house during the summer of 1927.

"From there I heard of the Babylonian city of Chester through racketeering circles. I went to Chester looking for a nice port of refuge."

MAN ACCUSED BY GIRL WARD

Barbola Gongo, 48, a shoemaker, of 301 Steuben street, West End, was held in the county jail today, accused of attacking a 14-year-old girl, a ward of the Juvenile Court. This is the thirty-sixth arrest to be made as a result of the investigation started by the county detectives.

County Detective Lawrence Kline arrested Gongo yesterday and took him before Alderman Thomas A. Flanigan. He was held for court. Judge Benjamin Lencher, of Juvenile Court, ordered Gongo's arrest after receiving the complaints.

MAN DIVORCES 'FUGITIVE' WIFE

His wife and many articles in the household were missing one day when he returned home, J. R. Hamilton, of 1461 Alabama avenue, Dormont, testified before Judge W. Heber Dithrich, who granted him a divorce from Marie S. Hamilton.

Hamilton, who is employed by the Pittsburgh-Des Moines Steel Company, went on a business trip to Philadelphia, and when he came back he found the place torn up. He added:

"My wife was missing, and also many articles. The only thing she left me was a change of linen on the bed and the furniture."

Hamilton said that later he found his wife at her sister's home in Coraopolis. Mrs. Hamilton was employed by a loan company following their marriage. The Hamiltons were wed December 16, 1921, and separated March 21, 1929.

North Side Couple Married 50 Years

Mr. and Mrs. John Henderson, of 1402 Federal street, were celebrating their golden wedding anniversary at their home today. They were married in Pittsburgh. They have three daughters and a son who attended the celebration.

BALL PLAYER'S WIFE SUES

Florence Swaney, 333 Virginia avenue, Mt. Washington, has filed a suit for a limited divorce from Frank Swaney, Stratford avenue, naming a Philadelphia woman as the cause of her trouble.

Mrs. Swaney names three dates in September as the time of alleged misconduct of her husband in a Philadelphia apartment.

Swaney is said to be an old-time ball player and a former member of a team at Massillon, O. They were married September 20, 1913.

TITLED WOMAN DIES AT BALL

LONDON, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—Lady Hewart, wife of the Lord Chief Justice, suddenly collapsed and died last night in the midst of a dazzling assembly of England's most prominent persons gathered at the mansion house for a farewell reception to the retiring Lord Mayor of London.

Dancing was in progress in the elaborately decorated hall crowded with gorgeously gowned and be-jeweled women and uniformed men when the tragedy occurred at midnight.

The reception immediately was abandoned and more than a thousand guests dispersed to their homes.

ROPER SEES NRA AS IDEAL OF DEMOCRACY

(Mr. Roper was asked to comment on the mine situation. Here is his article.)

By DANIEL C. ROPER

Secretary of Commerce, and Chairman, Special Industrial Recovery Board.

One of the greatest assets of the bloodless revolution through which we are passing is the co-operative effort being made to control greed and better safeguard human welfare. We are all encouraged to believe that there is being inculcated in the minds of a large portion of our people a broader and deeper understanding of the meaning and value of acting in concert for the common good. More than ever before in the history of the world people generally are realizing the interdependence and interrelationship of all segments of our economic and social life.

Uncontrolled greed and unbridled selfishness went so far in the years following the great war that our economic structure crumbled and fell. Under these tragic conditions, a leadership equipped with a definite chart and compass had to be found. It was found and on March 4 last this leadership set in motion a program for halting the downward momentum and bringing people to think for others and about others, as well as for themselves and about themselves. It is through these objectives that we are today approaching more closely than at any time in recent years the correctly interpreted spirit and meaning of democracy. Mutual problems, affecting the lives of all, bring us into common and sympathetic thinking.

In the launching of so gigantic a program as is covered by "National Recovery," hardship will result to some of the people. Radical changes in crystalizing procedure are always thus disturbing. However, these inequalities can be made temporary through the cooperation of all concerned. To this end all should work. In order, therefore, to visualize the care with which the National Recovery Administration, under Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, is proceeding to protect the interests of all concerned in working out this economic and social revolution, I will briefly sketch the plan of constructing and putting into effect codes for business and industrial recovery. These codes really constitute a Magna Carta for a brotherhood of action between employers and employes within a given trade or industry. They provide fair standards of maximum hours and minimum wages for employes, bringing about a wider and more equitable distribution of economic gains. In following a code from its inception to final adoption we can see how thoroughly and how carefully the rights of all parties at interest are considered.

Code Machinery

Each trade, conforming to the stated purposes and requirements of this Recovery Act, files its proposed code with the code control division of the NRA. Here the code and documents supporting it are examined to insure that the legally established stipulations are met. The code is then classified and assigned to a deputy administrator. The code next goes to the code analysis division, where it is analyzed for the deputy administrator from all points of view, that is, to see that the industry from the standpoint of capital, from the standpoint of the interest of labor, and that of the consumer, are observed. The report is then returned to the code control division, and a copy of the report and the proposed code are sent to the labor, industrial and consumers' advisory boards, the legal division of the NRA and the planning and research division. This guarantees an analysis and consideration of the code from every possible angle and interest.

A date is then set for a public hearing on the code.

Hearings Public

At the public hearing opportunity is given to individuals and representatives of organizations to present their views and suggestions. Where circumstances suggest it, special committees are formed to discuss and advise with the deputy administrator after the hearing.

Denies Dictatorship

The extent to which we are able to maintain this ballast in cooperation will naturally mark the success of the administrative result. Let me repeat that the final code approximates, as nearly as it is humanly possible, maximum benefits and minimum inequalities for everyone concerned. No dictatorship here, but on the contrary a studied method to help industry to help itself conduct its own affairs with adjusted means of protection from the business racketeer who has heretofore made it commercially impossible to conduct business according to high ideals of right dealing. We must understand the fairness and justice which guides the adoption of these codes if we are to give patriotic effort to the second phase of the National Recovery program. This relates to compliance and enforcement.

Sports Review On WCAE

James J. Long, Sun-Telegraph sports authority, gives his weekly review of athletic highlights over WCAE at 6 this evening.

The Sun-Telegraph Family Children's program is a WCAE feature at 4:45.

The Globe Trotter, voice of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, broadcasts the news over WCAE-WJAS at 12:15 and 2:15 p. m.; over WCAE at 6:30 p. m.

Cat in Garbage Can Costs Woman $13

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—A tiny kitten which Pasquale Costa, a garbage collector, found boxed up in a can of refuse cost Mrs. Ida Fisher $13.50.

She was fined that amount after the Pennsylvania Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals pressed charges against her.

Radio Draws Line on Liquor

By AIRCASTER

The network microphones are not going to waft any fumes of hard liquor, at least in the early stages of repeal.

The whisky and brandy stillers might just as well abandon now any plans they might be cherishing about staging spectacular air shows designed to acquaint a breathless public with the virtues or potency of their various brands of rum.

No matter how aesthetic these programs might be, the network chieftains have decided the radio audience is too fastidious and too nice to have the hard stuff held under its collective nose.

Booze Banned

The Columbia Broadcasting System yesterday announced that it would not accept any liquor abvertising, and the NBC officials, lacking any such announcement, merely nodded their heads in agreement.

But wines and champagnes and liqueurs! There's no ban on ballyhooing them, except that what the exploiters say will be carefully censored.

Local stations, however, can think of no reason why, if they're operating in a wet state, they shouldn't join in the wet whoopee.

Amalgamated Disintegrated

All bets were off yesterday, so far as the Amalgamated Broadcasting System's search for an angel with plenty of what it takes is concerned. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has definitely decided to drop negotiations for taking over the chain, from which Ed Wynn withdrew. B. S. Moss was interested for a few minutes, but it was reported that the five-year contract with WBNX was the dark feller in the woodpile.

And so the ABS broadcasts, apparently, have ceased.

Since there is no longer a payroll, the offices will house few if any employes today.

WINS First

In recording the NBC's pre-recognition of Russia in a recent column, I neglected to add that the really first recognition, in an artistic sense, was extended by WINS.

Clarke Kinnaird it was who went to Russia and came back with a batch of Soviet music in the form of transcriptions. These were wafted by way of the WINS mikes.

The first broadcast direct from Russia was relayed by WINS and CBS.

Local Highlights on WJAS Tonight

Elmer Bachman, romantic tenor, again is heard 15 minutes later than usual, being billed tonight at 11.

The old favorite, "Sweet Genevieve," is revived by Paul Gannon as the high spot of his 6:45 program.

For dinner dance music try Fran Eichler's band with Alma Krekler as soloist at 6 and for late entertainment tune Eddie Peyton at 11:30.

Globe-Trotting

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

To say that the Alabama Wildcat Poet created a sensation is a mild way of putting it.

He caused an upheaval!

More letters today from curious trotters who want to know whether we were serious in presenting him as a poet or were we taking the listeners for the well known buggy ride.

We were serious! If you could see the intent expression on our poet's face when he did that wildcat panting you'd know that his heart and soul were in his art.

It just happened to strike everybody differently.

Among the curious and amused are Louise Schultz, Helen, Frances and Peggy Redfong, all from Midland.

They advise that I should recite my own poetry in the future because after that wildcat scene their brother started for Alabama to hunt wildcats!

Sister Aggie cut her mouth on her knife! Uncle Hiram swallowed his chew; Pa, poor soul, took to drink at 12:26.

And Grandpa, who hasn't walked since he fell off a Ferris wheel at the Chicago exposition 40 years ago, started doing the "uptown lowdown."

Anyway, it was all in the spirit of good, clean fun and art.

I have received a fan letter for Hon. J. Scott Morgan, Traffic Court magistrate and radio star. Mrs. C. Sellers and Mrs. R. Ford, of Bloomfield, enjoy his sound wisdom.

They're a little disappointed, sometimes, when the hour closes before they hear the sentence.

A. N. Heyl says the Halloween warnings that were broadcast had an effect around his neighborhood.

Ah! See him swell. He's getting to be a community influence.

Listen, Dolores, I didn't intend to be mean! I thought you were joking.

Sure, I know nurses have their tearful moments, too. You're still joking, aren't you?

You got me worried now.

The answer of that climbing caterpillar problem, according to Al Zimmerman, is 15 days.

* * *

Mrs. George Mauler, Uniontown—

You've read, by now, the story of the identification. Thank you for your letter.

Patricia Pitt's Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings . .

In Mayfair

—With—

Patricia Pitt

One of the most unusual events of the year will be the opening concert of the Mendelssohn Choir. Two hundred children from the public schools as an auxiliary chorus will sing with the choir "The Children's Crusade."

The date is November 21, and the event will be, as usual, in Carnegie Music Hall. The choir members will have the parts of the mothers and fathers of the children crusaders.

Program girls for the concert will be debutantes, with Analana Beeson as chairman.

The 200 children for the auxiliary choir were selected by Dr. Will Earhart, music head of the public school system from all the schools in Pittsburgh.

20th Century Club Gives Brilliant Reception For Mrs. Shoemaker

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

The reception given yesterday by the Twentieth Century Club in honor of Mrs. Charles S. Shoemaker was the same brilliant affair its president's receptions always are.

The decorations, too, were as lovely as ever. Quantities of autumn leaves, some in great jars and some along the iron railing on the lounge balcony, gave a note of dark color, while chrysanthemums in red and yellow lent the contrasting brightness.

The three long tea tables were gorgeous with their silver epergnes and vases of chrysanthemums and hothouse fruits and yellow tapers in silver holders.

Mrs. Shoemaker, dressed in wood-brown crepe and satin with a brimmed hat to match, wore a shoulder bouquet of gardenias and a corsage of orchids at her belt. Dark colors, especially black, were predominant, but here and there one caught glimpses of brilliant oranges and reds among the dark wine and berry shades in the gowning. The vice presidents, honorary presidents and honorary members received with the president.

Mrs. William Reed Thompson wore black velvet with a train, Mrs. William Thaw, Jr., was in black and silver. Miss Julia Morgan Harding wore blue and white printed crepe. Black velvet was worn, too, by Mrs. David Wilson Kuhn, and Mrs. Frank Trevor Hogg was in black, with touches of white. Mrs. H. Allen Machesney's gown was of brown velvet and lace. Mrs. H. H. McClintic was in gray and Mrs. John A. Murtland had a striking gown of black with wide white collar.

Mrs. Daniel M. Clemson's frock was one of the smartest noted at the reception. It was of dark green cloth shot through with a gold thread and had soft folds of gold and green satin as a most effective trimming. Mrs. Edward Vose Babcock was in black velvet with touches of rich lace, and Mrs. Francis J. Torrance in brown. Mrs. Richard Beatty Mellon's hat, gown and shoes were all of the same wine shade.

Mrs. W. Eugene Gary's smart gown was of brown with green lame. Mrs. James Macfarlane chose one of the new wine shades. Mrs. Joseph W. Marsh had on black velvet and a small panne velvet hat with three ostrich tips. Mrs. W. Harry Brown, in town for the winter, wore blue velvet with silver fox.

Others noted at the reception were Mrs. Alfred C. Dickey in black with ermine, Miss Sophia McCormick in gray, Mrs. Herbert DuPuy in black. Mrs. William Maclay Hall in turquoise blue and black. Mrs. George H. Deike, in a particularly effective gown of deep purple velvet and chiffon. Mrs. Frederick Kleibacker in a knit sports suit. Mrs. Biddle Arthurs and Mrs. Robert T. Reineman, both of whom were in black. Mrs. Kirkland Wiley Todd in black crepe. Mrs. T. Clifton Jenkins, also in black. Mrs. W. F. Stevens in black with white lace. Mrs. Sumner B. Ely, rust crepe; Mrs. Maurice Cooper, black and silver; Mrs. R. Templeton Smith, in brown, and Mrs. Charles B. Ellis in gray satin and crepe.

Mrs. George Pomeroy Basset wore black. Mrs. C. L. Peirce, Jr.'s gown was of blue with metal cloth trimming, and Mrs. John Philip Hoeler's of black. Mrs. George Scott Baton's gown was a striking model with button trimming in green and yellow.

Mrs. Thomas K. Cree, Mrs. Samuel C. Grier, Mrs. Charles Longenecker, Mrs. Elder Marshall, Mrs. D. B. Frampton, Mrs. William F. Knox, Mrs. Walter Chess, Mrs. A. J. Kelly, Mrs. Albert J. Vencil, Mrs. Jacob Simpson Payton, Miss Ida M. Allerton and Mrs. Alvan W. Sherrill were others seen in the receiving line and at the tea tables.

Three Schools On Drama Program

Helen St. Peter, press chairman and executive secretary for the Drama League, calls higher attention to the fact that three higher institutions of learning will be represented on the League's institute program tomorrow at the Pennsylvania College for Women.

Carl B. Cass, director of the Pitt Players, will preside, members of the Dramatic Club of Pennsylvania College for Women will serve as aides to the general chairman of the institute, Miss Vanda E. Kerst, and the drama department of Carnegie Institute of Technology will be represented by Elmer Kenyon, one of the speakers.

The aides, by the way, are Eleanor Kenworthy, Luise Link, Ruth Moorhead, Mary Alice McFarland, Ruth Jubb, Harriet Bannatyne, Rose Hollingsworth, Lea Cline, Ruth Miller and Marion Starley, together with Miss Mary Margaret Robb, assistant in the department of speech.

The only demonstration to be staged this year will be on rehearsal methods and for this E. W. Hickman, of Carnegie Tech, will bring members of his class who have been cast for "Man and the Masses." They will rehearse during the institute with pauses for criticism.

Besides Mr. Kenyon, speakers include George Seibel, of the Sun-Telegraph; Theodore Fuchs, of the Goodman Theater, Chicago, and James W. Macfarlane, president of the league.

The anniversary luncheon, round table conferences and, at night, a theater party at the Nixon are features of the institute.

Viewing the New

Pity our poor spyglass these past few days! What with the smoke and gloom its "eye" has been well nigh put out. But there are so many new things arriving in the shops almost daily that we plunge through the dimness with abandon. For names of the shops where they may be found call Grant 6400 and ask for the Spyglass . . . or send a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

A posy in a pot . . . and what a posy in what a pot! One of the stores has a quaintest collection of centerpieces for dinner table or to set elsewhere in your rooms! The pottery pot was turquoise . . . the flower (made of tinted shells) pink with opalescent leaves of bluish green. Simply elegant to set in a bedroom as the final chirp of decoration: $1.35.

And now we give you baloney! Lovely fat fellows, these, one of which is spiced and named Lebanon (no relation to Mt. Lebanon) . . . and to be sold along with his cold cut playfellows for 19c the pound tomorrow. And hand-in-hand with him prances the goodly Roast Pork Loin . . . the tenderest of morsels, utterly boneless, and appearing for this grand occasion at 39c the pound. And the third of these Three-Musketeers-of-Baloney-dom is none other than our old friend Braunschweiger of Milwaukee, 29c the pound.

Incidentally they're flanked by Cole Slaw, who has consented to appear very graciously at 2 pounds for 25c! Behold, you have the makings of a marvelous Saturday night supper!

Scads and scads of new blouses! We almost got to counting them like we do the "sheep" when we can't sleep . . . there were that many of them! But . . . here's the tale:

Angel-skin lace blouses in black and white . . . and all conceivable styles. Satin in ribbed effects . . . and one with twisted columns down each side of the neck. Chenille brocades and lames are much in evidence (to be worn with the new formal-length velvet skirts for dinner dancing and so forth!) . . . and even the naive and gauche-seeming (but not really) little peasant embroidered white voile blouse which is probably occasioned by the recent Tyrolean movement 'mongst us all! Let us impress upon all your alert little brains the fact too, that although you may be a "momma" inclined to be a little bust-y and whathaveyou, still there are loads of blouses just for you. Because that's one of the things this particular blouse buyer prides herself on!

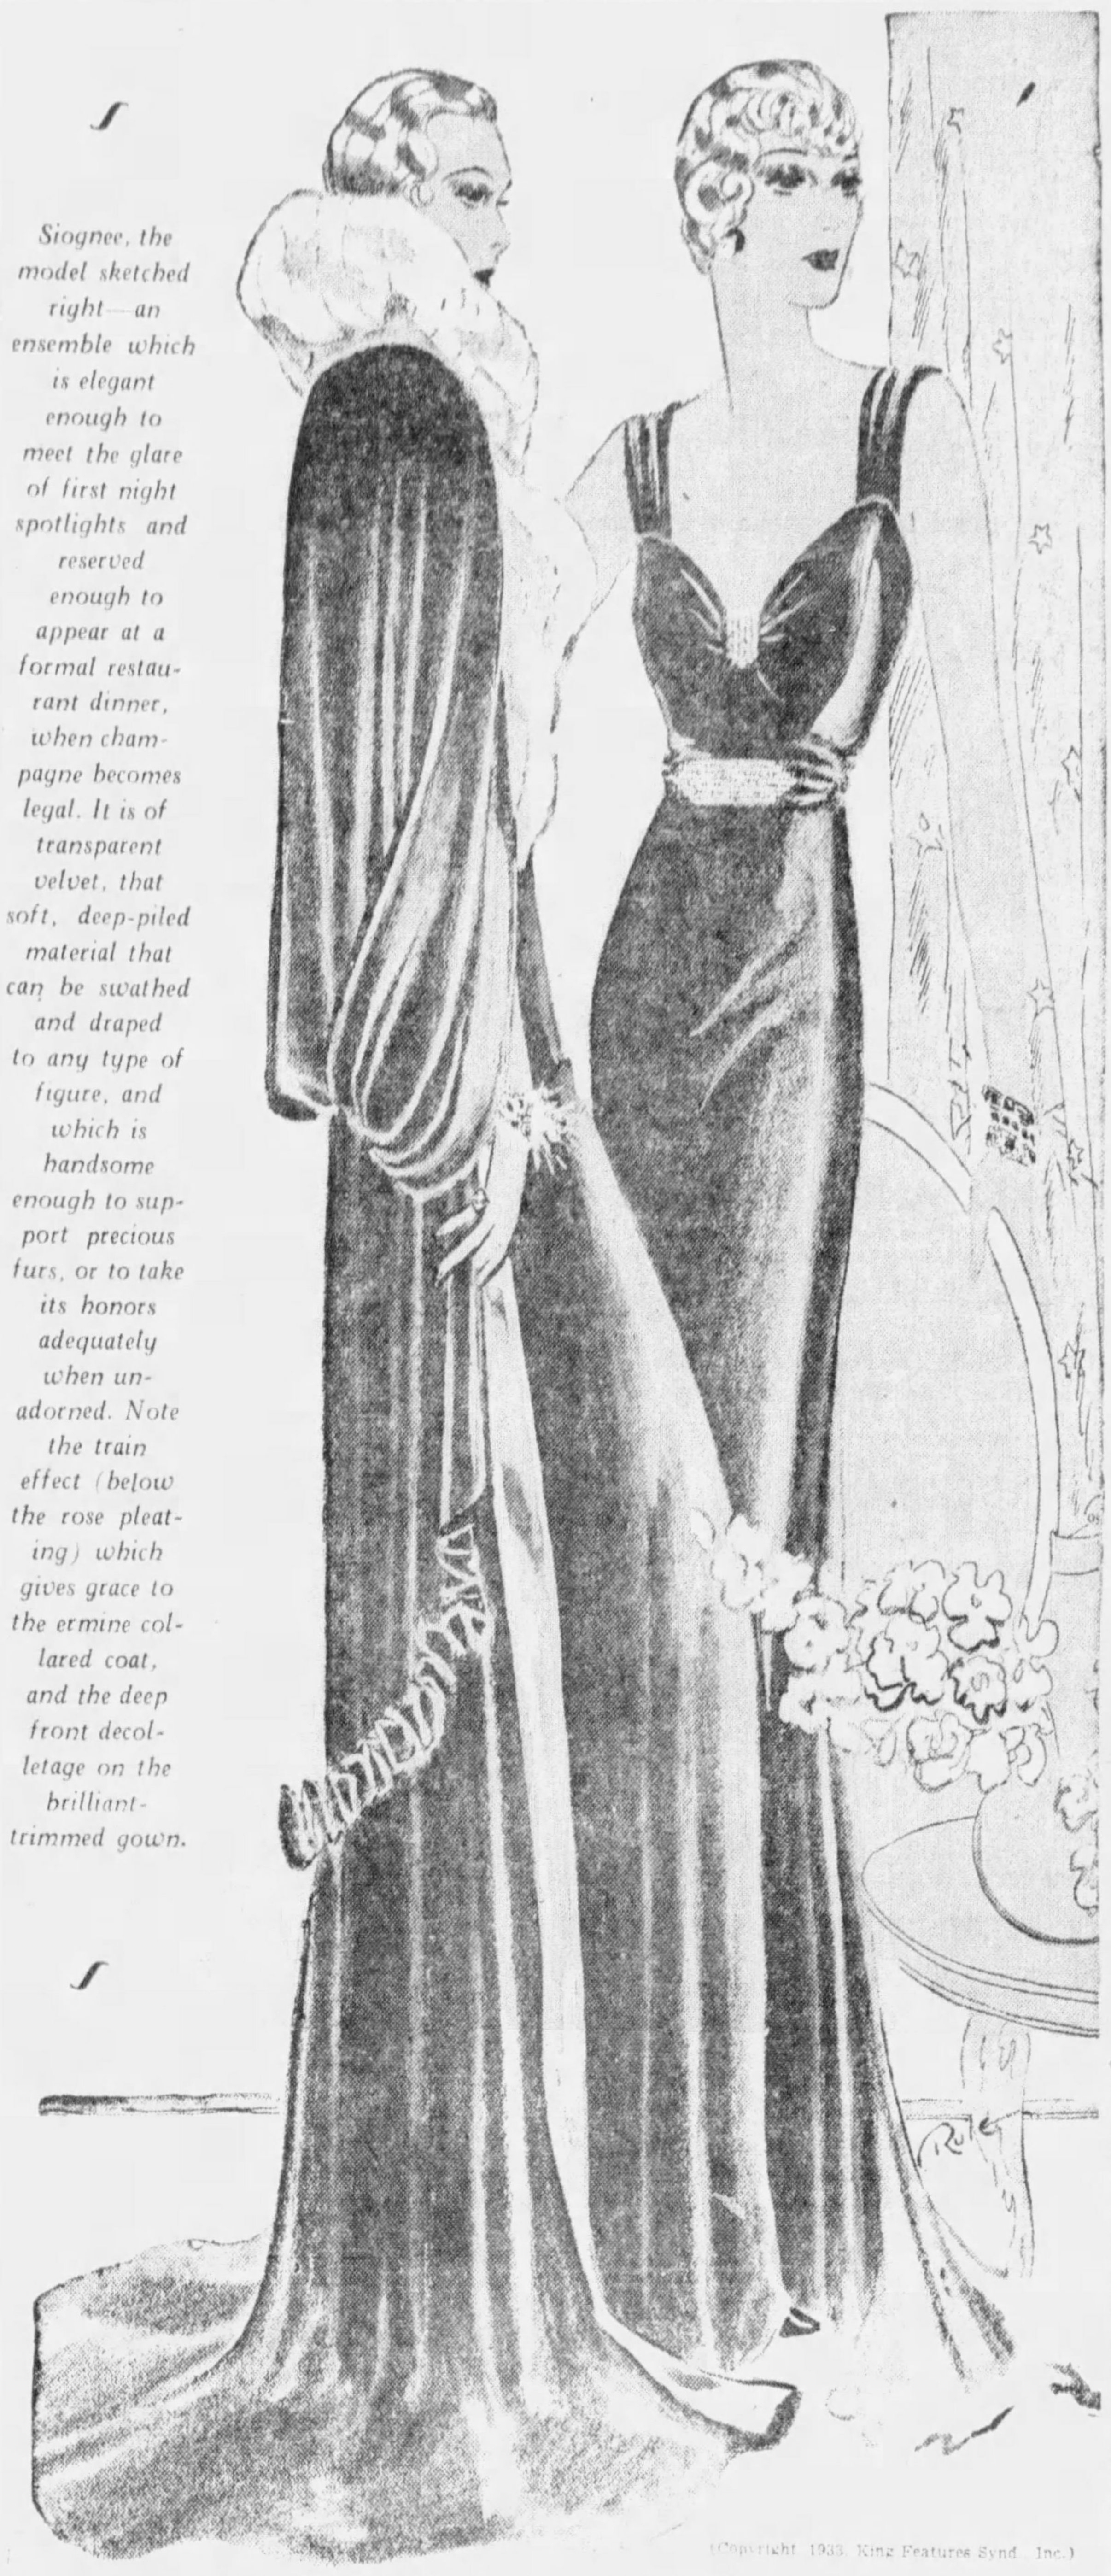
A great big chunk of yellow soap...but a great deal more than that really! This excellent Castile and lemon shampoo makes a whole gallon from a 15c cake of soap . . . and is splendid for the hair! The answer to many a shampooist's prayer!

—DOROTHY RANDALL.

THE GLAMOROUS EVENING TOILETTE



Siognee, the model sketched right—an ensemble which is elegant enough to meet the glare of first night spotlights and reserved enough to appear at a formal restaurant dinner, when champagne becomes legal. It is of transparent velvet, that soft, deep-piled material that can be swathed and draped to any type of figure, and which is handsome enough to support precious furs, or to take its honors adequately when unadorned. Note the train effect (below the rose pleating) which gives grace to the ermine collared coat, and the deep front decolletage on the brilliant-trimmed gown.

IN spite of the fact that most of this season's evening gowns show a tendency toward a high neckline in front, whether they be designed for dinner or more formal occasions, there are models to be had which show the deep front decollete. There is no doubt about it that many figures look infinitely better in such a gown, and it is downright simple for the owner of one to deny herself a low necked model because the high line is touted as a fashionable novelty.

MANY a woman gazing at her mirrored reflection after the last wave has been placed in her coiffure and the last dusting of powder laid over her make-up has reflected that the particular line her slip is cut on is a deuced sight more becoming than that of the gown she is about to put on. Well, there is a tip; if the "bathing suit" line becomes the configurations of one's neck and shoulders, why not have it adapted for one's best gown?

And if the square line made by a slip or chemise which has straight straps over the shoulders is flattering, that should suggest a low necked gown which is built on the same idea. There are always so many details in every model which are sufficient to tag it as new, that one might as well pick out the ones that are becoming, and throw the rest overboard with a gay gesture.

IT seems that every woman should have the sort of back this year that will permit a very daring cut for her gown, but many tricks can be played with the shape of the back decolletage. The girl whose shoulder blades are a wee bit inclined to sprout wings can go in for narrow deep V shapes, as can the shortish girl who wants to add an illusion of length to her figure.

A U-shaped back makes a very generous back less naked, and one that is cut to a rounded, shallow, bertha shape is an average bet for a back which is a bit on the too thin or the too plump side.

Important Vitamins Found In Sweet Potatoes

This Delicious Native of the Tropics Is Easily Prepared in a Variety of Dishes and Is a Healthful Food

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
United States Senator From New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Many persons seem not to realize that the sweet potato is just as nutritious as the white potato. In fact, few appreciate the wholesomeness and nutritive value of the potato family. I am confident that if potatoes were scarce and expensive, they would be considered a luxury and be more in demand. The potato does not deserve its lowly position and should be considered one of our most valuable vegetables.

Though the sweet potato belongs to a different botanical family than the white potato, its general composition and food value are similar. The sweet potato is a native of tropical America. From there it was first planted in England and Ireland and is now cultivated in all countries.

The sweet potato is abundantly grown along the Atlantic coast from New Jersey to Florida. It is an important food crop along the Mediterranean Sea, in China, Japan, West Indies, Spain and the Philippines. In the United States the yearly crop averages over 100,000,000 bushels.

There are numerous varieties which vary from a light colored flesh to a deep yellow. The sweet potato is divided into two groups: those that become dry and mealy with cooking, and those that are "moist" and have a soft, sugary flavor.

VALUABLE VITAMINS

This vegetable contains valuable vitamins. Four to 10 per cent of sugar and more than 20 per cent of starch are found in the sweet potato. Like other vegetables, it is a good source of important mineral substances. It has a tempting flavor, is attractive to the eye and easily digested.

Sweet potatoes are easily prepared. They may be served baked, boiled, plain, "candied," escalloped with marshmallows, or served with nuts, such as walnuts, pecans and peanuts. The sweet potato is most popular in the Southern States where it is used in pies and puddings and combined with fruits to make marmalades and spiced relishes.

MADE INTO CANDY

In Asia the vegetable is preserved as a sweet-meat. Sweet potato candy is popular in Japan, where it is sold on the street by candy vendors. It is made by rolling mashed boiled sweet potato into little balls. The balls are placed in boiling sugar syrup, allowed to turn brown, then removed and cooled until crisp.

Sweet potatoes are economical and can be used in the diet as a substitute for the white potato. They do not keep for a great length of time and require a dry, warm, well-ventilated room for proper storage. It is now possible to purchase canned sweet potato of good quality and flavor. This is of interest to the housewife who may have difficulty in purchasing the fresh vegetable.

SEA ROVER HAS LUCKY WRECK

HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 3.—(AP.)—A shipwreck was "lucky" for Capt. Frederick S. McMurray, skipper of the Ketch Atlantis, which has returned from its twenty-third cruise in the interest of science.

His mother, Mrs. C. L. McMurray, as interested in the adventures of her son at 79, as she was in her younger years, tells how it happened:

"There isn't a port in the world where my son has not been. Until two years ago, the only place he had missed was Australia.

"And then he had the luck to be shipwrecked there."

Prudence Penny's Recipes

You can't tell a turkey's age by his teeth, because he hasn't any. You can't tell his age by the rings around his middle, because he couldn't be that old. But there are other ways of getting at his secret.

A turkey is as young as he feels. Run your hand over the flesh. If it is soft and pliable, he's still a youngster. Old birds feel hard-fleshed and tough. Put your hand under his wings, and feel the muscles. If they break easily, the bird will be tender. If they resist pressure, you can be certain he's pretty well set in his ways.

Then take a look at the feet. Up to a year old, the feet are black. Turkeys up to the three-year mark have feet of a healthy, pinkish color. After that, the feet take on a dull, grayish hue—and you can be sure that the turkey has covered considerable mileage around the farm.

After the bird is chosen, the next item of importance is the stuffing. Turkey tastes twice as good when its flavor is enhanced by a savory, spicy stuffing. There are many different kinds, of course. Some people like 'em dry, others like 'em moist. Some use oysters, and others use sage. An unusual stuffing, that brings out all the good turkey flavor by contrast, is made with sausage and cracker crumbs as a base. Serve it with plenty of rich giblet gravy, and the turkey's social success is assured.

SAUSAGE STUFFING FOR TURKEY—1 pound sausage, 10 soda crackers, crumbled (1½ cups), 2 eggs, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 cups chopped celery, 2½ cups water.

Combine all ingredients and mix well. Makes 6 cups.

If it isn't turkey you crave, but chicken, goose or duck, then here are the makin's of stuffings suitable to each:

ORANGE STUFFING FOR CHICKEN—20 crackers, crumbled, 1 cup water, ¼ cup orange juice, 1 teaspoon grated orange rind, 1 teaspoon minced onion, 1-3 cup butter, melted, ½-1 teaspoon poultry seasoning, 1 teaspoon salt.

Mix all ingredients together and use to stuff fowl. Makes about 2½ cups. When preparing to serve, garnish with thin slices of orange.

APRICOT STUFFING FOR GOOSE—2 cups mashed cooked diced apricots, 30 Graham crackers, 1 tablespoon sugar.

Into apricots stir crumbled crackers and sugar. Makes about four and one-half cups.

PEANUT STUFFING FOR DUCKS—20 butter crackers, crumbled (1½ cups), 1 cup shelled peanuts, 1 cup cream, 1 teaspoon minced onion, salt and pepper.

Combine all ingredients and mix thoroughly. Makes three cups.

CROWN ROAST OF PORK—5-6 pound crown pork roast, salt and pepper, 12 crackers, 1 cup cranberries, 2 cups diced apples, 1-3 cup sugar.

Place roast in pan, season and sear in hot oven 500 degrees Fahrenheit. Crumble crackers. Wash cranberries and combine with apples and sugar and then with crackers. Heap mixture in center of the seared crown roast. Cover and roast in a hot oven 425 degrees Fahrenheit, allowing 25-30 minutes to the pound.

Will you please help me? I seem to be in a jam. I think people are awfully mean.

I am lively and full of fun. I like a good time and I have lots of friends, or I did have. But the way things are now it looks as if they were all walking out on me.

You see, not long ago I saw an awfully cute fellow at the corner drug store. He looked at me and I sort of looked at him, and finally we got to talking. He walked home with me just about half a block. The next evening I saw him again when I was coming home from work and he spoke to me.

This went on for several days and then one evening he was on the street car and sat beside me. He told me that he was visiting some friends in the neighborhood, and didn't know anybody much and he wanted to know if I'd go to a show with him. He told me his name and the name of the folks he was visiting, and I told him mine. And that evening after dinner he came for me, and we went to a movie.

MET WITH DISAPPROVAL

My mother didn't ask me where I met him, and I didn't say. He was an awfully nice boy and I liked him. I introduced him to some of my friends, and took him to a party, before he went home. That was all right that time. Some of my friends knew how I met him, but they liked him and thought it was a great lark.

Well, about a week after he went away a girl friend and I were out walking, and we got to talking to some fellows and went for a little ride. I guess she must have told someone about it, because it got back to my mother, and to the mothers of several of my friends.

And now there is a regular war on. My mother scolded me and called me a little fool, and the mothers of the other girls I know won't let them go out with me any more.

I can't understand what all the fuss is about. They were nice boys, all of them. It is fun to meet people like that. You never know who they may be—somebody important and thrilling, maybe, that you'd never meet in any other way. These fellows were awfully interesting, and treated us swell. But now everyone, including my own family, seems to be down on me.

It isn't fair. I was having a wonderful time, and of course I wouldn't take up with anyone who wasn't nice. Why do folks make such a fuss about "being introduced"? There are lots of nice people we don't know and maybe never will know if we wait for someone to say, "Miss Jones, meet Mr. Smith."

AGNES.

INTRODUCTION BEST

Why do they make a fuss?

You said it yourself, youngster. You don't know who it may be that you'll meet on a "pick-up." It is perfectly true that the world is full of Nice People that your friends don't know. But it is equally true that it is full of vicious degenerates.

And don't kid yourself, Aggie, that you can tell whether the smiling flirt on the corner is a decent citizen or not. You can't! There is plenty of truth in the old saw about the "wolf in sheep's clothing," and the biggest rascals put on the best front.

Why do we have introductions? That's why. For the protection of decent girls. And any girl with the sense God gave a gooseberry will avail herself of that protection.

Moreover, the girl who doesn't avail herself of it, automatically puts herself into the questionable class.

The man who picks you up may really be a decent fellow. But he won't consider you a decent girl if you allow yourself to be picked up—and he'll feel perfectly justified in taking all the advantage possible of you, because you've invited it!

So thank your lucky stars that you've come through safely.

Countless women can keep secrets, their own as well as those confided.

But some thoughtless women will rush out and broadcast to most any willing ear.

The majority of wives who pretend that they do not know anything about their husbands' business affairs are only using that wise alibi to keep the family counsel.

That is as it should be. Do not discuss your affairs, good or bad, with anyone. A home is like an important firm. Partners and trusted employes do not go about telling outsiders the firm's confidential business.

Silence is sometimes more clever than the wittiest remark one might make.

Learn to think things out for yourself, so that in seeking advice you may not confide what you should keep to yourself.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Prompt Care of Disease Important

Dr. Copeland

"What is the cause of gall bladder disease?" "Can it be prevented?" "What can be done to prevent the occurrence of this common and troublesome disorder?"

These and similar questions are daily put to doctors. I am glad to say that increased knowledge of gall bladder diseases makes it possible to answer these questions. There is greater hope for the victim than in the days when little was known about this ailment.

The gall bladder is a small sac located on the under surface of the liver. It is the reservoir or storage place of the bile formed in the liver. Bile is an important agent in digestion. It mixes with food after it passes from the stomach into the "duodenum," the first part of the small intestine.

When there is no demand for bile in the process of digestion it is stored in the gall bladder. This organ may contain from one to two ounces. When digestion takes place and it is needed, the gall bladder contracts and pours bile into the intestines. This is accomplished by the action of the abdominal muscles, the diaphragm and the muscles contained in the wall of the gall bladder.

Inflammation of the gall bladder, with the formation of gallstones, is a common disease. It afflicts women more than men and is especially common in overweight individuals.

A person who leads a sedentary sort of life and is careless about his personal habits is liable to this disorder. Chronic constipation, infected teeth, sinuses or tonsils, a diseased appendix and chronic infections are other causes that must not be overlooked.

Bear in mind that in the early stages of inflammation of the gall bladder, it can be cured by correction of diet, by improved personal habits, and by the removal of all centers of infection. But chronic inflammation of the gall bladder, with marked stone formation, requires surgery for complete cure. Modern surgery is safe and "cholecystectomy," which is the name of the operation for the removal of the gall bladder, is no longer a dreaded operation.

A Sequel to Heart of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Counsels Impetuous Young Couple

Mary, impetuous, temperamental, less controlled than Noel, was the first to speak after Philip Veritzen had left the room, leaving us all stunned at the elaborate plans he had made for the honeymoon, and with the munificence with which he made provision for those plans.

"Oh, pinch me, somebody!" she exclaimed. "Am I asleep and dreaming? Oh, please, Noel, tell me it isn't all true. Do you want to do all these things your father has planned for us?'

"Do I want to—?" Noel's breath patently failed him. "You know I don't want to do any of them. You know we had planned with the little old car, for the five days that were all we could manage?"

Noel's somber face was suddenly irradiated with his charming smile.

"I'll do anything you wish, sweetheart," he said. "I'll tell my father before he leaves that we can't possibly do it, but try to make him see that we are really grateful for his offer."

"Children, children!" I exclaimed in alarm. "Don't decide this offhand. You very well know it may mean your whole futures. They are both in his hands, you know."

"Yes, I know," Noel said despondently, but stubbornly. "But I'm not going to have the most beautiful experience I ever hope to have turned into a grand social tour."

ROMANCE FAVORED

"It's our one and only wedding," Mary struck in, "and I'm not going to have it turned into a nightmare. And that's what it would be, meeting a lot of strangers, having to dress and be on exhibition all the time. Why, we'd never have a chance to be by ourselves! We might as well be one of those royal couples with an entourage."

She broke off sharply and I knew what had caused that sudden hesitation. There had come to her mind a memory of the time when she had been given the opportunity for such a wedding, in the days of Prince Georges' infatuation for her and Ileana's for Noel.

"Auntie Madge," she said appealingly, turning to me, "you surely don't mean that we ought to accept his offer, do you?"

I hesitated for a long second or two, while the common sense which comes from maturity battled with the spirit of romance as typified by the eager young faces opposite me. At the end of those seconds I capitulated to romance, but clutched frantically at the disappearing, fluttering robe of common sense.

MADGE'S PLAN

"I think you should have your honeymoon exactly as you have planned it," I said, "but I am wondering if, after your own original five days for which you had planned are ended, you could not do some of the things Mr. Veritzen wishes."

"You mean—the social game?" Mary and Noel asked as with one breath.

"No, I don't, except for one or at the most two engagements," I answered. "But suppose Mrs. Underwood and I could make him see how much your original plans mean to you—"

"But," Mary interrupted, "you don't even know what they are."

"Nor do I want to know," I returned. "Therefore I am unable inadvertently to drop some hint which would reveal them to anyone else. But I can see what they mean to you, and I hope—only faintly, however, remember that—that Mrs. Underwood and I may be able to make Mr. Veritzen see reason.

"Would you be willing to sacrifice something in your turn? I don't mean of your original pl[illegible], but of the extra days—nine or ten of them—which but for him you would not have?"

They exchanged a single, flashing, significant glance. Then Noel gestured to Mary, and she spoke for both of them.

"Whatever you and Mrs. Underwood decide will be all right with us, even if it means giving up our original plans."

"But it won't" I said sharply. "We will fight to the last ditch to save that five days' honeymoon, wherever you have planned it. And now I'll tell you, in effect, what I think we will say to Mr. Veritzen."

Household Hints

When roasting or baking a piece of meat, skewer some thin suet over it. This saves basting, prevents it from burning, and gives the meat a good flavor.

Place several layers of newspapers under your floor covering. Then no matter how irregular the boards of the floor may be they cannot harm the backs of the rugs or carpet. The papers also give a much softer feeling when walking on the rugs and are a preventive against moths.

When boiling a pudding place an inverted saucer or small plate at the bottom of the saucepan. This will prevent the pudding from burning.

Even if you do not take time to cover all the hangers in your closet, see that the guest room closet is equipped with a half-dozen velvet-covered hangers, corresponding in tone with the decorations of the room. It gives a very dainty touch when the hostess opens the closet door.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

In-Laws Should Meet

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My son married six months ago without informing us and now that it is announced what would be the correct attitude toward his wife's parents? I have met her mother . . . that is, I stopped one day for her daughter and was introduced. We are not "stylish" people and neither are the other parents. But I did think it would be pleasant to have them come to our home and meet some of our relatives. I am quite sure that we should call on them, but as I have already been to their home, I am rather in a quandry. Neither one of us is pleased as it was a most inopportune time.

Thank you for your advice.

V.

All of your social reactions to this situation are sound and right ones. It is in excellent taste for the family of the groom to make these friendly gestures, and, as you yourself so well say, "It would be pleasant to have them come to your home and meet some of your relatives."

So I suggest that soon you write a note to the mother, inviting her and her husband (and the rest of the family if you wish) to come to dine with you and your husband and the newly-married couple. Sunday noon dinner or Sunday supper would be an excellent time, probably the most convenient for all concerned, and a time that has a "family atmosphere."

Announcement Cards

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—I am going to marry a man who has been married before. Will you kindly tell me how the announcement cards should read? Neither of us lives in the towns in which our parents live.

2—Should we send the announcement cards or should the cards be sent by my parents?

JOSEPHINE.

1—The best form is for your parents to announce the marriage like this:

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Brooks have the honor of announcing the marriage of their daughter
Josephine
to
Mr. Nicholas Grant on Tuesday,
the fifth of November
Ninteen hundred and thirty-three Detroit, Michigan

2—Your parents send them. The fact that you do not live in the town in which they live does not make any difference.

EINSTEIN BUSY, MAY NOT TEACH

International News Service.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 3—After two weeks spent largely in seclusion, it became evident today that Prof. Albert Einstein will not teach in the first term of the new institute of advanced study at Princeton University.

In fact, to 19 mathematicians from the faculties of American and European universities who have come here in high hopes of sitting at the feet of the master whether he will get around to teaching at all during the six months of his stay here in entirely speculative.

But they do not feel critical of the great savant because of that. They think he is formulating a new theorem and it is their hope that he will announce it while they are here.

Announcements of Einstein theorems are important. His first announcement, made when he was a very young man, scrapped all previous concepts of time and space. Years later he announced a theory that replaced Newton's concerning the law of gravitation—both milestones in the history of scientific thought.

CUTWORK MOTIFS PATTERN 516

Enhance Linens With Cutwork

When some form of needlwork enjoys popularity, there is always a good reason for it. Take cutwork for instance. The most expensive linens in the shops feature it; the thrifty and clever needlewoman enhances her linens with it. Why? You need only see cutwork on a bed or table linen to know the reason. Its rich beauty—its simplicity of design makes it a choice decoration. But the most important facts to the needlewoman are that it is easy to do, being made of the simplest of stitches—that it is fascinating to watch the work grow—that it is the type of embroidery that can stand endless laundering and still retain its beauty. A variety of choice gifts can be made from the motifs in this pattern.

Pattern 516 offers a pair of motifs 4½x22½ inches, the right size for regulation pillow cases (the edge for the back if the pillow cases is also given). The motifs are so designed that they can be cut off at each end and form motifs for a pair of 15-inch towels or the ends of a scarf. There are also four corners 4½x4¾ inches (two and two reverses) and six 2½-inch corners for tea napkins. The pattern contains directions with illustrated stitches for doing cutwork and suggestions and yardages for a variety of linens.

Send 10c for this pattern to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth avenue, New York City.

Contract Bridge -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

The Choice of a Trump Suit

I have often referred to the advantages on very close hands, when there is a choice between two suits as the eventual trump, of ordinarily selecting a trump suit divided 4-4 in the partnerships hands rather than one with 5-4 or 5-3 distribution. The reason is, of course, obvious. After the adverse trumps are drawn, length in a suit in one hand can be utilized to discard losers in the other, provided the long suit is a side suit, but this cannot be done with a trump suit.

An appreciation of this truth permitted Messrs. George Reith and Walter Malowan to make a Grand Slam in the experts' room at a bridge club in New York, the other day, which could not possibly have been made had the longer suit been chosen. The hand was:

North, Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.
Mr. Reith

Mr Reith
♠ K 9 6 3 2
♥ A 9
♦ K 10 9 6
♣ A 8

West:
♠ J 7 4
♥ K Q 10 8 5
♣ Q J 7 4

East:
♠ Q
♥ J 6 3 2
♦ J 5 3 2
♣ 9 5 3 2

South:
♠ A 10 8 5
♦ A Q 8 4
♣ K 10 6

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	3 ♦	Pass
4 ♦	Pass	4 ♠	Pass
4 N T	Pass	5 N T	Pass
6 ♦	Pass	7 ♦	Pass
Pass	Pass

The student will note that through the use of the Four-Five Notrump Convention, first round control of all suits was disclosed and that the final choice of the trump suit was based upon the consideration of the probability of needing the long suit trick upon which to discard a loser. The bidding, however, was far too enthusiastic.

In the play of the hand West opened the heart King which was won, of course, with the Ace in Dummy. Mr. Malowan now led a small diamond from the Dummy and won with the Ace in his own hand. He returned a second round of diamonds, leading a small card and when West showed out won the trick with the King. A finesse in the diamond suit was then taken, but before drawing East's last trump three rounds of clubs were led, the last being ruffed with Dummy's last trump. Mr. Malowan now returned to his own hand by leading a small spade, upon which East played the Queen. The last trump was laid down, and the last heart in Dummy discarded. East's Queen of spades did not necessarily mean a singleton. He might have made the same play holding the Queen and Knave-blank. However, West had held one diamond only, and if in addition to a singleton diamond had held a doubleton in spades, the distribution of his hand would probably have been such as to justify a non-vulnerable overcall of South's three diamond bid. West had played the Knave of clubs on the third lead. This showed a maximum of four clubs in his hand. Thus, if he held two spades only, he would have held six hearts. Reviewing these facts, Mr. Malowan finessed the spades and made a Grand Slam. Had he instead played the spades for a break, the opponents would, of course, have taken the remaining tricks.

TODAY'S QUESTION

My partner bid one spade and I, holding

♠ 9 4 ♥ 8 5 ♦ A 9 3 ♣ A 10 8 6 4 3

bid two clubs. My partner bid two notrump. What should I bid now?

Answer—Three notrump. If you bid three clubs it would be a Sign-off, and with two honor-tricks and a six-card suit you do not want to tell your partner there is no possible game in the hand.

Church Box Coins Jingle, Nab Crooks

CHICAGO, Nov. 3—Nickels and dimes that jingled too loudly in the pockets of five men caused their arrest and identification by three priests as the bandits who held up the rectory of St. Columbana's Catholic Church and escaped with a $1,000 Sunday collection.

Police said they traced two of the men through a rooming house landlady who said they had been paying their rent in small change.

INDIANS ACCEPT U. S. PROGRAM

TUBA CITY, Ariz., Nov. 3—(AP.)—Navajo leaders give Tom (Chee) Dodge credit for the tribal council's favorable vote on a government program which assures allotment of nearly $6,000,000 of federal funds for reservation improvements.

The 73-year-old leader told the elected councilmen they wrangled and talked "endlessly, like paleface politicians," and urged acceptance of a government program as outlined by Indian Commissioner John Collier.

The council so voted even to the extent of agreeing to reduce the size of the flocks of sheep and goats, a precious possession of the Navajo.

Gone! That COLD—
When This Remedy Gets Busy!

A cold is no joke and Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine treats it as none! It goes right to the seat of the trouble, an infection within the system. Surface remedies are largely makeshift.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is speedy and effective because it is expressly a cold remedy and because it is direct and internal—and COMPLETE! It does the four things necessary. It opens the bowels, combats the cold germs, reduces fever in the system, relieves the headache and grippy feeling and tones and fortifies the entire system. IN-LAW TROUBLE WINS DIVORCE FOR GIRL WIFE

The Minsingers were married November 10, 1931, when she was 16 and her husband 17. She went to live at his home, where conditions were disagreeable, she testified, adding:

"The family treated me as if they did not know me and told me I just married their son for his money."

Mrs. Minsinger finally left and went to her family home.

Divorce suits were filed by Florence L. Tuttle against Wallace E. Tuttle, Laura M. Crytzer against Herbert Crytzer, Mary A. Ayers against Harry B. Ayers, Marion Cetinski against Joseph Cetinski, Edna Bring against Charles Bring, Sara F. Scichilone against Alfonso Scichilone, Margaret A. Orbin against Edward C. Orbin and by Dorothy M. BABY SALE LAID TO 3 DOCTORS

TULSA, Okla., Nov. 3.—(AP.)—Mrs. Mabel Bassett, state commissioner of charities and corrections, yesterday presented the Tulsa County Medical Society formal charges that three physicians here had sold unwanted babies to obtain their fees as obstretricians.

Last August, Mrs. Bassett and Tulsa welfare workers, while investigating an alleged illegal adoption, found evidence which they said pointed to the three physicians as having "sold" nine babies for prices ranging from $50 to $100 to persons eager to adopt children.

Explusion from the medical society is the only punishment possible for the physicians should the censors' find them guilty of unethical practice.

Housewives of Pittsburgh and vicinity are still getting a thrill out of the Prudence Penny favorite recipe awarded prizes in the Sun-Telegraph every day. One woman said in her letter of yesterday:

"I have always been considered a so-called plain cook. My family has never complained about what I put on the table to eat, but for a long time I have known my one shortcoming — the knack of serving good meals plus variety.

"The Sun-Telegraph has changed this condition for me, the Prudence Penny prize recipes not only furnishing the variety I so much required, but also the opportunity for me to serve many things I never before knew about."

The Sun-Telegraph awards $15 in cash prizes every day for the best favorite home recipes submitted to Prudence Penny—$5 for the best of the day and $1 each to 10 others every day. Take a chance—send in your favorites.

If they win a prize they will be printed in the Sun-Telegraph and in this way help other housewives. Address Prudence Penny, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa., and send in as many as you like.

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

Portrait of a Columnist Taking It Easy

There probably never was an obituary notice like it—but it was actually published first in a mid-west journal and later by one of the more conservative papers in New York—and on the front page. Opie Reid, a great editor, is credited with parenting it. It follows:

"Sam Lobdel is dead. Some days ago he was stricken with poisoning from a wound while fighting with his wife when he was drunk. Sam was an unique character. Only once in a generation is a community pestered with such a human viper. He was the unsolved conundrum: 'What is he good for?' His only virtue was the persistence of his wickedness; his only excellence was the stability of his unrepentance. Booze fighter, liar, chicken thief, wife beater, egg stealer, profane and vile of speech.

"He was the trademark of sin, the emblem of vice, with no crime but work beyond his capacity. He was even worse; but he has gone hence, and it is never our inclination to kick a man when he is down. Yet at his death his proverbial luck was with him. He goes below just as the whitening frost and chilling wind are ushering in a cold and tedious season for the good who are left. As was often the case when in life or in jail, he'll keep warm at others' expense. Well, so long, Sam—and so long as it is going to be for long—good luck."

The gossip-column influence has finally crashed the pages of a London newspaper. The Sunday Dispatch of London on October 8 covered Mayfair in this manner, with the usual apologies. The Marquess of Donegall wrote as follows: "... the sitchee-ayshun was tense—then peace broke out ... One Englishman soon to be melted is uh-huh with Sandra, two others will soon be merged ... They have no sensayuma ... The Smileys are infanticipating ... What actor's new heart is a peeress? ... Jimmy Walker is Savoying ... One girl ankled in for some alcholidaying."

The Marquess was only stumped on the spelling of the word "phfft" which he spells "ppphf." The second "f" is silent, sir.

One paragrapher from the provinces still believes that the New York paragraphers are buddies, chums and pals. He sets forth in a long complaint that no matter how foul the material written by the so-called "log-rollers" in Manhattan, they continue to encourage each other. "There is a closed door in New York," continues the writer, "and capable people from the hinterland cannot crash it. New Yorkers have sore hands and big backs and the slapping grows louder."

Of course this is among the legends. There might have been log-rolling five or more years ago—but we have not recognized any of it since then. The argument, however, reminds us of the best retort to that charge. F. P. A. and Heywood Broun, when their columns were next to each other on the old World—were often accused of scratching each other on the back in their respective pillars. As a matter of fact—although neighbors, they heckled one another—and sometimes with a wallop.

"Yes, indeedy," observed one who knew them intimately, "you can still see F. P. A.'s scratch on Broun's back to this day!"

The columnist from the mid-west is offered this photograph of a foursome, who sat in a night club too many thousands of nights ago. One of the four was a devastating opinion-giver, who basked in the rays of the intelligentsia. Failure, as we used to say of him, had gone to his head. At any rate, he was disparaging a newcomer to journalism, who was called away from the bar to join the party. The other two in the group were a famous writer and his wife, also an author.

"You don't understand me," nastied the one who never picked up a check in a speakeasy. "I really am fond of you, but I protest against your good fortune—you don't belong up here with us."

The well known writer added: "He means to say that he is sore because you've made rapid strides."

The writer's wife was more explicit. "Until I married," she said, "I was very successful as a writer. I still hunger for literary fame, and like your disparager, I have my own idea of heaven. It is a place where we sit on each side of God and fret when people like you are invited to join us."

The word portraits of Stanley Walker in "Night Club Era" which will be offered on the 9th—held this corner's interest for a full night. But the New York part of his observations, it seemed to us, were his ramblings at the end of the tome, some of which are herewith set forth: Walter Davenport the night in Jimmy Kelly's, when he believed the Apache act was real and chivalrously rose to the defense of the girl ... Alice Roosevelt Longworth giving her dinner-table parody of her cousin, Mrs. Franklin Delano Roosevelt, speaking over the radio a great bit of mimicry .... The deadly, close-lipped command of Capt. Patrick McVeigh, of New York Police Headquarters, as he turned to his strong-arm squad during a raid on a "clip" and said: "Toss this joint into the street!" .... The proud terror of Herbert Asbury the week he thought he had been threatened by gangsters .... Gene Buck, sentimental old song writer, propounding his belief that when love is weighed against duty and all else, "one woman's hair is stronger than the Atlantic cable" .... My senseless but continual surprise that there is a lawyer named Hyacinthe Ringrose, a prize fighter named Popper Stopper, a press agent named Fice Mork, a splendid chap named Damon duBlois Wack, and a woman in Harlem named Floy Perfect.

Among other fascinating accounts is this by an anonymous author, who describes himself as a writer, who remarks that in the last few years he has achieved a certain amount of recognition at his craft. "I am perched," he says in part, "for the moment moderately well up on the slippery rungs of the ladder called success, and it isn't nearly as jolly as I had been led to suppose. The initial sensation is undoubtedly exhilarating. One stands for the moment enchanted in the gaudy flare of having been shot out of the vast herd of nobodies into a somebody.

"One has arrived ... Nor, at this dizzy moment, can one fail to note how right, how just, how merited arriving is. The ego soars off on a wonderful joy ride; one's eyes brighten; one's pulse quickens; one's step lightens. At this point some of us crack under the strain and become unspeakable bounders for the rest of our lives—particularly if we have been shot up too suddenly, with luck the main mixture in the compound. For the others, the effect is probably salubrious, on the whole. One's metabolism is undoubtedly benefited by becoming gently stewed once in a blue moon. The effects are similar.

"A month or two of this toxic drug, and then the ego comes to roost, the ground turns firm under one's feet, and there is today to be got through, and tomorrow—and the day after—crammed from morning to night; aye, and far into the night to think up, create and invent wordage so that the checks will keep coming in."

Henry L. Stoddard was once a political reporter. Things broke too good for him and he bought the old New York Evening Mail—later he peddled it to Frank Munsey for $2,500,000. And Mr. Stoddard offered this counsel to newspapermen: "If you would be content — never make too much money. I am bored because I have enough of it."

Miss Hepburn Evades Mob In Rain

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1933, King Features Synd., Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 3.—While a preview crowd milled out of the theater singing the praises of Katharine Hepburn in "Little Women," the star of the picture crept out of an alley exit and, for 25 minutes, sat huddled on a basement stair being soaked to the skin by a drenching rain.

Miss Hepburn

The screen's bright, new star chose to do this rather than to face the photographers and the fans who mobbed the entrance to the Ritz Theater as on the night of a Grauman's Chinese premiere.

Of course, La Hepburn hadn't intended to get wet. Through previous arrangements with the theater, she made her entrance by the same alley door. She expected to find her chauffeur there at the end of the picture, but he misunderstood and was waiting out front.

True to her recent Garboish tendencies, the actress hid and shivered until someone thought to look for her in the alley.

And, by way of showing the Hepburn popularity in the film colony, the manager of the Ritz had to write new Hollywood history by running the picture over again. Seven hundred guests were invited and 900 showed up.

Now that Mrs. Lon Chaney is dead, it's time to exonerate John Jeske, the family chauffeur and friend, from unfair criticism. Jeske did not seek to marry the dying widow of the film star for selfish reasons, but at her own wish. It is no secret that Mrs. Chaney did not get on well with some of her late husband's people. Close friends say she hoped, by marrying Jeske, to avoid will contests and to entrust him with distributing her money to her own relatives. The chauffeur, a man in his forties and a companion to Lon Chaney during his lifetime, merely agreed to accept the commission.

Strange are the ways of coincidence. Last week-end, John Farrow, a great lover of ships, took Maureen O'Sullivan down to Los Angeles harbor. He saw a four-masted schooner and went over to look at it. To his amazement, it turned out to be the Samar, the vessel upon which he worked his way to this country a number of years ago. Today the once proud schooner is a fishing barge that takes anglers outside the harbor for so much a head.

The honeymoon of Lupe Velez and Johnny Weissmuller will be to Honolulu—that is if they can ever get off from Picture work at the same time. Meanwhile, Johnny wants to accompany Lupe on the "Laughing Boy" location. He's bought a western outfit, and hopes to get in a lot of horseback riding.

Miriam Jordan is miffed because Fox made her cut short her vacation and then postponed her picture when she arrived in Hollywood. She's trying to negotiate a trip back to New York to spend more time with her fiance ... George Raft is practicing the bull-fight art for "The Trumpet Blows" in the costume that the late Rudolph Valentino wore for "Blood and Sand." He looks uncannily like Valentino, too ... This latter part of the week will see Joan Crawford leaving for her New York vacation ... After Eddie Sutherland gave that party for the mothers of the chorus girls who worked with him in "Too Much Harmony," a half dozen of the girls called him down the next day for keeping their parents out so late.

Thrill Film In Fulton

By ZORA D. UNKOVICH

All the well-worn tricks of mystery thrillers are combined in an unconvincing presentation of "Charlie Chan's Greatest Case," showing in the Fulton. Slinking figures, hatred, revenge, are employed indiscriminately. Plausibility is entirely ignored in this story of murder that has even a graveyard scene.

The murdered man is a wealthy "playboy" with enemies enough for three stories. A radium wrist watch, a bit of seaweed, and ever-appearing Corsican cigarets are the only clues.

There is a self-righteous, "you'll-be-damned-in-the-next-world" brother, a sister, Minerva, of whom the family back in Boston disapprove, a straight-laced nephew, come from Massachusetts to escort her home, and a beautiful daughter, very much in love.

The hero is the nephew who, of course, falls in love with the daughter of the man accused of the murder. For variety in feminine types (the other women are very genteel), others are the murdered man's hard-boiled fiancee and her unexpectedly rough gigolo.

Warner Oland, in his character of the Chinese detective, Charlie Chan, supplies some welcome bits of Oriental philosophy in the course of his investigations. And his family scenes, he only has 10 children, are realistically humorous.

Heather Angel makes an impudently likeable Carlotta, the heroine, who falls in love with the very proper John Quincy Wintership (John Warbarton). And taking a leading part in the action of the whole picture is Clara Blandick, amusing you with her indignant Minerva.

Metropolitan Soprano To Sing Tonight

Grete Stueckgold, Metropolitan Opera soprano, will give the second Art Society concert in Carnegie Music Hall tonight. She will open her program with "Oh, Had I Jubal's Lyre," by Handel. Other composers represented in her numbers are Schubert, Brahms, Hugo Wolf and Richard Strauss. The aria, "Ritorna Vincitor," from "Aida," by Verdi, will be a feature of the concert.

Powell Plays Football in Stanley

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Our own Dick Powell, who has been quite peacable in his movie characterizations, gets tough and socks Lyle Talbot in "Football Coach," photoplay that "has its moments" on the Stanley screen. Later they foget their grudge and both get into an important game, when their team, dear old Calvert, is floundering, 20 to 0, and pull the contest, not merely out of the fire, but out of the conflagration. Ordinarily the screen football hero has to make only one decisive touchdown to provide the thrills, but the Calvert backfield, known as "The Four Aces," are such supermen that a single touchdown would be a trifle for them, so they have to make three in a few minutes, and kick an equal number of goals.

But, how come the "Aces" are not in the game until it seems lost? Well, that's the story of "College Coach," and you'll just have to see it to find out. And you won't find it hard to take, although your opinion may be that it would be better were Calvert not to win that particular contest. Or any other, as a matter of fact, because the tale is an exposition of the game as it is played for money.

Pat O'Brien has the principal role, as a coach whose teams are such consistent winners that he is engaged by Calvert. It hasn't won a game in three years, but the board thinks a peerless eleven would help to pull the institution out of the red, so Pat is engaged. And he brings along some of his own "tramps", and enrolls them as students. Powell, a real student, is good enough to make the grade as one of the invincible backfield, which also includes Talbot, one of the aforesaid "tramps," very fresh and fully aware of his own importance. When the board decides that "professionalism" is hurting, and that the football team must make the grade in studies, Talbot learns how smart he really is.

He takes two punchings, one from Powell and another from O'Brien, when the latter discovers him with his wife, played by Ann Dvorak. Yet they all, rather illogically, get together for that tremendous smash to overcome a 20-point advantage.

It can be classified as a comedy drama with plenty of action, in which O'Brien and Talbot are high score, with Powell, Miss Dvorak and Franklin Pangborn the runners-up.

Comedy

Helen Wayne will play a leading role in the comedy, "Three-Cornered Moon," to open Monday in Civic Playhouse, Hotel Schenley.

Musical Comedy Star Goes Into Films

Harriet Lake, blonde stage and musical comedy star, will make her screen debut in the leading role of "Let's Fall in Love," musical comedy drama by Herbert Fields, with music by Harold Arlen and Ted Koehler. The late Florenz Ziegfeld engaged Miss Lake for a part in "Smiles." Later she appeared in "America's Sweetheart," "Everybody's Welcome" and in the lead in the Chicago company of "Of Thee I Sing."

Coming Screen Programs

Russ Columbo is a radio singer who falls in love with Constance Cummings, a dancer, in Walter Winchell's "Broadway Through a Keyhole" feature now showing in the Penn. Texas Guinan, Paul Kelly, Blossom Seeley, Gregory Ratoff, Frances Williams, Eddie Foy, Jr., and Abe Lyman and his band are also in the cast.

Barbara Stanwyck and Otto Kruger have the leading roles in "Ever in My Heart," photoplay opening today in the Warner and Sheridan Square. Miss Stanwyck plays the part of an American wife of a German soldier in the World War. Ralph Bellamy also has a prominent role.

Bing Crosby, Judith Allen and Skeets Gallagher are featured in "Too Much Harmony," now showing in the Davis.

"I Have Lived," with Alan Dinehart and Anita Page in the principal roles, is the screen offering in the Pitt today. On the stage are Walter Walters & Co., with five other acts of vaudeville.

Mae Robson and Warren William have the featured roles in "Lady for a Day," photoplay opening tomorrow in the Enright.

* * *

"Tarzan, the Fearless," with Buster Crabbe as the jungle man, will begin an engagement on the screen of the Family Theater, East Liberty, Saturday.

All in a Day

Odds and Ends

IT happened the other night during the progress of one of the few crap games that are still to be found around town. One player, known far and wide for his ability to maintain a reputation on a very short bankroll, suddenly went broke.

That was nothing extraordinary, because it was doubtful whether the man had more than $25 to begin with. But he made a good deal of noise about his losses, and finally drew a check book from his pocket with a great flourish.

Moving to one side, he wrote out a check for $200 and then returned to the game.

"Here's my check for $200," he announced. "It's good as gold, of course. Will one of you boys kindly cash it for me?"

The other players looked at one another. This bird's checks bounced back like golf balls and, if he had $200 in the bank, it was indeed a decided novelty. Small wonder that the men hesitated.

"Come on," cried the first player indignantly, "what are you boys waiting for? Everyone knows my checks are as safe as they can be. I'm a huge loser here, and I'm entitled to my chance to come back. Who's going to cash this?"

The big winner at the table shrugged his shoulders and counted out $200. He tossed it over.

"Here," he growled. "Gimme that check. Not that I want it, but your beefing is liable to wake the neighbors. Whose roll is it?"

The game went on. And two hours later, the entire situation was different. On the $200 that had been given him, the first player had now won almost three-quarters of the money in the game. And the man who had cashed the check was almost cleaned out.

When it came his turn to handle the dice, the latter man took the $200 check from his pocket and tossed it over to the first player.

"I'm shooting that $200," he announced. "Cash that check back again, bud. I'm the guy that needs it now."

The other man looked disdainfully at the check he had drawn a few hours before. He drew himself up.

"I'm sorry," was his amazing reply as he shoved his own check away, "but I never cash checks during a dice game!" . . .

STRANGE how times change in a city like New York. If the water rates go any higher, it is Al Klein's notion that the grocers will soon be adding milk to the water! . . .

A MUG in a job, such as mine, gets many a strange piece of mail. Here's one that came in yesterday:

"Dear Sir—Upon looking over your files, I find that on August 16, 1932, you used a gag of mine and credited me only with my initials.

"There happens to be quite a number of people with the initials 'L. A.,' so you can see that I was not fairly rewarded for my work. I hope you will look into this matter."

And the letter is signed 'L. A.'! . . .

ALL of which reminds me of the famous telegram that was sent by Bugs Baer to Bill LaHiff when the later gentleman was given a surprise party at his own restaurant.

"Dear Old Pal," the telegram read, "you're a wonderful fellow, old pal, and you deserve all that your pals are doing for you, old pal I'm sorry I can't be with you, old pal, but I want you to know that your old pal is with you in spirit, old pal. All best to my old pal."

And the telegram was signed: "An Old Pal."

FROM Hy Goldstein, entertaining columnist of Zit's Weekly, comes the best blackout of the season. Slightly cleaned and pressed, it concerns the millionaire perfumer who married a pretty chorine some 30 years younger than himself.

Amongst his wedding gifts to her was a specially constructed closet that was built into her boudoir and contained some $50,000 worth of rare perfumes, toilet waters and powders. Nobody knew what she was going to do with all that junk. But there was the closet—and there it stayed.

The elderly perfumer often went away on trips. And if you know your movies, you'll anticipate the fact that as soon as the husband departed, the wife's old sweetie moved in.

One night the usual thing happened. Hubby returned unexpectedly, and Mr. Gigolo had to hide. The handiest place was the perfume closet. In he went, the door was bolted—and there he stayed.

Hubby remained at home eight hours. When he finally left the apartment, wifey raced to the closet. She opened it nervously, and her darling collapsed in her arms. He had been overcome by heat, hunger—and $50,000 worth of rare perfumes and powders.

A healthy shot of rye, and the fellow blinked his eyes. The woman patted his forehead gently.

"I'm sorry, honey," she moaned. "What can I bring you?"

The gigolo shivered.

"What can you bring me?" he chied hoarsely. "For heaven's sake, bring me a whiff of garbage!" . . .

IN the middle of a rather hectic gathering in the Thirties last week, a stew staggered out of a rear room.

"Somebody help Mamie," he cried wildly. "She's crying, thas what she'sh doing. She'sh depressed. She saysh she'sh gonna blow her brains out!"

Mamie's best friend settled back in her chair.

"Then we got nothing to worry about," she murmured. "She's no sharpshooter." . . .

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Pola Negri, who will be seen in the Nixon next week, is a versatile young woman. Besides having established herself as a stage actress in Europe and making a name as an international screen star, she also is a singer. Last season she gave concerts in Paris, Brussels and Marseilles. When she comes to do her first legitimate stage portrayal in America in "A Trip to Pressburg," she will be making her second personal appearance in Pittsburgh, the first having been in a skit in a Stanley presentation, in which she sang. The coming play, an adaptation of a success of the European theater, will be the third subscription offering of the American Theater Society. The company is expected in town today for the final rehearsals.

Cornelia Otis Skinner, who will come to the Nixon November 16, 17 and 18 in three offerings of what she calls mono-drama, seems to have developed a distinct novelty in the theater since her withdrawal from the regular field of the legitimate stars. In "The Wives of Henry VIII," "The Empress Eugenie" and "The Loves of Charles II" she will portray characters in studies written by herself, she alone furnishing the entire entertainment in sequences of characterizations that tell a complete story. Each group will be preceded by other character studies by Miss Skinner, who made her debut in the company of her father in "Blood and Sand."

Soprano

Grete Stueckgold, prima donna soprano, will appear in the Art Society concert in Carnegie Music Hall tonight.

Gleason, Armstrong In 'Beauty' Film

The screen, stage and radio team of James Gleason and Robert Armstrong will be reunited in Paramount's film, "The Search for Beauty." The production will also include Buster Crabbe, Ida Lupino and Toby Wing, together with the 15 girls and 15 men assembled in Hollywood from over the world by the "Search for Beauty" contest.

Clark Gable Loaned To Play Lead

Clark Gable has been borrowed from M-G-M for the leading role in "Night Bus," one of Columbia's most important offerings of the new season, which will be brought to the screen under another title. He joins a cast including Elissa Landi, Leslie Howard, Lewis Milestone, Frank Borzage, Laurence Stallings, Walter Connolly, Edmund Lowe, Joseph Schildkraut, Carole Lombard and Mary Brian.

"Night Bus," which appeared in novelette form in the Cosmopolitan Magazine, is by Samuel Hopkins Adams. It tells a romantic love story against a novel background, the picturesque route of a long-distance bus.

Fight High in Air Movie Thrill

One of the biggest thrill scenes in "Day of Reckoning," prison drama being filmed by the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios, is a fight on a 12-story building between Richard Dix and Conway Tearle—and they were even more thrilled than spectators who watched them. All that kept them from plunging to their death were the strong wrists of four men who held their feet while they fought.

May Robson Given Wall Street Tale

"The Witch of Wall Street," an original story by Dudley Nichols and Lamar Trotti dealing with the adventures of a woman operator in New York's financial mart, has been purchased by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer as a May Robson vehicle.

Alice Buys 'Taxicab' In Fares Paid

Alice Brady decided that distances were too great for her from the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios to Los Angeles, so she ordered her large 16-cylinder town car to be sent out from New York. She had been riding around in one certain taxicab. She said:

"I used that cab so much that I'll bet I paid for the old wreck!"

Benny Fields First To 'Croon'

Benny Fields (Blossom Seeley's husband) was a-crooning long before Rudy Vallee sobbed a note. Fields, singing in a night club, was cracking his voice trying to top the din. One night he reached for a megaphone instead of a cough drop—and started something.

TRIED FOR MURDER

Jessie Costello, Tried for Murder and Found "Not Guilty" in the Most Sensational Murder Trial of the Year, Now Tells Her Own Complete Story for the First Time

"I AM not usually interested in marital murder trials. Wives are accused of killing husbands and husbands of killing wives because of unhappy marriage relationships. But this woman was happily married. She flirted with another man not because she was unhappy, but because she was happy. That may sound like a paradox. But it is true. It is not the unhappy women who flirt. It is the happy ones. Having the admiration of one man they quite often seek the admiration of another. It is this strange quirk of feminine vanity that interests me most in this sensational case."

BERNARR MACFADDEN

"TO ME, the outstanding factor of this story is that it shows how the most trivial events of an every day life can be magnified into terrible importance when some major tragedy occurs. What chance has any man or woman against the element of chance?"

FULTON OURSLER
Supervising Editor

"I KNEW before the manuscript of this famous murder case ever came to my desk, that Jessie Costello, in spite of the fact that the jury had found her not guilty, was again going to place herself on trial before the bar of public opinion. Human beings are strange creatures. They cannot rest their case with the verdict of a jury. They must always make their final appeal to their fellow man—or woman."

WILLIAM JOURDAN RAPP
Editor

JESSIE COSTELLO—principal in the most talked of murder trial of the year, who came within a hair's breadth of the electric chair.

"HE said I was his mistress. I say it's a lie.

"It was the night Franklin D. Roosevelt was elected. We were all on fire with excitement. In the intoxication of that parade I made a remark that cost me everything a woman holds precious.

"For on that cold November night our car halted in traffic beside a good looking young policeman in a blue uniform. Mischievously I yielded to that universal feminine impulse to flirt.

"He caught my eye and smiled and a shiver of exhilaration went through me. For his eyes registered that I, Jessie Costello, mother of four children, ten years married, was to his vision still a pretty girl behind the wheel of an automobile."

Later Jessie Costello says she helped this young policeman and his wife when they were in difficulties, taking him into her home when the wife was about to have a baby and taking the wife and her two children into her home when the policeman was stricken with appendicitis. It was this policeman who became the star witness for the State when Jessie Costello's husband was found dead of poison.

It was thus that Jessie Costello travelled the road from a mild flirtation in a traffic jam to within a hair's breadth of the State's electric chair.

Read her story and see what your verdict would have been.

It Will Pay You to Read This One

THE other day a friend gave my wife a recipe for a new Froze Orange Pudding. We had it last night for dessert.

"This is something new," I said. "Where did you get it?"

"Mae gave me the recipe yesterday. She clipped it from a advertisement."

My wife didn't read that advertisement. If her friend hadn't read it, what a treat we would have missed.

Do you read the advertisements? It will pay you many times over to do so. From them you may learn about all sorts of new things. New foods, new ways to use them, new recipes that will add variety to the daily menu.

Right in the advertisements in this paper there are countless things to interest you, to save you money, to bring you the most value for what you spend. And now, as a reward for reading this advertisement, here is the recipe that inspired it.

Recipe for Frozen Orange Pudding

Ingredients: 2 egg yolks (beaten); 1 cup orange juice; 1 cup cream (light cream or top milk will do); 4 teaspoonfuls flour; ⅛ teaspoonful salt; ⅓ cup sugar; 1 teaspoonful grated orange rind.

Blend thoroughly egg yolks, sugar, flour, salt, and add orange juice and cream. Put in double boiler until thick. Add orange rind, cool and pour into freezing tray of refrigerator—or three or four hours on ice. When ready to serve, top each dish with meringue made by beating two egg whites stiff and adding ¼ cup sugar. Garnish with orange segments.

It pays to read all the advertisements in this paper.

Daylight Test of Duquesne. Reaction Big Problem. Panthers Not in Danger. • Carnegie in Tough Spot. Boost for Irish Mentor. Chances Favor Maxie.

DUKES LOOK WINNERS BUT MUST HUSTLE

Sectional football interest and attention tomorrow will center in the meeting of the Dukes and the Presidents out Washington way. The game would carry plenty of appeal in itself, as likely to be one of the hottest seen on any Western Pennsylvania field this season, and it is additionally attractive and important as a signpost giving a line on Duquesne's chances against Pitt one week later. W. & J.'s fighting gridders have been a source of grief to Pittsburgh teams this fall. They held Pitt without a point for 56 minutes, lost out by only 9 to 0, and then fought Carnegie Tech to a scoreless tie. Whether they can halt Art Strutt, Al DeLuca, Silvio Zaninelli and the other parts of the Bluff attack in the same way is the big question to be answered tomorrow.

Art Strutt

The main problem on the side of the Dukes is to what extent their play will be affected by the reaction in shifting from after-dark to daylight competition. The Laydens have won seven games in a row for a perfect season to date, but s will be their first daytime test, and the change from the ctrics to the sunlight may have some temporary effect. er Layden is authority for the statement that the Dukes shown a reaction every year in their first daylight game, pite of regular daylight practice during the fall, and that rnoon practice sessions differ vastly from actual afternoon petition. It takes at least one real contest to accustom Bluffites to the change. For three straight years they have t their first daylight game. On the W. & J. side there is question of whether the Presidents will be on their best ntal and physical edge in view of what they spent against rnegie last Saturday.

UKES MAY WIN, BUT NOT WITHOUT FIGHT

Everything considered, the chances appear to favor a victory for the Dukes, by reason of a stronger and more varied attack, with passing skill standing out, and better replacements, but the Pittsburghers will have to extend themselves if they hope to surpass the showing of Pitt and Carnegie.

And they must avoid overconfidence or taking anything for granted because of the fact that they have been successful Wash-Jeff heretofore and have twice beaten the Presi- 2 to 0 in 1928 and 19 to 0 last season. Admittedly, 's team is no ordinary one, but neither is W. & J's.

E NOT LIKELY TO PRESS PANTHERS

ne first Pittsburgh's appearance of a team from Centre e. of Danville, Ky., a school made famous 15 years ago McMillin and the rest of the Praying Colonels under ey Moran, puts a bit of new color into Pitt's game at tadium tomorrow. But as a contest, the number is not to see the Panthers sorely pressed.

DUE GAME DANGER SPOT FOR CARNEGIE

Carnegie Tech's record of not having been defeated this will be in grave danger at Lafayette, Ind., tomorrow, the Skibos go against Purdue in the first of a string of traight games on the road. Nearly always boasting strong under the able coaching of Noble . Purdue this year has one of the levens in the country. The Boiler-s are undefeated in Western Con games. They beat Chicago and nsin by the same score, 14 to 0. ight have registered a victory over sota instead of a 7-to-7 tie if the had not been cut short by three es through an error in the timeng.

Noble Kizer

ardue lost two fine players of 1932 oy Horstman, fullback, and Paul , end, the latter now with the Pittsgh pros, but retained a heap of exienced material for another well anced team. The line has been re ilt around Ed Fehring, tackle, the hool's best forward. The main strength is behind the line. Purdue has more good backs than any other Big Ten team.

ANDERSON DEFENDED BY FOLLANSBEE FANS

Bearing the signatures of Harry Edwards and Bill Shaefer, the following was received from Follansbee, W. Va.:

> "Those who are yelling for Hunk Anderson's scalp may have overlooked the obstacles which have confronted the Notre Dame coach and caused him many a nightmare. Do the grandstand quarterbacks who are raising all this commotion realize just what Hunk has been up against?
> "First of all, he has been using two sophomores, Elser and Pilney, in his regular backfield. Melinkovich, star fullback of last year, has been out, and Kurth, Koken, Greeney, Harris, Seeketski, Jaskwich, Vejar, Murphy, Kosky, Host and Alexander were lost by graduation last June. What a team could be picked from those stars!
> "The Irish play the toughest schedule in the country. They must take every game in stride and can't point for any contest in particular. Also the quality of the material is below the usual Notre Dame standard, and yet these guys kick.
> "To fill Rockne's place in the football picture at Notre Dame is quite an order for any man. Anderson had the opportunity of helping Rockne develop one of the greatest teams the latter ever coached, and no doubt understands the system as well as any one.
> "We want to say 'Let's give Anderson a break.' He sure deserves it. Let all Notre Dame fans show the good old spirit for which Notre Dame is noted, and give Hunk Anderson a boost instead of a shove."

ROSENBLOOM'S TITLE NEXT ON LINE TONIGHT

Another ring champion steps out tonight to defy the hoodoo year. That is, if meeting the ancient and well thumped Mickey Walker may be said to involve any extraordinary measure of danger. For Walker is to be the opponent of Maxie Rosenbloom in a 15-round bout in New York in which Rosenbloom will lay his world light heavyweight championship on the line. Walker was a great fighter in his day and rose to two championships, but his poor showing against Lou Brouillard a few months ago was an indication that he has little left. As far as the main game is concerned, he'll probably have to hang up his gloves if he takes another beating tonight.

Mickey Walker

In Rosenbloom, Mickey will meet a foe who has paid as little attention as himself to training rules. But Maxie is three years younger, and though he can't hit hard enough to threaten any real physical damage to Walker, he retains enough speed and steam to indicate ill slap his way to the decision. Rosenbloom [illegible] recall has won so often when adjudged due for a licking, that it suggests the possibility he may go down hen he looks like a certain winner.

Looks as if Pitt will be right in the middle in its game with Centre at the Stadium tomorrow. And speaking of Centre, Shotwell is playing a bangup game for the Panthers in the middle of the line. A decade and a half ago, Centre College produced a Wonder Team down there in Danville, Ky., and two of its greatest players later came to Western Pennsylvania as coaches—Bo McMillin, at Geneva College, and Red Roberts, at Waynesburg College. The Kentucky Colonels, here tomorrow, bring back memories of those days. Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph pictures.

TARTAN SQUAD WORKS OUT IN LOGANSPORT

LOGANSPORT, Ind., Nov. 3.—Carnegie Tech's varsity footballers, 32 in all, arrived here this morning from Pittsburgh and will remain until time to move on to Lafayette tomorrow and the battle with Purdue's powerful Boilermakers.

The Tartans, victors over Temple, Notre Dame and Xavier, will stage a workout on the local high school field this afternoon. The drill will consist of kicking, passing and running through offensive formation, with a possible dummy defensive workout against Boilermaker plays.

TWO BACKFIELDS SET

Coach Howard Harpster has two sets of backs ready for duty tomorrow. One set consists of Bevevino at quarter, Spisak and Vorderburg at the halves and Joe Mihm at full. This is the quartet likely to start. The other has Bill Carlson at quarter, Terebus and Spencer at the halves and Sayles at full.

The Plaid hopes to check the Purdue attack tomorrow and, if possible, smother it entirely. Purdue has scored at least one touchdown in each of its last 44 games.

Coach Harpster is not counting in starting Lib Lewis, veteran right end, who was injured as he scored the touchdown in the Notre Dame game. Goodridge will get the call in his place.

A memorial for the 1903 Purdue eleven, who figured in a tragic wreck, will be held tomorrow at Lafayette. The game itself will provide the chief feature of Purdue's annual homecoming day celebration.

CARTER MAY START

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Purdue's "Twelve-Threat" backfield of Pardonner, Carter, Purvis and Hecker worked together in an extended dummy offensive scrimmage yesterday, leading to belief Coach Noble Kizer may start all four against Carnegie Tech tomorrow instead of reserving Carter until a scoring opportunity is presented.

Fight Against Metric System Due Here

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(AP)—The Metropolitan and New England associations of the A. A. U. will press for repeal of the metric system when the A. A. U.'s annual meeting is held in Pittsburgh, November 19-20-21.

The metric system, adopted at the last annual meeting in order to bring the United States into line with most other nations, failed to meet with general approval. The report of the legislation committee, announced yesterday, revealed that both the Metropolitan, New England Associations are strongly opposed to it.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: WHAT IS ELASTICITY?—Elasticity is the ability of matter to resume its original shape and size after the external strain which caused its deformation has been removed. Various materials differ in their ability to undergo deformation without breaking, and upon this ability depends their elastic rating. Rubber, which is popularly considered very elastic, rates very low in the list of elastic materials, and ivory and glass exceed it greatly in elastic power, while high-grade steel ranks supreme in this respect.

Miss Van Wie, Diegel Trail in Tourney

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 3.—(AP)—The national women's champion, Virginia Van Wie of Chicago, capitalized on two handicap strokes and contributed a birdie 3 on another hole to place the Van Wie-Leo Diegel team in second place in the amateur-pro tourney that opened the annual Southern California open golf championship.

Miss Van Wie had 37-41—78, and the Philadelphia professional 36-35—71. They had a team score of 33-34—67, one stroke behind the two teams which tied for first place, Fred Morrison and Harry Wesbrook of Pasadena and Gilbert Stalkey and John Cannon, of Los Angeles. The leaders each had 33-33—66.

Little Rock Star Sets Cue Mark

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—Charles Summerell, Little Rock, Ark., chalked up a new tournament high run in defeating Arthur Church, New York, in the first of yesterday matches in the national pocket billiards meet here.

Summerell's run of 56 eclipsed a 55 established by George Kelly, Philadelphia, Wednesday. Summerell defeated Church, 125 to 82, in 19 innings. Church had a high run of 26.

Sylvester Schliesman, Minneapolis, broke a three-way tie for the lead when he defeated William Mosconi, youthful favorite from Philadelphia, 125 to 107, in 30 innings. It was Mosconi't first loss.

DIXIE ELEVEN RESPECTED; DUKES SET

By JESS CARVER

Just as ambitious and determined as was the first Centre football team to come out of the South for an invasion of the North, the 1933 edition of the Praying Colonels of Danville, Ky., rolled into town this morning, and tomorrow, will roll onto the Pitt Stadium gridiron for a battle with Pitt's Panthers.

Coach Eddie Kubale, himself a member of the greatest eleven ever to represent the little Southern college, was in charge of the squad of 30 players. The Centre squad staged a drill this afternoon at the Pitt practice field overlooking the stadium. The Davis & Elkins football squad also was a guest of the Pitt authorities. The Scarlet Hurricane stopped off in Pittsburgh on its way to Beaver Falls for its battle with Geneva tomorrow. Cam Henderson, coach of the West Virginians, sent his squad through a brisk drill.

SOPHOMORES STAR

The Colonels opened the present campaign with a veteran eleven, no fewer than 10 lettermen being in the starting lineup. But since opening day, there has been a rush of excellent sophomore talent, with the result that a trio of stellar youngsters have fought their way into the lineup. For example, Earl Bartlett has replaced Hendren at left halfback, and at the start of the season, Hendren was regarded as Centre's outstanding back. Ensminger has won Henn's place at right end and Marks, a 207-pound tackle, is on the right side of the line, with the veteran Lancaster, a senior letterman, riding the bench.

The advance of sophomores, besides strengthening the first team, has added to the impressiveness of the team's reserve power, an all-important factor in football as it is played today.

The same lineup that squared off against Notre Dame at South Bend last week will start against Centre for Pitt, Mike Sebastian again will be on the bench for the opening kickoff, as will Bob Hogan, their places at right halfback and quarter, respectively, being taken by Dick Matesic and Miller Munjas. Coach Sutherland is taking no chances with the Colonels. It isn't the praying part Jock is worried over, it is whether they will turn out to have "preying" tendencies or not.

DUKES AT PEAK

If the Dukes fail to beat Wash-Jeff tomorrow afternoon in their initial daylight game of the season, there will be one point, at least, upon which the locals will not be able to base an alibi. That one point is condition. The squad, down to the last man, is in tiptop physical condition. Even Armand Niccolai, star tackle, who has been suffering with a severe facial injury, is back in harness. Armand worked out yesterday wearing one of those boogeymen face masks and will be ready to start tomorrow.

Save for the quarterback position, the Duquesne starting lineup definitely has been decided upon by Coach Layden. All the regulars will be in there, and there will be a letterman at quarterback, either Frank DeCoster or Joe Cutrona.

The chances are that the Duquesne mentor will not make known his quarterback selection much before game time. Cutrona appears to have a slight edge over the little Frenchmen for the call.

SCHOOL GRID TITLES AT STAKE TODAY

CITY LEAGUERS OFFER THREE BIG DUELS

By JULIUS LEVIN

The championship of the two sections of the City League will be up for settlement and the field of contenders in the race for the class A championship of the W. P. I. A. L. will be reduced from four to three in the important scholastic football contests listed for disposal this afternoon.

The Section I championship hinges on the outcome of two games scheduled today. The two important tussles find South at Allderdice and Westinghouse at Peabody. Peabody and Allderdice, deadlocked for first place, must triumph to retain their joint hold on the top position.

If Westinghouse defeats Peabody and South scores a victory over Allderdice, South will move into first place with little or no chance of being displaced.

The Allderdice students, realizing their team has a chance to win its first football championship, staged a pep meeting last night at the high school. Following a bonfire, held in front of the school, the students paraded through Squirrel Hill.

CARRICK IN TEST

In Section II, the championship likely will be determined by the result of the South Hills-Carrick duel at Langley Field. Carrick, setting the pace in this division at present, needs a victory over the Tunnelites to clinch the honors. A victory for South Hills will send the Mazeski boys into first place.

The W. P. I. A. L. program is headed by the battle between Scott High, of North Braddock, and Duquesne at Duquesne. Both teams are undefeated and untied by class opponents. The two teams have been rivals for a number of years and this season they appear to be evenly matched. Duquesne will be out to turn the tables on Scott for a defeat suffered last season. Monongahela and Ambridge, the remaining two contenders in class A, also are scheduled for games, Monongahela playing Masontown, a class B school at Monongahela today, while Ambridge meets a class A foe in Rochester at Ambridge tomorrow.

CONTENDERS PLAY

Three of the four contenders for the class B championship of the W. P. I. A. L. are listed for important games today. Ramsay High, of Mt Pleasant, meets an old rival in Hurst High at Mt. Pleasant, Edgewood plays at East Pittsburgh, and Zelienople is the attraction at Evans City.

The Ramsay-Hurst game, while not a championship affair due to the fact that Hurst has been advanced to class A rating, nevertheless looms as one of the most important scheduled in Westmoreland County. In 16 engagements with Hurst, Ramsay has won only one contest. This season it is considered an even bet against Hurst.

East Huntingdon, the fourth contender for the class B championship, will play its weekly contest at West Newton tomorrow afternoon.

GAMES ADVANCED

Two games, originally carded tomorrow, will be played off this afternoon when Trinity goes to Canonsburg and East Pike Run meets Charleroi in a night duel at Charleroi.

Tomorrow's schedule is headed by the New Kensington-New Castle battle at New Kensington. Deadlocked for first place in class AA with three victories and no defeats, New Castle and Ken High promise to stage a hectic duel in the valley town. Two other class AA engagements are listed with undefeated elevens involved. Jeannette meets a sectional rival in Norwin, while Greensburg is at McKeesport.

Tartans Out to Shatter Purdue Record—'Harp'

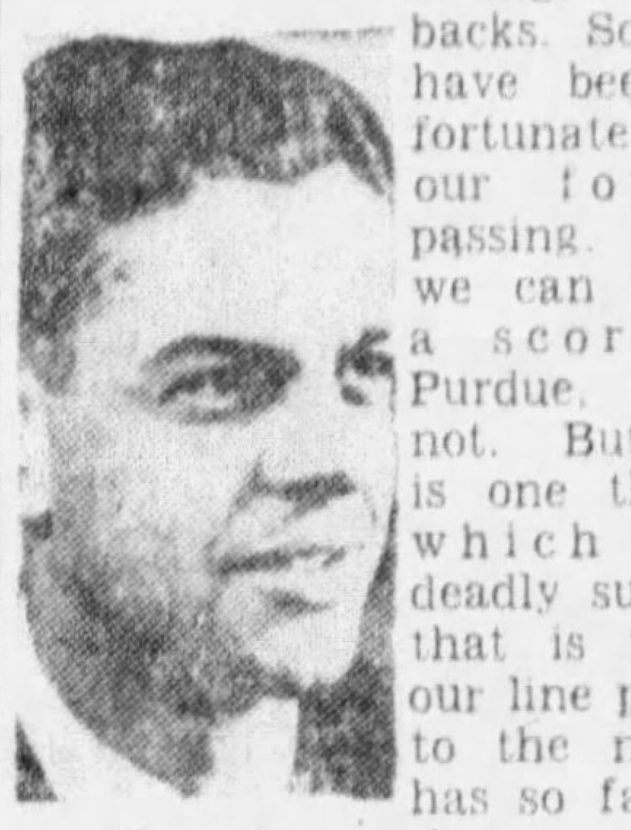
By Howard Harpster

Carnegie Tech Football Coach; All-America Quarterback, 1928

LOGANSPORT, Ind., Nov. 3.—The Carnegie Tech football squad, quartered here until time to leave for Lafayette, Ind., tomorrow at noon to play Noble Kizer's Purdue University team, may crack a prized record in this game.

I am told that Purdue now has gone 44 games without failing to score at least one touchdown in each game.

That's quite a mark to shoot at, and it gives me an idea. We may not beat Purdue tomorrow; in fact, the chances are that we will not—but suppose we are able to keep the Boilermakers from scoring?



Harpster

As everyone knows, our offense is limited. We have virtually no running attack because we lack strong, blocking backs. So far we have been very fortunate with our forward passing. Maybe we can eke out a score over Purdue, maybe not. But there is one thing of which I am deadly sure, and that is that, if our line plays up to the notch it has so far, Purdue will be lucky to keep that proud record intact.

GREEK MEETS GREEK

Here's the angle—Carnegie has not been scored upon in any manner in its four games to date, against Temple, Xavier, Notre Dame and W. & J., and Purdue has crossed the opposition's goal line in every one of its last 44 games. When Greek meets Greek—well, we'll know the answer by tomorrow night.

Our biggest job will be to stop about six of the finest backs that ever played on the same team. They are Purvis, Pardonner, Hecker, Carter, Keegan and Riblett, and Wally Steffen says they make up a backfield the equal of which he hasn't seen in years. Purvis, who weighs 195 pounds, is the most dangerous of the group, and, besides being a harder runner than George Kavel was for Tech last fall, he does the kicking and most of the passing.

In Pittsburgh tomorrow, the Panthers meet the Praying Colonels of Centre College in a rest-up game before continuing with the remaining hard games on the schedule. Judging from last week's victory over Xavier, it may be assumed that the Centre team is a little stronger than was anticipated, and that the game may not be quite the breather it was supposed to be. Pitt, however, should win without much trouble.

DUKES SHOULD WIN

W. & J. takes on the Dukes, who thus far are winners of seven games, and the fans are in for a thrilling game at Little Washington. I have seen both W. & J. and Duquesne in action this year several times, and while each is represented by a strong team, it is my opinion that Duquesne will be the winner.

There are several reasons for picking the Dukes. In the first place, Coach Hank Day had his team well "steamed up" for our game at the Stadium last week, and, regardless of how the W. & J. boys try, there cannot help be a slight natural letdown. Duquesne, on the other hand, has rested for two weeks and will be out to maintain a clean record and will be in an ideal frame of mind.

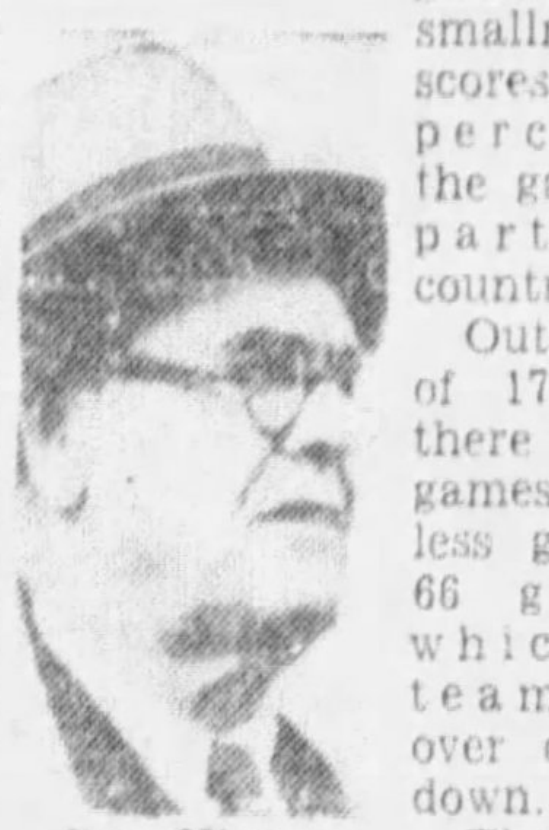
While W. & J. makes quite a bit of ground in midfield, its attack is not very threatening within scoring distance. The Dukes, on the other hand, seem to gain momentum as they drive goalward, and their greatest punch comes when within striking distance of a score.

If the Presidents can come back this week, the game should be closely contested, but, if W. & J. isn't "up" and the Dukes score early, Coach Layden's team will win without much trouble.

WARNER FINDS GRID ELEVENS LACK PUNCH

By GLENN S. (POP) WARNER,
Member, All-America Board of Football.
(Reg. U. S. Patent Office.)

In looking over the results of last Saturday's college football games, I found it interesting to observe the large number of tie games and the smallness of the scores in a large percentage of the games in all parts of the country.



Pop Warner

Out of a list of 178 games there were 21 tie games, 11 scoreless games, and 66 games in which neither team scored over one touchdown.

There can be no more convincing argument to show what a tough time offensive football is having than those figures. Consider that the great majority of teams spend far the greater part of their practice periods in developing an offense. Then consider that less than two-thirds of them can score only one touchdown per game when the season and their offense is far advanced and you cannot help but come to the conclusion that offensive football needs help from the rules committee. There are few thrills for players or spectators in tie games and scoreless or one touchdown games.

PUNTING DUELS

Let us hope, at least, that the rules committee will ignore the senseless talk about letting the defensive team pick up and run with fumbled balls. If that ever comes back into the game, no team will be foolish enough to run with the ball in their own territory and the game will develop into punting duels. Let us hope that rather than enacting legislation which will further discourage and cripple ball-carrying football, the rules committee will do something to make running with the ball more effective and scoring by rushing more frequent.

Figuring the probable results of football games seems to be harder than doping the outcome of any other athletic contests. It is hard for the fans to understand why past performances of teams do not always indicate what their future performances will be. Followers of the ponies can look over past performances of horses in a race and figure pretty closely how they will finish. The same is true in boxing, in track athletics and in other sports, but the best experts very often go wrong in predicting football results.

DOPE OFTEN WRONG

This year, for instance, Santa Clara defeated California, 7-0; California defeated the Olympic Club, 23-0; the Olympic Club defeated the San Diego Marines, 40-7, and then along came the Marines and defeated Santa Clara, 14-7. After that Santa Clara beat the Olympic Club, 19-0. No wonder the dopesters throw up their hands in despair. Practically all great upsets result from psychology—the state of mind in which the teams go into battle. Unexpected defeats come where a team gets swell-headed, overconfident, and enters the game expecting an easy victory. We seldom have any big upsets when both teams are doped as evenly matched, because then both teams realize that only their best efforts will get them anywhere. One of the biggest problems a coach has is to have his men in the right frame of mind when they go on the field.

Chillysauce

—By Chilly Doyle—

Romance enters the life of the lad who wins the bat boy position with a big league club. The bat boy knows the inner secrets and desires of the players and quite often he drops a friendly tip to a slumping athlete that is not seed falling upon barren ground.

Generosity in human nature plays upon the same scale in practically every walk of life. The bat boy of baseball may be working for a mere pittance, but there are always a number of players about to see that he gets something extra.

Consider the case of Sammy Goldstein, Pirate bat boy. Every member of the Pittsburgh club and most of the visitors are heroes to Sammy, but there are several who stand out in bold relief. The bat boy does various chores for the players; he may run out for pop and sandwiches or perform other emergency tasks. At intervals he is rewarded by cash donations.

Ask Sammy to name the most generous member of the Pittsburgh club and he replies in this fashion:

"I guess I will have to say Tommy Thevenow, but Pie Traynor and Paul and Lloyd are just about tied with Tommy."

Sammy says that Thevenow, after his gifts of the summer, handed the bat boy a handful of greenbacks as the Pirates were saying farewell to Pittsburgh. Said Sammy:

"I tried to give half of them back to him, but he hollered, 'No, you keep them—I got millions of them.'"

Pie Traynor, according to Sammy, practically kept the family of an unfortunate employe through a summer. The Waners are profuse in their gifts to the kids about the park.

LENORE KIGHT BETTERS OWN SWIM MARK

Chalk up another record to the credit of Lenore Kight.

As if she already did not hold enough championships and records to do an ordinary lass a life time, the star Homestead girl last night shattered her own A. M. A. record for the 100-yard free-style swim in the Pittsburgh Aquatic Club's meet in the Natatorium pool.

Swimming in fine form, the world's leading woman swimmer covered the distance in 1:05, clipping a fifth of a second from her former record set in the 75-foot K. A. C. pool a year ago. Anna Mae Gorman finished second in the event, with Johanna Gorman third.

Russ Lindberg, of Pitt, retained his men's 100-yard senior title, beating Jack Denny, also of Pitt, and Pete Brueckel, of the P. A. A., in the final heat in 56 and four-fifth seconds.

The Pitt relay teams, first, second and third, finished in that order in the relay event. The summary:

Oklahoma Girls Turn Out for Grid Team

HARTSHORNE, Okla., Nov. 3.—(AP.)—Thirty-three sweet young things have turned out on first call for tryouts on Hartshorne's girls' football squad, one of the few in the Southwest. Reford Stack is coach.

But other towns in this mountain region like the idea and the pretty amazons may form a league before it is over, Stack says. The first clash will come on November 10, at McAlester, between Hartshorne and Kiowa girls.

Old prices STAMPED on these new shoes

W. L. DOUGLAS prices, for this Fall, have not increased yet. Douglas Shoes still sell at the old low prices that were stamped on the soles a few months back—at the time they were made, when leather and manufacturing-costs were low. Of some 430,000 pairs, over half have been sold! Because people see, with their own eyes, that this season's Douglas Shoes have style, ease, and wear that's worth much more in today's rising market! Get two or three pairs while they last . . . and save money. Prices the same from coast to coast.

Douglas makes high shoes as well as low. Both high and low come in black and brown. Only a few styles shown here.

BAYUK "PHILLIES"

pleased the taste of more men than any other brand in America at 10c

This SAME Bayuk "Phillies" for 5c pleases the taste of more men than any other cigar in America at any price

Never has one cigar so completely met the taste demands of experienced smokers as Bayuk "Phillies". Sales records prove it.

At 10c—it outsold every other 10c brand. At 5c—it is outselling every other cigar at any price.

Men who gladly paid 10c for Bayuk "Phillies" say it is an even better cigar today at 5c. Other men tell us that they like it better than any cigar they've ever smoked—irrespective of price.

One thing is certain. Bayuk "Phillies" is NOT a 5c cigar. It's a proven 10c cigar value now selling for 5c. Bayuk guarantees it.

We can't promise that Bayuk "Phillies" will please your taste. But we can tell you that many men who could well afford to spend double or triple the price are now smoking Bayuk "Phillies". Your own dealer will confirm this.

Bayuk's Guarantee

In 1929—a peak sales year—the Bayuk Philadelphia Perfecto (Familiarly known as "Philadelphia Hand-made") was the largest-selling 10-cent brand in America.

Bayuk guarantees that this cigar today—at 5 cents—contains the same fine Imported Sumatra wrapper—the same fine ripe Havana and Domestic long-filler. It's the same identical cigar.

How Kaufmann's Broke Up the Nudist Colony

A Story of PLUS-SIX

"Clothes indigestion" drove them to nudism. They were turned against clothes—and they probably had their reasons . . . "Don't wear worth a cent" . . . "Made me look like a gargoyle" . . . "Priced out of reason" . . . Then along came winter, gooseflesh and Plus-Six topcoats, and those nudists were instantly cured, and returned to a useful life in society!

60,000 MAY SEE GAELS BATTLE RAMS

FORDHAM GETS BID TO COAST IN 1935

NEW YORK, Nov. 3—(AP)—Prospects of a sellout crowd of 65,000 at the Polo Grounds tomorrow, largest so far in the eastern season, developed today as Slip Madigan sent the Galloping Gaels of St. Mary's through a final workout for the Fordham game.

Madigan yesterday expressed the hope that Fordham would accept his invitation to play the 1935 game in the Kezar Stadium in San Francisco. He said:

"Fordham is a great name in California. We want Jimmy Crowley's team to come out there as soon as possible. It can hardly be next year, because of our schedule arrangements, which include a game with Stanford, and because of Fordham's commitments here.

"Next year's game undoubtedly will be played here. But we're going to talk over the 1935 game soon, and we want the Rams as our guests."

MADIGAN CONFIDENT

Madigan displayed considerable confidence in the ability of his team to stop the unbeaten Rams. St. Mary's won their first contest 20 to 12 in 1930. Fordham won last year 12 to 0.

St. Mary's arrived last season with half a dozen cases of influenza among the athletes. The only casualty among the warriors who arrived Wednesday night was a sprained knee suffered by Fiese, a kicking back, during practice in Chicago.

Coaches, Tech Grads, Adopt Iron Hats

TARENTUM, Pa., Nov. 3—The "iron hat" of Carnegie Tech coaching fame will be on the spot tomorrow.

John Dreshar and Ted Rosenzweig, former grid team-mates at Carnegie Tech, both will wear derbies when their high school teams clash at Vandergrift tomorrow in a game which may decide the A-K Conference championship.

Vandergrift, coached by Rosenzweig, has not lost a game in the conference. Neither has Tarentum, coached by Dreshar. Each has been tied once, however.

Mellon Entries In Virginia Meet

At Seattle—Gordon Wallace defeated Johnny Paseo, 10 rounds.

HOWLEY RESIGNS

TORONTO, Nov. 3—(AP)—Dan Howley, veteran baseball manager, who has piloted two major league clubs, has resigned as manager of the Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League. Howley gave no indication that he has another post in sight nor did club officials give out any word as to a possible successor.

SPORT CLUB GATHERING

Leading district soccer clubs will attend an anniversary gathering of the Beltzhoover Sport Club, to be held in the Beltzhoover Liederkranz Hall tomorrow night.

Wash.-Jeff. Field Deodorized for Duquesne Tilt

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 3.—(INS)—Washington and Jefferson College officials today anticipated a sell-out at the grid game with Duquesne University tomorrow.

The game is a "natural," but there's a supplementary attraction—the deodorization of Catfish Creek.

Complaints were heard that low attendance at W. & J. games might be attributed to the unpleasant zephyrs that swept across the field from the creek. So the city engineer promised to put a corps of men to work "perfuming" the waters.

CENTRE VARSITY DRILLS HERE

is assured for the contest. Graduate Manager John Holohan, of Duquesne, still has 1,000 reserved and 500 general admission tickets for sale at the university ticket office.

LINEUP IS SET

Reports from Washington, where the Presidents have been drilling this week like Wash-Jeff teams of old were wont to prepare for the Pitt game, indicate that Coach Hank Day is set on his starting lineup. Neither Bob King nor Wilson, backfield stars who have been on the hospital list for the past month, will start the game. The backfield will consist of Issac, Holland, Malcolm and Bib Fife, with Headley and Erelis at the ends, Dalrymple and Melenyzer at the tackles, Mastock and John Fife at the guards and Capt. Bert Gray at center.

Both elevens staged light drills this afternoon. The Dukes will not leave for Washington until tomorrow morning, arriving at the scene of battle an hour or two before time for the kickoff, which has been set for 2:30 o'clock.

Goal Lines

Pitt and Duquesne officials announced that in order to avoid a last-minute jam which might prevent worthy veterans from taking advantage of the special ticket prices for the Pitt-Duquesne game Armistice Day, that tickets will go on sale next Tuesday morning at the Pitt Stadium ticket office, Spalding's, Joseph Horne's [illegible].

Any veteran appearing in uniform or with any sort of a service card may take advantage of the reduced rate to buy two tickets at 50 cents apiece. The tickets will be on sale up until gametime. Ten thousand seats have been reserved for the veterans.

Certain it is there is no dearth of good college football games on the old tag for hereabouts tomorrow. As if the Pitt-Centre and Duquesne and Wash-Jeff battles were not enough to make the day worthwhile, Davis-Elkins meets Geneva at Beaver Falls and Grove City and Westminster battle in New Castle in outstanding engagements.

Two unbeaten elevens clash as Geneva and Davis-Elkins meet, with the Scarlet Hurricane a slight choice. Geneva lost one of its aces when Cliff Aultman broke a leg against St. Vincent last week, and will be greatly handicapped, both on the attack and the defense. A lad named Begolly will start in Cliff's place, and he golly, Begolly better come through, else there will be weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth among the Covenanters.

The Grove City-Westminster tussle marks the renewal of one of the oldest rivalries in the tri-state area. The institutions have been matching football prowess annually since back in 1892, which was before the our eyes of the great Bob Thorn, Grove City's athletic master of ceremonies. This year's contest, as most engagements between the Titans and Grovers in the past, looms as a toss-up. You pays your dough and you writes your own ticket.

SPORT VIGNETTES

Two gents who have made and lost large fortunes in the prize ring meet for the world light-heavyweight championship in New York's Madison Square Garden tonight . . . They are Maxie Rosenbloom, the defending titleholder, and Mickey Walker, who will be bidding for his third crown, having held the welterweight and middleweight baubles . . . Both are noted as playboys, who took their fun where they found it . . . It is estimated that Walker in 15 years of fighting has collected more than a cool million dollars, while Rosenbloom's earnings have exceeded a quarter of a million . . . Now both are broke, in the last stages of their careers, and hoping to recoup when it is almost too late . . . There is a fine moral lesson here for beginners in the sport.

The referendum on Sunday sports in the general election next Tuesday will give the voters a chance to vote yes or no on the matter of whether they favor recreation in their communities on the Sabbath . . . If the vote is in favor of killing the Blue Laws of 1794, sports will be legalized between the hours of 2 and 6 p. m., which will not interfere with church attendance . . . A great burden will be lifted from the shoulders of major and minor league baseball teams in the State, and Sunday football and soccer will be permitted as well as basketball, golf, tennis and all other sports . . . If the vote is unfavorable, there will not be another opportunity to nullify the ancient laws for three years . . . So if you think legalized Sunday sports will aid the general health and happiness of your community and work no appreciable harm in the way of violating the spirit of the Sabbath, the time to so express yourself is when you go to the polls on Tuesday . . . Ask for the Sunday Sports ballot where it does not appear on the voting machine and do your duty.

The ballot reads: "Do you favor the conduct, staging and playing of baseball and football games, regardless of whether an admission charge is made or incidental thereto, or whether labor or business is necessary to conduct, stage or operate the same between the hours of 2 and 6 post meridian, on Sunday?" A space is provided to check an X alongside the words Yes and No . . . Each city, borough and township decides its own fate on a local option basis.

If Notre Dame should lose to Navy at Baltimore tomorrow, it will mark the first time in its history that it has lost three games in a row since the first three games in its football history, all with Michigan, 8-0 in 1887 and 26-6 and 10-4 in 1888. . . . Nor has the Irish been held scoreless in three straight games, as will be its record if it fails to tally against the Middies on top of the 7-0 and 14-0 setbacks by Carnegie Tech and Pitt in its two most recent starts . . . Back in 1909, Notre Dame lost three games out of four, with the second game in the string a tie . . . Last year's Notre Dame team defeated Navy, 12-0.

Two former Pitt teammates, Harvey Harman and Herb McCracken, vie as coaches in the Penn-Lafayette game at Philadelphia tomorrow . . . Andy Tomosky, former local boxer, will stage weekly Monday night dances in Wilmerding, beginning next week, and extends an invitation to all of his former opponents in the ring to attend his opening offering . . . Quentin Reynolds, former International News Service (Hearst) sports writer, has joined Collier's Weekly as a staff sports man . . . Local sports scribes are to have a preview of "Prize Fighter and the Lady," the Max Baer-Primo Carnera-Jack Dempsey picture, at Loew's Penn Theater next Tuesday . . . Perhaps to give them a chance to argue about the decision, if any.

James (Red) Mason, former dean of local boxing managers, now residing in Chicago, lost $200 trying to win $30 on Lou Brouillard in the latter's bout with Vince Dundee the other night . . . All of the betters in Chicago liked Brouillard to win, and the only way Mason could get down a bet was by offering ridiculous odds . . . He finally made two bets of $100 to $15 each . . . Back in 1919, Mason set an all-time record here when he bet $3,650 to $365 at odds of 10 to 1 on Notre Dame to defeat Carnegie Tech and Tech came through with a smashing 19-0 victory . . . But Mason is a game guy and an incurable gambler . . . He'll bet on anything, and if he thinks he is right he will plunge to the limit.—HARRY KECK.

STRIP SOCCER TEAMS PLAY

By TOM BIRKS

A full program of games in the Central District Soccer League is carded for tomorrow afternoon and some of the games should attract large crowds.

Lawrenceville will have a battle all of its own when the league-leading Arsenal eleven tangles with the Pittsburgh Rovers at Leslie Park. When the season opened and the Rovers' management decided not to operate, the Strip fans turned to Arsenal, and it must be admitted that the Red and Black has put up some entertaining games for the crowds.

Since that time the Rovers decided to come back to the sport, so now the Strip is divided against itself, and there should be some royal rooting on tap.

Other games find the Dunwicks at Beltzhoover, Old Carnegie at Westinghouse High School field to meet the Clan Douglas eleven and the Aliquippa aggregation meeting the Union Switch and Signal team at Swissvale.

Two games are scheduled in the Panhandle League. Cedar Grove comes down the Panhandle to meet Houston and Coverdale makes the trip to Beadling to meet Johnny Smith's club.

Bruceton plays Dickey in a South Park League game under the lights at Silent Brook Field tonight.

STOCK MARKET PRICE CHANGES NARROW

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—The stock market was still under the spell of uncertainty today.

Scattered buying appeared in a few groups, while metals encountered profit-taking. Price changes were mixed and largely narrow. Grains again advanced a cent or so, in sympathy with foreign markets and in expectation of Washington developments, but cotton was narrowly changed. The dollar failed to decline to any extent in foreign exchange dealings, despite a substantial boost in the R. F. C. gold price.

Oils were firm, with Socony-Vacuum up nearly a point in response to dividend resumption. A little buying appeared in the sugars, as well, with American Sugar Refining advancing about a point, as the raw sugar futures market stiffened. Rails were also firm for a time.

Further agitation for sound money and a return to the gold standard, in the form of a resolution by the New York State Chamber of Commerce, attracted much attention in financial quarters. Wall street, convinced during the past fortnight that a substantial degree of inflation was in store, has begun to waver in its opinion again.

Business and industrial news was somewhat unfavorable, but announcement of substantial loans from the government for railway equipment purchases and the approach of the holiday shopping season, brought hopes of better reports in coming weeks. The weekly statistics on the movement of revenue freight were a little discouraging, showing a drop of 13,808 cars from the previous week, a somewhat larger than seasonal recession. The total of 636,674 cars, however, was 19,390 above the like week of last year.

Dun & Bradstreet found business again hesitant this week, but said actual recessions were being held to narrow limits. The Department of Commerce in its monthly survey said industrial production declined during October, but at a slower rate than in the preceding two months. Nevertheless, it noted that the normal tendency in October is upward.

COTTON PRICES RULE STEADY

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—Cotton futures opened steady, 1-3 points advance on higher Liverpool cables and the further advance in the government gold price. December, 9.58 cents; January, 9.63 cents; March, 9.81 cents; May, 9.94 cents; July, 10.07 cents; October, 10.24 cents.

Trading was moderately active after the call, but orders were well divided and fluctuations were narrow. Small selling orders from the South were attributed to hedging. After selling up to 9.60, December reacted to 9.57, with the general list ruling a point or two above yesterday's close at the end of the first half hour.

A little more price fixing developed during the middle of the morning and prices worked up a point or two, but general business continued very quiet, with traders evidently inclined to hold off and even up commitments pending fresh incentive. This attitude may have been promoted by the fact that Tuesday will be a local holiday and by uncertainty as to the showing of next Wednesday's government report. At midday December was holding around 9.59 and May 9.95 with active months generally showing net advances of 3 to 4 points.

Weakness in Federal Bond List Laid to Money Fears

Weakness in Federal loans, and particularly the indicated absence of appreciable demand, continued to attract attention through the early part of the day. The poor undertone in the government list is generally interpreted as indicating the nervousness of investors over the monetary policies of the administration. The weekly bank statement showing reserve purchases on balance last week fell off to roughly $20,000,000 indicated somewhat less support from that source, though expansion of open market operations was anticipated if the decline is not checked shortly.

The government's new issue of bonds made its first appearance in the Treasury's daily statement today, with an entry showing that $519,312,201 had been sold. The offer originally was for $500,000,000 "or thereabouts." The issue was over-subscribed by more than three times.

Figures for the sale of the bonds were added into the receipts for November 1, the date of today's statement, causing some comment on the extent of the cash flowing into the Treasury on that date, the total being larger than the entire deficit for the year thus far. However, being borrowed money, it is written off on the other side of the ledger and does not show in the receipts for the year.

Venture into the world's market by the United States government and the prospect for further appreciation in the price of the metal is having the effect of bringing about one of the things desired in all directions. Production of new gold has been broadly stimulated for the reason that among other things prevailing prices make it profitable to operate deposits which could not be worked satisfactorily with the metal bringing only the statutory price of $20.67 a fine ounce. World production of the yellow metal was about 22,000,000 ounces in 1931. Last year it rose to 24,000,000 ounces, and the prospect now is that the current year will bring aggregate production of between 34,000,000 and 36,000,000 ounces.

With cigaret production in the United States for the three months ended September 30 showing a decline of roughly 9 per cent from the preceding three months, earnings of P. Lorillard Company up to the end of September have continued slightly under dividend payments. Payment of common dividends should not prove a burden, because at the end of 1932 the company had cash of $14,907,746 and United States government bonds amounting to $2,040,738.

Momentarily, the edge seemed to be taken off stocks in the gold group with the publication of the text of the rather blunt resolution adopted by the Chamber of Commerce of the state of New York, calling upon the President in effect for an early return to a gold basis. Should this movement carry any weight in bringing about a change in the monetary aims of the administration, it may be that gold is somewhere near its high price. But then stabilization near existing levels would assure good profits for sound producers.

Traders are favoring the rails if an upswing develops and say that some of these declined unreasonably in the recent downward trend. There has been some buying of Illinois Central, New York Central, New Haven, Union Pacific and Atchison. Lack of interest in the market by the outside public is exemplified by the fact that in one brokerage house 25 per cent of their accounts have no stocks in them and that another 15 per cent have credit balances.

CAR LOADINGS DOWN 13,808

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Loading of revenue freight during the week ended October 28 totaled 636,674 cars, representing a decrease of 13,808 cars compared to the week preceding, but an increase of 19,390 cars over the corresponding 1932 period, according to the American Railway Association.

Demand for Men's Clothing Expands

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Retail sales of men's clothing rose substantially in many sections of the country in the past week, says the New York wool top exchange service. Mill operations have slackened noticeably, as is usually the case at this time of year, and "plants that had been running on two shifts for months are now working on a one-shift basis." In some instances, notably mills that make fancy materials, production is being maintained at 80 hours a week.

RFC 'Gold' Notes Appear in Market

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—The first offering of Reconstruction Finance Corporation notes issued in payment for newly-mined gold was being made today by the discount house of Saloman Brothers & Hutzler. It consisted of $2,128,744 of notes due on February 1, 1934, priced at a discount of ⅜ of one per cent. Gold sellers obtain the notes from the RFC at a discount of ¼ of 1 per cent.

Treasury May Extend Processing Taxes

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Consideration was being given at the Treasury today to processing taxes on tapioca, rayon, jute, cattle, sugar, paper and other commodities.

These articles are regarded as competitive with cotton, hogs, corn, wheat, milk and tobacco upon which processing and floor taxes have been promulgated by the Secretary of Agriculture.

The processing taxes already decreed are estimated to have a yield of $700,000,000 annually, as follows:

Hogs, $350,000,000; corn, $30,000,000; wheat, $100,000,000; milk, $30,000,000; tobacco, $25,000,000, and cotton $125,000,000.

The wheat tax went into effect July 9, cotton August 1 and tobacco October 1. The hog and corn tax will be effective November 5 and the milk tax December 1.

The Internal Revenue Bureau issued an order revising the cotton processing and floor taxes. It was held that goods in the first stage of domestic processing August 1 would be subject to the processing tax. The floor tax will apply to goods in the second stage of processing August 1.

Officials said originally it had been decided that goods in the processing stage on the effective date of the tax would not be subject to the levies. However, after extensive hearings and discussions with the manufacturers it was decided to make the change.

As a result goods in process on the date of the termination of the tax, as decreed by the Secretary of Agriculture, will not be subject to the tax.

Between $7,000,000 and $8,000,000 will come into the Treasury within a short time by reason of the decision. Processing taxes in the July-October period amounted to $57,986,301, of which $25,607,315 came in during October. A rapid increase in these taxes was anticipated.

Exports of Toys From Germany Shrinking

BERLIN, Nov. 3.—(Universal.)—The precarious position of the German toy industry was revealed today when it was announced that exports for the last three months have shrunk to 40 per cent of last year's figures.

Total shipments of 1,000 tons are the lowest ever. This is especially discouraging since this period usually includes Christmas orders.

LOCAL MARKET LIST HOLDS STEADY

Securities maintained a steady tone on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today as the movement of prices on the "big board" assumed a more orderly aspect. The tenor of the market here was somewhat improved, although buying was cautious and bidders were not inclined to follow prices upward very far. In the early trading the changes were generally of fractional scope. Pittsburgh Brewing preferred made a further advance on top of its 3¾-point gain scored yesterday when it ran up suddenly to 24 after having hovered around 20 for several days.

There was very little business in the fuel group and the price levels there were about unchanged. Armstrong Cork was moderately higher on light volume. Pittsburgh Plate Glass started the day at a fractional decline, but there was no pressure on the stock.

WHEAT REACTS AFTER SPURT

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—Grain prices scored all around upturns early today, but met with enlarged selling, and advances were wiped out.

Buying was associated with bullish reports regarding agricultural conferences at Washington and with further measures for United States purchases of foreign gold.

Opening ½ to 1¼ cents up, wheat later receded to yesterday's finish. Corn also started ½ to 1¼ higher, and subsequently sagged.

Rallies which ensued in wheat prices carried the market materially above early top figures, but the advances were not well maintained, fluctuations being rapid.

Corn prices showed relative strength as compared with wheat. An unsettling influence as to corn and oats especially was word of additional shutdowns of industrial establishments manufacturing corn products. Provisions were neglected.

Big Oil Company Restores Salaries

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—Affecting approximately 3,000 employes throughout Washington, Oregon and California, the General Petroleum Corporation announced today the restoration of all salaries to the level preceding a June 1 reduction. The increases ranged to 10 per cent in salaries of $200 or more monthly.

The move was the result of the action taken in the first place by the Socony Vacuum Corporation, of which General Petroleum is a subsidiary, officials said. The Socony corporation increased salaries in all its 98 subsidiaries throughout the world.

SECURITIES ACT SEEN AS BAR TO RECOVERY

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER

Universal Service.

Mr. Rukeyser

HOT SPRINGS, Va., Nov. 3.—From a practical standpoint the chief significance of the twenty-second annual convention of the Investment Bankers' Association, was their testimony that the restrictive character of certain clauses of the Federal Security Act was acting as a barrier to economic recovery in the United States.

The bankers purported to make it clear that they were not on strike against the measure in order to force Congressional revision in January, but that they and their clients were fearful to go ahead with new financing because of the vague liabilities imposed upon them. Apparently the fear is strongest in the directorates of borrowing corporations and in members of distributive groups.

Despite generalizations as to large numbers of persons who have been denied employment because of the lack of a flow of capital into industry and despite dire threats of wholesale defaults where refunding operations will be impeded. The bankers are open to criticism in not making a more factual presentation of their case.

PASS OPPORTUNITY

With the sounding board of their convention, which the press of the country attended, the bankers missed an opportunity to collect and present statistics on the approximate amount of new financing that was actually held up because of the objectionable clauses in the new act. Instead of telling the public precisely how the law in its first three months of operation had affected financing, bankers and their lawyers contented themselves with broad general statements which should have been made just as well when the law was under consideration by the congressional committees months ago.

If the Investment Bankers Association is to play any constructive role in rehabilitating the reputation of the investment banker, whose prestige has been hurt by revelations before the Senate Committee on Banking and Currency, it must become more and more a fact-finding agency. In the past, though frequently its contributions to opinion have been considerable the association has limited its usefulness by lack of technique for gathering and analyzing factual information.

NEW 'KEY' MEN

Instead of remaining a mere propagandist organization, it should set out to become a clearing house for original statistical information. The potentialities in this direction are very large. For example, it could be immensely useful in normal times in making surveys concerning the state of dealers shelves, indicating whether new issues were being absorbed by investors. If the asociation had been performing that function in the summer and early autumn of 1929, it might have checked the dangerous overissue of securities which constituted an immediate cause of the panic. Wall street at the time was not suffering from a money trust, but from the very reverse, namely, from unco-ordinated excessive competition which spelled anarchy.

A younger and more progressive group has moved into key positions of power in the association, and revisions of policy may be anticipated. Some of the wiser heads know that the bankers should admit their mistakes and shortcomings, and yet emphasize to the public the essential economic role which they play as middle-men in bringing the savings of investors to productive industry.

PLANS TO PULL TEETH OF NRA INDICATED

By LEWIS HANEY

Professor of Economics, New York University.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—The big news is not the tinkering with foreign exchange rates now about to begin. The big news is preparations anounced yesterday for putting the "blue eagle" to bed.

Plans are evidently afoot to pull the teeth of the NRA.

As business has continued to slump during October and dissatisfaction has grown among business men, farmers and laborers, this is but natural.

The president of the United States Chamber of Commerce says:

"I know no representative group of business men today in which some do not question the whole program."

SWOPE PLAN REVIVED

At the same time the old "Swope plan" is brought out. This plan is to organize each industry into a great monopolistic "guild" which would fix prices, determine production, etc. This would put the big "business leaders" in control.

Then Gen. Johnson "cracks down" with the statement that the "Swope plan" is just what he has had in mind all the time, and that he is in thorough agreement with Mr. Swope.

Johnson now says:

"The trouble always has been what government control will be. It becomes a bureau not closely in contact with the industrial side—a policeman and inquisitorial body."

BUCK PASSING SEEN

This seems to be an acceptance of Mr. Hearst's views. It looks as if NRA is about to pass the buck to the business leaders.

It is easy enough to understand the NRA troubles. No democratic government can coerce business and take upon itself to represent the conflicting economic interests of farmers, laborers and capitalists, without getting into an impossible position. This should have been clear from the beginning.

But it is more difficult to understand this fresh outburst of enthusiasm on the part of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, Assistant Secretary Dickinson, and General Johnson for the "Swope plan."

POSSIBLE EXPLANATIONS

My personal guess is that one or more of the following reasons may explain the acceptance of the scheme by some "business leaders."

1—Some may figure that they have such a dominant position in their industry that they would be able to run the whole show and secure large profits by "holding the embrella" over the weaker members of the industry.

2—Others may figure that this is the easiest way to escape government control and that the Swope plan can be allowed to break down when the excitement is all over.

3—Still others may see in it a means of preserving their positions. They may head debt-ridden, inefficient concerns and feel that the plan would give them a share in the business and a high price for the products, so that their worries would be over.

One sure thing is that, as Mr. Hearst has said, whatever sweeping "social reforms" may be tried out in the future this sort of thing is not going to pull us out of the depression.

BROKERS LOANS UP $18,000,000

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Loans on stocks and bonds to brokers and dealers by reporting Federal Reserve member banks in New York City, increased $18,000,000 during the week ended November 1 to $749,000,000, which compares with $731,000,000 in the week preceding. The record high was $6,804,000,000 in the week ended October 2, 1929, and the low record of $331,000,000 was made in the week ended July 27, 1932.

TRADE DECLINE SLOWING UP

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—The pace of business continues hesitant, but actual declines generally are being held within narrower confines, the Dun & Bradstreet weekly trade review said today. It continued:

"With the best selling period of the year immediately ahead, the multiplied demands incident to Christmas shopping are counted upon to give the final impetus to the movement of any weighty merchandise accumulations, and thus revive wholesale markets and bring a more marked improvement to industrial centers by the full force of spring replenishment requirements.

"The substantial check to the downward trend of the general commodity price level was one of the most significant developments of the week.

"Weather conditions were not conducive to much activity in such lines as drygoods, men's and women's apparel, shoes and hardware supplies, resulting in volume falling below that of the week preceding in most sections.

"With the exception of some increases in orders for Christmas merchandise and covering of spring requirements in isolated instances, the general volume of wholesale trade held about to the level of the week preceding."

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—The Commerce Department in its survey of current business says the seasonal increase in business usually noted during October failed to appear last month.

Canada Newsprint Makers in Accord

MONTREAL, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—Canadian newsprint manufacturers announced today the formation of a co-operative organization known as the Newsprint Export Manufacturers' Association of Canada.

The action followed conferences in Washington attended by Canadian, United States and European manufacturers.

A statement issued by the association said it was hoped that by co-operation with "United States publishers it may be found possible to stabilize the industry and facilitate the uninterrupted entry of Canadian newsprint into the United States."

MORE RESERVE CREDIT OUT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—The daily average volume of Federal Reserve Bank credit outstanding during the week ended November 1 was $2,549,000,000, the Federal Reserve Board reported, an increase of $31,000,000 compared with the preceding week and of $321,000,000 compared with the same week last year.

On November 1 total Reserve Bank credit amounted to $2,550,000,000, an increase of $24,000,000 for the week. This increase corresponded with increases of $32,000,000 in money in circulation and $7,000,000 in unexpended capital funds, non-member deposits, etc., and a decrease of $88,000,000 in Treasury currency adjusted, offset in part by a decrease of $102,000,000 in member bank reserve balances.

Bills discounted increased $5,000,000 at the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco and $2,000,000 at all Federal Reserve banks. The system's holding of bills bought in open market showed practically no change for the week, while holdings of United States bonds increased $2,000,000, of Treasury notes, $14,000,000, and of Treasury certificates and bills, $4,000,000.

RURAL BUYING POWER GAINS

By JOHN M. MORAHAN

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Indications that some improvement in consumer buying power in rural areas is taking place, while retailers in the larger cities are reporting a decided slack in business, is seen in reports that mail order houses are showing an increase in the past few weeks. Buying offices report that this is largely accountable for because of the reopening of small mills and plants, and the increase in commodity prices have generated a revival in buying power in these communities which have long been the worst hit. While mail order sales account for the major part of rural buying, central buying offices report that small retailers in these communities are also doing a better volume of business.

*Preliminary.

BUSINESS IN THE Pittsburgh district declined sharply last week. The slump is particularly impressive since abnormal factors present during the previous two months were not influences during the week, for which reports are now available.

The slump is reflected in the index of business activity in the Pittsburgh district as prepared by the Bureau of Business Research of the University of Pittsburgh. The index for the week ended October 28 stood at a preliminary level of 57.5. This was the lowest in four weeks and compared with an adjusted index of 60.8 for the week ended October 21.

The index remained substantially above a year ago, when it stood at 45.9, but slumped below the level of two years ago, when it stood at 61.2. The index for the week ended October 21 was slightly above the level of two years ago.

Decline Follows Three Increases

THE SLUMP last week followed three weeks of increasing activity and these followed six weeks of decline. Every factor in the index lost ground last week.

The improvement of the preceding three weeks was largely attributable to the resumption of production in commercial coal mines as strikes were brought to an end. The decline in the weeks previous to those was accelerated as coal strikes spread.

Such abnormal factors which exerted a distorting influence on the index were absent last week since peace prevailed in industrial operations with the exception of captive coal mines and the lack of production in these properties was largely overcome by purchases of coal by steel mills from commercial operators.

Coal Production At Lower Level

THE INDEX for coal production stood at a preliminary level of 56.3 last week. This compared with the peak since the end of the strike of 58.3 in the week ended October 21.

The greatest decline took place in iron and steel. The index for this type of activity dropped to 49.4 last week from 56.5 in the previous week and 60.8 in the week ended October 14.

Trade activity slumped to a preliminary low of 66.5 from 68.6 in the previous week and 69.3 in the week ended October 14.

Industry to Govern Self, Ousting NRA?

By B. C. FORBES

Mr. Forbes

AT LAST American industry plans to do something to set its house in order.

If maximum success be achieved, existence of the NRA and similar bureaucratic organizations may not be prolonged after the emergency period for which they were created.

The potentialities of industry's new move are beyond calculation. Indeed, the future of America's whole industrial, political, economic, and even social structure and functioning may be materially molded.

GERARD SWOPE, General Electric's president, who has been a foremost advocate of considerate treatment of wage earners, is the author of the new plan to have industry apply such a system of self-government as will render unnecessary any permanent governmental body of the NRA type. Says Mr. Swope:

"If industry does not organize and govern itself, either the state or federal government will—with the consequent paralyzing effects on initiative and progress."

BRIEFLY, MR. SWOPE'S plan is that "commerce and industry organize themselves into definite and compact units, and that these organizations be self-governing, and include such representation of the governing boards so that the public interest will be protected."

He contemplates, not an NRA, but "a structure more in keeping with our democratic philosophy and traditions, where the employer and employe will work together to understand the fundamentals of their joint problems and find solutions which will bring greater satisfaction to both."

For want of a better name, he proposes to call it the National Chamber of Commerce and Industry.

It is intended to function very differently from the existing so-called United States Chamber of Commerce, which has proved tragically abortive and should be scrapped.

THE PLAN would include a "code authority" elected by each trade association, on which body would be "one or more representatives appointed by the National Recovery Administration or the department of the government taking over this work permanently."

Each "codified trade association will study the data collected, study the trends of its industry, endeavor to co-ordinate production and consumption." Any recalcitrant member would face the Federal Trade Commission or the Department of Justice, or both.

The new chamber would consist of three main divisions: commerce or trade; industry or manufacturing; associations representing local or geographical divisions.

THE NATIONAL chamber would have a board of governors, which would include the secretary and assistant secretary of commerce of the United States.

There would be a board of appeals, to sit in Washington, including "such number of representatives as may be appointed from time to time by the Presiednt of the United States."

Members would not serve more than four months, one-fourth retiring each month.

GEN. JOHNSON states that he has "talked over for years some such program with Mr. Swope," and adds:

"I am in thorough agreement with his statement; it was almost a joint operation."

Labor is not included. But, explains Gen. Johnson:

"I think that the labor group should be set up right beside that of industry, with the strike and lockout absolutely eliminated."

AS LONG ago as 1929 this column declared:

"America needs an institute of industrial co-ordination. A permanent association, under proper direction, could do much to level out peaks and valleys of employment, to discourage cruel dropping of elderly workmen, to develop sensible old-age pension or other plans for caring for employes no longer able to earn a livelihood, to foster co-operation beneficial to all, to discourage unjustifiable destructive competition, and to effect other purposes calculated to stabilize industry and employment.

"The alternative confronting industry is not action or inaction, but action by them or by legislators."

AT LAST industry has been brought to its senses.

MENTION THE SUN-TELEGRAPH WHEN ANSWERING ADVERTISEMENTS

The Girl Who Won

By MAY CHRISTIE

CHAPTER XXII.

The more that Nollie Day considered the idea of spending a few weeks at Mrs. Judson's ranch up near the Canadian border, the more she liked the suggestion.

She was tired out from the New York heat, and the confinement of her work.

But she must "carry on." She needed money immediately.

Besides, this getting away at once would serve to put behind her the memory of her uncomfortable exit from the Galbraith firm.

The jealousy and spite of Miss Galbraith . . . Mr. Brilling's hateful proposition!

Synopsis

Nollie Day, stenographer at an exclusive hotel, is befriended by wealthy Mrs. Judson, a widow. Nollie goes to a theater in place of Mrs. Judson, where she meets handsome Tony O'Brien. She reveals her own identity but Tony does not hear her. Next day, Tony telephones and learns Mrs. Judson has gone abroad. Nollie wants to clear her identity, but is unable to get in touch with Tony. Nollie secures a new position as secretary to Jack Brilling, of Galbraith & Co. Miss Galbraith, Brilling's fiancee, is jealous and warns Nollie. Mrs. Judson returns and gives Nollie a letter Tony had written her abroad. They learn that Tony is on vacation. Mrs. Judson asks Nollie to become her secretary and visit her ranch.

Now Go On

Added to this, new scenes might make her put at the back of her mind her feeling for Tony O'Brien.

The handsome Irishman was now out of town on his vacation.

But Nollie had the letter—the thrice-blessed letter he had written her in the name of Jinny Judson.

So he HAD liked her awfully after all. The whole magic of the evening hadn't just been in her own imagination.

She could write him to his office, explaining fully the whole situation.

Or she could be mysterious . . . keep up the glamor . . . not tell him who she really was . . . but send him a letter thanking him for his, from the ranch of Mrs. Judson.

Suppose he followed her up there? Suppose he felt about her as she did about him?

"Fool that you are!" she told heself. "Come back to earth! Snap out of your dream!"

HER SUPER-BEST

When Tony found out who she was, and that she'd fooled him, it wouldn't endear her to him.

No. Why should he look at her, with so many pretty rich girls in his world? Girls who would be only too anxious to annex him?

He'd seen HER at her very best—her super-best—dolled up to beat the band in a $250 ensemble given her by Mrs. Judson.

Even her complexion hadn't been her own that night. That—and the ministrations of the hotel manicurist and hairdresser—had been paid for by the same generous woman.

Forget it all. Get down to solid things. Think of her future.

Her health, too. She was tired out in New York. Cooped up in an office in this heat, and working late as well, health, beauty and youth suffered.

So she'd grab this chance of a vacation—for it would be that, despite the secretarial work that she would do—up at the ranch of Mrs. Judson.

"Pack up your duds and be here tomorrow at—let me see—" —the widow consulted her engagement-book. She added: "I have to have this by me always. I've no more memory than a jack-rabbit."

Nollie could vouch for that being true. But she was glad of it.

Because her miraculous meeting with one Tony O'Brien had been the outcome of the widow's forgetfulness.

COMPANION-SECRETARY

"Ho. Hum. I've an appointment with my lawyer at noon tomorrow in the Equitable Trust Building. Then I've a sort of a garden-party from four o'clock onwards, up in Westchester County. We'll take that in on our route."

"You mean, you want me to travel with you?" asked Nollie diffidently.

"Of course. Besides being Jill-of-all-trades, you'll be my companion-secretary. You'll enjoy it."

Well, life was queer. Who would have thought of this a few weeks ago, when she was working so hard in the downtown import house, and Mrs. Judson was over in Europe?

But take what the gods gave. The trip would do her good, both mentally and physically. She would be absorbing new angles on human nature.

Nollie wrote a letter to Uncle Cy that night. The second since she had come to New York.

The first had met with no reply. She wasn't surprised at that, since she had sent it to his home address.

Aunt Sarah probably had commandeered it? She hadn't given it to Uncle Cy? Or perhaps she had forbidden him to write?

What did it matter anyway? Only tonight she had an impulse to be nice to Uncle Cy, because he'd been fond of her in his peculiar way, and she felt happier herself now.

She was leaving town, she wrote, to go up as private secretary to a rich lady on a lovely ranch near Canada.

She closed her letter, mailed it, not giving her new address.

Forget the old humdrum existence of the past. She had paid those relatives-of-adoption to the full. She'd worked hard for them for years. What did they count in her life?

BUYS CLOTHING

But Nollie was kind, and her heart misgave her a little as she thought of Uncle Cy. She would keep in touch with him, in any case. And if things prospered with her, and if ever he needed anything, she'd help that gruff, pernickety, hen-pecked old uncle.

Next day she rose at 8 o'clock, breakfasted in a drugstore at the counter, and started her shopping.

She was going to a ranch. To a garden-party first, at a beautiful country home. Motoring.

Well, she certainly had her problem!

Forty-seven dollars was all she possessed in this wide world after her rent was paid. This saving represented nine weeks of scrimping.

At one of those wonderful little shops that run between Fifth avenue and Broadway in the Thirties, Nollie bought several dresses.

A little knitted three-piece in pale pink that was only $4.95.

The little woolly skirt was smartly cut. There was a sleeveless sweater. A cardigan.

She bought another variation of the same in blue. It was light weight. Warm. And becoming.

For $4.98 she bought a well-cut dress in washing silk, the exact shade of her eyes, and a belted smart little full length coat in tweed of the same color, that was marked down to $7.50.

"Now," she thought worriedly, "what about the right thing for the garden-party?"

In another little shop she saw a flowered chiffon dress with blue and pink roses in the pattern. It was reduced in price from $16.95 to $8.50. It fitted Nollie to perfection.

Then she bought a blue straw hat to go with this—and a small blue and a small pink felt—and a pair of sport shoes and a pair of smarter shoes at $5 a pair—and her shopping was finished.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

You may not make it a practice to borrow money outside of your own family, but you may be a frequent borrower from relatives and an infrequent payer of debts.

If they be just amounts why not pay sister or brother what you borrowed?

Perhaps it is mother to whom you go for money when you are short.

If your mother has an income aside from what your father provides, what you borrow and fail to return may not make so much difference to her.

But what about taking from a mother who has no way of support except that provided by your father.

It may make considerable difference in your mother's financial plans to have to supply you with extra spending money.

And then to forget to reimburse the one who loans you money is ungrateful to say the least.

You should regulate your expenditures by what you've a right to spend.

You have no right to count on borrowing and besides, often the one from whom you borrow may have made many a sacrifice to get that bit of money ahead.

Do you ever deny yourself anything to be able to pay your own debts?

Don't impose upon your relatives who are accommodating enough to loan you money.

HESSIAN TROOPS SOLD BY THEIR DUKE TO FIGHT IN AMERICAN WAR

George III, King of England, in September, 1775, hired 20,000 troops from the princes of the German principalities Hesse, Anhalt and Brunswick, to subdue the American "rebels." This news and the burning of Falmouth, Me., by the British, united the Continental Congress and gave new impetus to the struggle for liberty. Above: Hessian soldiers are escorted for transport. (U. THE ASSASSINATION OF JULIUS CAESAR IN SENATE (March 15, 44 B. C.)

Julius Caesar, in four years, led his soldiers in victorious battles through Greece, Egypt, Africa and Spain. He became imperator for life, dictator and pontifex maximus, possessing all military, civil and sacerdotal powers, 46 B. C. During his short reign he improved the calendar, brought reforms, had started a digest of Roman law, when amidst his zealous activities he was murdered. (World History.)

WATER SOFTENING

Dissolved calcium and magnesium salts make water "hard." Softening is converting certain soluble salts into insoluble and eliminating them by settling and filtering.

Slacked line added to water, converts the soluble Ca and Mg acid carbonates into insoluble normal carbonates; sodium carbonate has the same effect upon Ca and Mg sulphates and chlorides. The soluble sodium sulphate and chloride produced are not objectionable.

$$CaSO_4 + Na_2CO_3 = Na_2SO_4 + CaCO_3$$

FIELD TILLERS (Gen. Science)

The type shown above has shovels skimming below the surface, cutting out the weeds and loosening the soil. The shovels evade obstructions by pivoting backward, a spring pulling them into cutting position again. The tiller is used in early spring as soon as the frost is out of the ground.

STRAFFORD BLESSED BY ARCHBISHOP LAUD

Thomas Wentworth, Earl of Strafford, was a true servant of Charles I. He tried to raise funds and soldiers in Ireland to support the King's rule. Parliament imprisoned him, condemned him to death. Loyal even then, Strafford asked Charles I to sign his (Strafford's) death warrant to save the King's person from the vengeance of parliament. On his way to execution, Strafford received the blessing of Archbishop Laud, who later was himself beheaded (1641). (Character Building.)

Bugs Baer

Can't Standardize the Barber

Toughest job in the scope of price fixing is averaging the costs of mowing the lathered lawn.

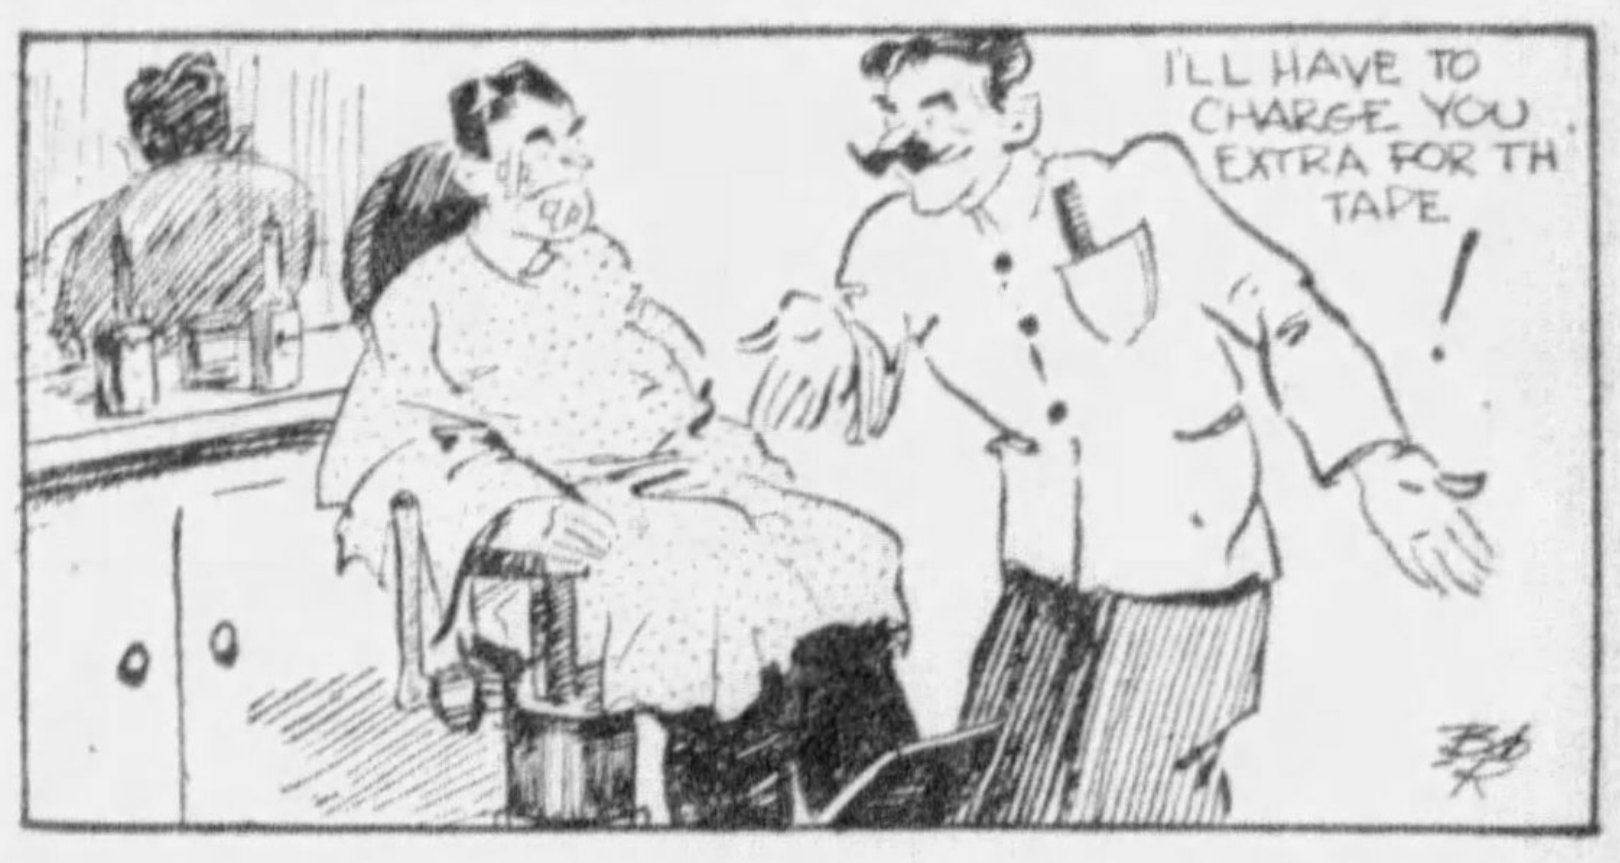
First, of all, there are 250,000 barber shops in America. In big towns you usually get your hair barbecued for 50 cents, your chin hamburgered for 25 and your ears curled for a dime.

Out where the prospective passenger flags the daily train the rate is 35 centimos for beating out a brush fire on your scalp and 15 for once-over against the grain.

Furthermore, there are many other gadgets that a barber performs before your face looks like your picture.

He marcels the sideburns, roaches the bangs, depilates the ears and touches up the sides a bit. He boils the profile in hot towels and sizzles the eyebrows. He plasters beauty stucco on your map. And if there is any lather left over he will shave the parlor sofa free of charge.

There are expert men in every profession. The good ones should get the best prices. We admit that we see no reason why a shave should cost 10 cents more in the high rent districts. But it does. Must be because the first aid is quicker.



I'LL HAVE TO CHARGE YOU EXTRA FOR TH' TAPE.

We have been dewhiskered at whistle stops while waiting for a stuttering local. It was a six-chair shop and all of them campstools. The barber was a substitute, but the patron could appoint no proxy. It was an unequal struggle. But time heals all hardware, dull or sharp. As we look back we have no regrets we would cancel or suspicions we could prove.

Any shave, anywhere, is worth 50 cents if the man will stop when you ask him. To fix a lower price would mean a hopeless effort to standardize art, paint the lily with iodine and write music for the birds.

A barber is an artist. He does no marines or landscapes. And, unfortunately for him, he is not a portrait painter and is unable to pick out the faces he would like to work on.

Even though he doesn't put them on canvas he gets quite a few under tape. He has technique, temperament and a soul. If a price must be fixed make it 50. Anything less would be a low estimate on your face. Anything more would seem too much like being held in the end chair for ransom.

Judiciary Candidates

Independence of Political Control Is One of the Important Qualities.

Citizens of Allegheny County next Tuesday will elect three judges of the Court of Common Pleas, one judge of the Orphans Court, two judges of the County Court and a judge of the new Juvenile Court.

Important qualities for which the voters should look in choosing from among the 22 candidates for these seven places are adequate legal knowledge and experience, independence of political control, a sense of justice, poise and dignity.

The most interesting and the most important contest is that for judge of Juvenile Court. The winner will be either Charles G. Lane, Jr., the Republican candidate, or Gustav L. Schramm, the Democratic nominee.

Mr. Schramm is an independent Republican, but was given the Democratic nomination on the plea of social workers that partisanship should be eliminated and the judgeship given to the person whom they considered best fitted for the place. Mr. Schramm is their choice. He has been long and prominently identified with social service.

Mr. Lane is the candidate of the Regular Republican organization. So far as the Sun-Telegraph has been able to learn he has no special qualifications for Juvenile Court work.

For the guidance of the voters we asked Mr. Lane and Mr. Schramm to prepare statements setting forth their ideas as to how the Juvenile Court should be conducted. They complied, and the statements were published yesterday.

Mr. Lane's statement is such as any kind-hearted and well-meaning person might make.

Mr. Schramm's, on the other hand, shows peculiar insight into juvenile problems and a knowledge such as few but specialists possess concerning the difficulties that must be overcome in dealing properly with children. We note, for example, the emphasis with which he declares the Juvenile Court should do everything possible to prevent the detention of dependent children in institutions that are conducted for delinquents.

This declaration is particularly pleasing to the Sun-Telegraph because we discovered in the course of an investigation of various state institutions several years ago that there were children in the reformatory at Morganza who had committed no offense; they were unlawfully sent to the reformatory because they had no one to support them, and it seemed the most convenient way to dispose of them.

For the Common Pleas and County Court places the Republican candidates are men with judicial experience and with good records. Their opponents are not so well known to the public, except, perhaps, A. Marshall Thompson, dean of the University of Pittsburgh Law School, a very high-class gentleman, who is a Democratic candidate for Common Pleas Court, and Alexander P. Lindsay, an Independent candidate for that bench.

Judge Thomas P. Trimble is unopposed for election to Orphans Court.

Partisanship should be ignored in the judiciary election and the candidates voted for on their individual merits.

Funds for Building

The Public Works Emergency Housing Association Serves a Laudable Purpose.

To revive the building industry in localities where it still lags is the laudable purpose of the Roosevelt administration in forming, under the laws of Delaware, the Public Works Emergency Housing Corporation.

Its incorporators are the Secretary of the Interior, the Secretary of Labor and the Chief of the Housing Division of the Public Works Administration.

Its aim is to assist the states, municipalities and public housing authorities in the development of worthy projects which have been held back, either by lack of private capital to finance them or by legal restrictions of one sort or another.

This new federal agency will lend money for the building of low-cost housing and slum-clearance projects in some localities.

In other localities it will finance such projects with federal funds as a demonstration—North, East, South and West—of what can be done by local authorities and by private enterprise to provide better homes and a higher standard of living for people who need and deserve both.

The Hearst newspapers have long urged, as an aid to recovery, the revival by federal aid of the building industry, upon which it is estimated that 6,000,000 workers are dependent for their livelihood.

This can and should be done both by a vast program of public works and by stimulating construction by private enterprise for useful purposes.

Of every dollar spent for new construction the wage earner ultimately gets 85 cents.

Next to the textile industry building is the largest employer of labor.

A revival of public and private building will provide employment for millions of jobless men in the building trades and other millions to whom employment will be given in producing and transporting building materials.

By reinforcing the Public Works Administration with the Public Works Emergency Housing Corporation the leadership of the federal government can be instrumental in speeding both public and private construction all over the United States.

And this is what must be done and done swiftly if these agencies are to be administered as effective aids to national recovery.

This is what Congress intended. This is what public sentiment rightly demands.

New P. S. C. Policy Pays

Through Moral Suasion Millions of Dollars Are Saved For the Consumers.

There is an old saying that more flies can be caught with molasses than with vinegar.

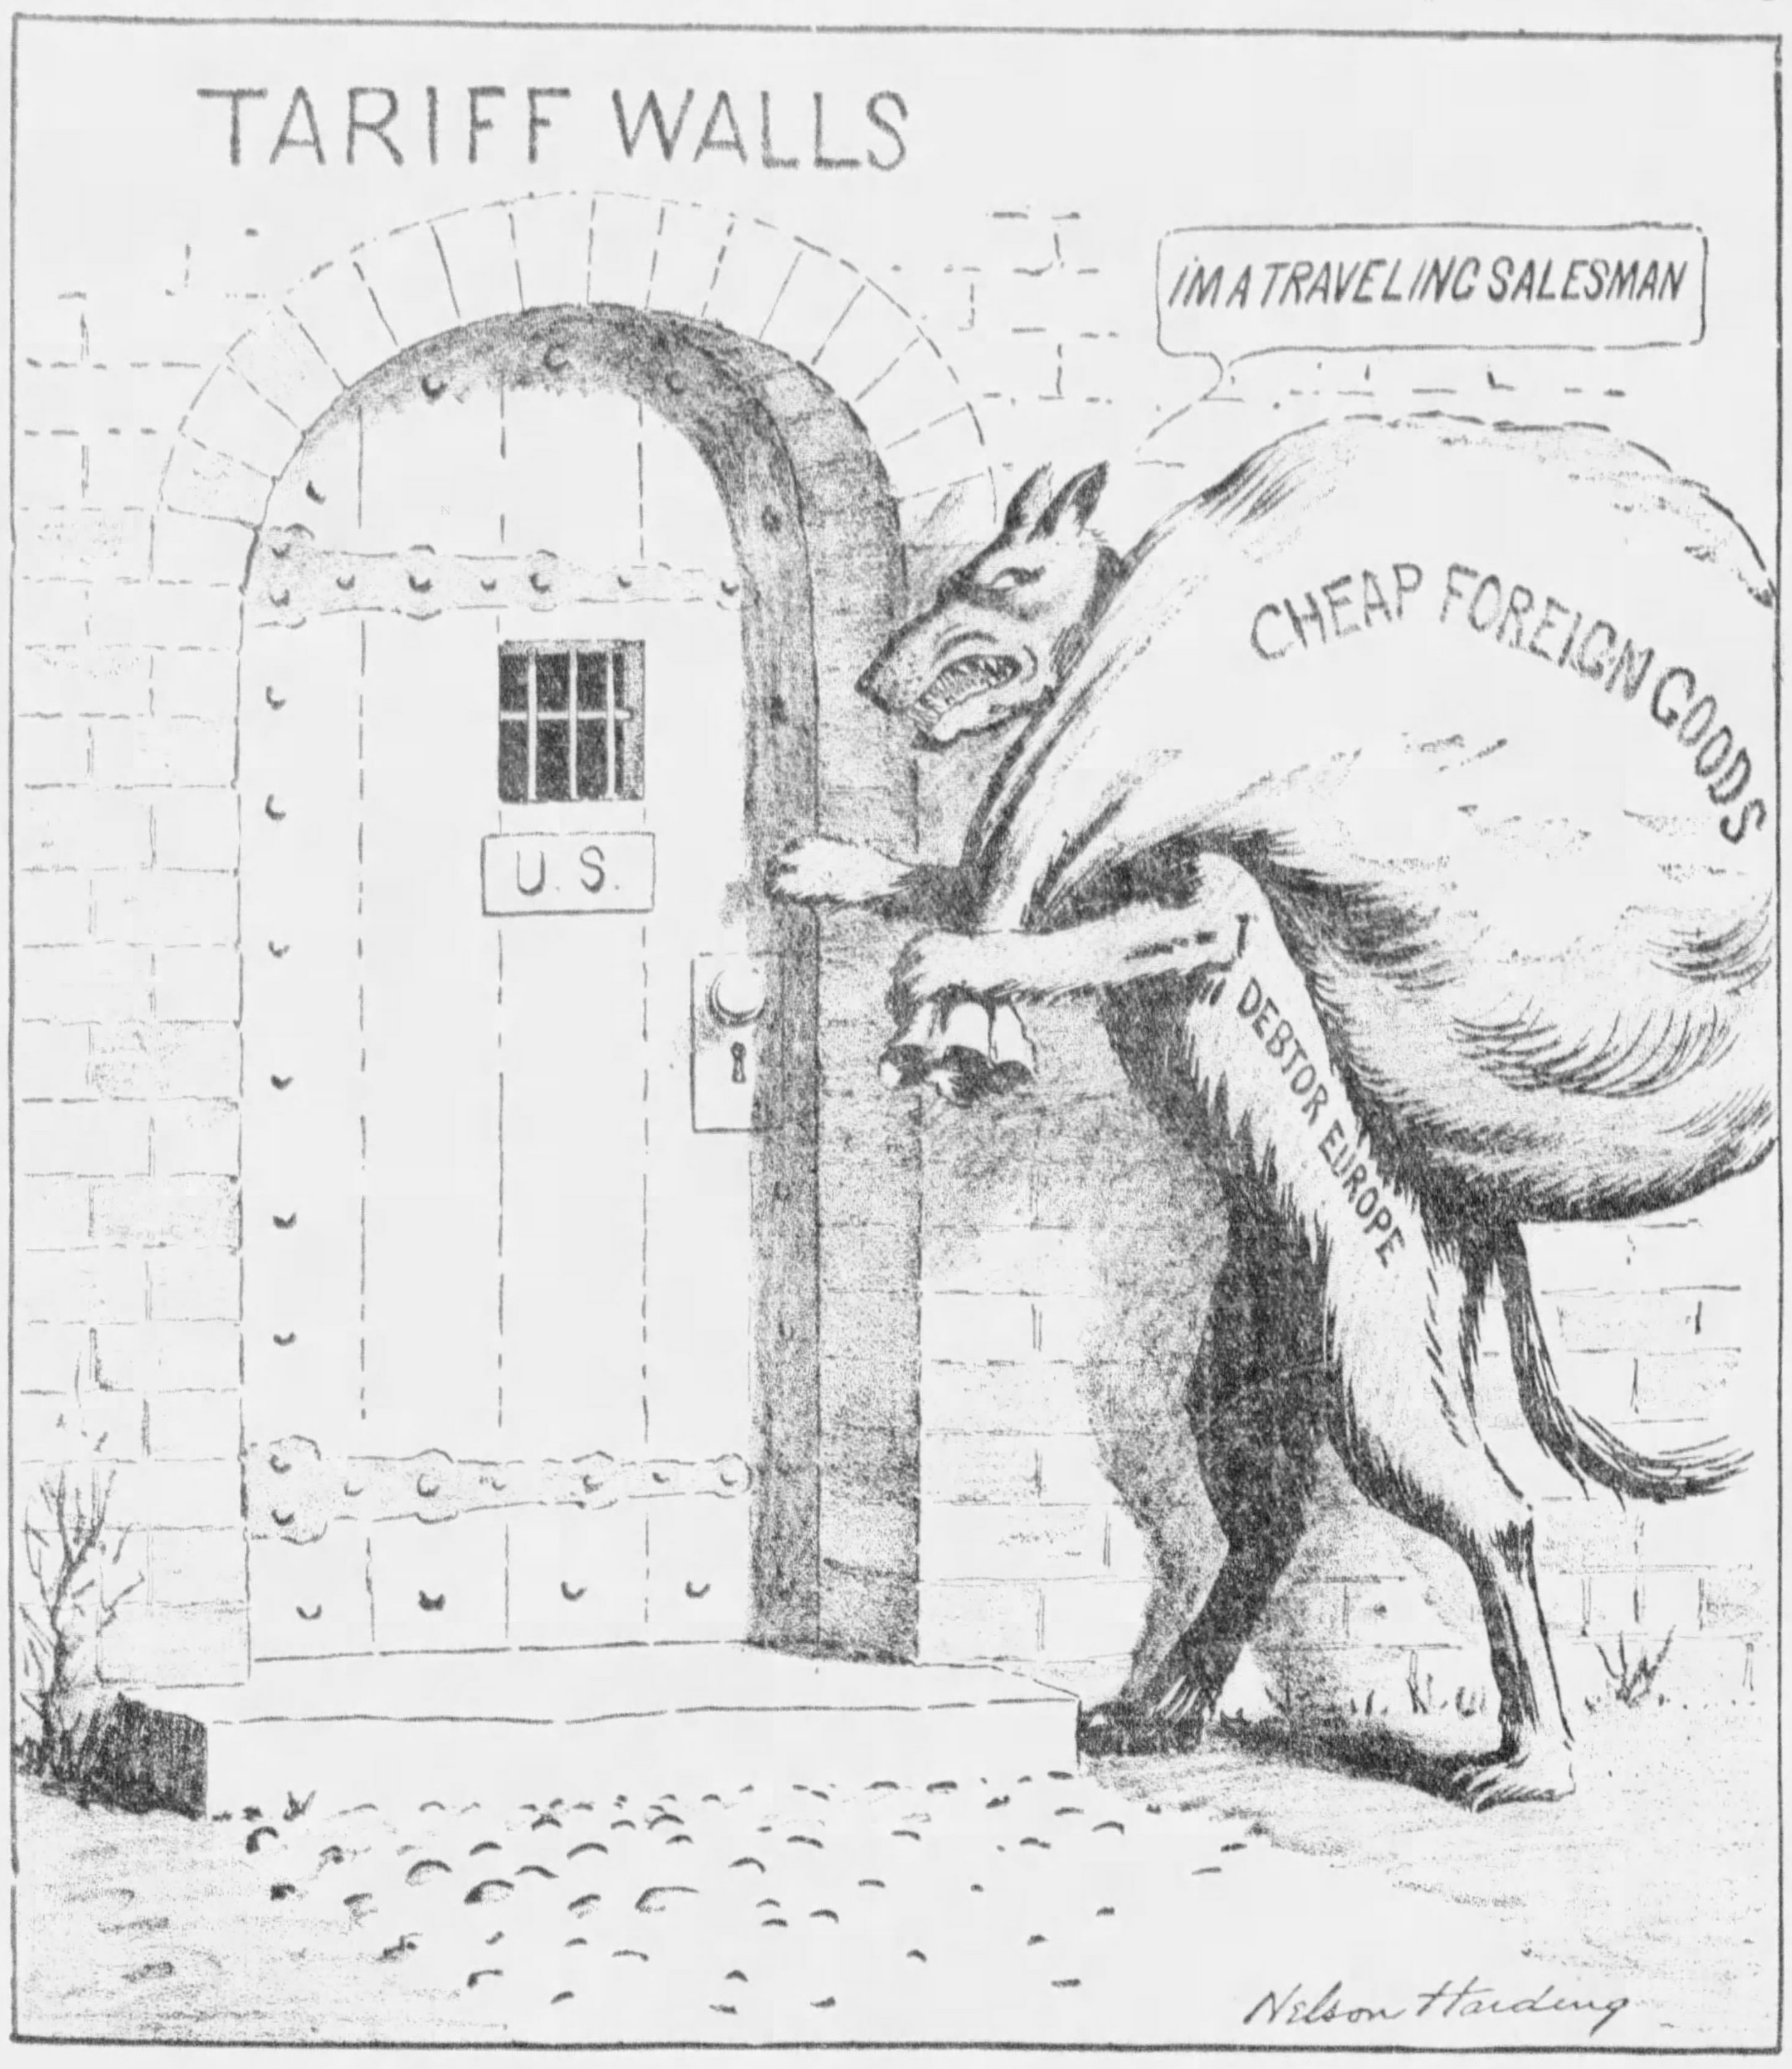
We are reminded of it by a Public Service Commission report to the effect that customers of Pennsylvania public utilities companies were saved $3,545,000 during the 12 months ended September 30 through rate reductions that the commission persuaded the companies to make.

This is in pursuance of the new policy to try moral suasion before resorting to litigation. Instead of formal complaints and formal and expensive hearings, sometimes dragging along for years, the commission now first tries informal conferences.

The commission is to be congratulated on the success of the plan. The consumers are to be congratulated on an annual saving of millions of dollars. The companies are to be congratulated on their willingness to reduce rates shown to be unreasonable.

Don't Let Him In!

By Nelson Harding



It's the big, bad wolf,
And he's at our door,
With a load of goods
From a foreign shore.

He knocks at the door
With a hungry grin,
And if we're wise,
We won't let him in!

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Thoughts while strolling: Great title for a dramatic critic's forthcoming book, "I Saw the Theater Die." Clarence Mackay plumps up. As have several others reported singed in the market. Sid Solomon's choke collars. Eugene O'Neill is one native New Yorker anyway.

Westbrook Pegler seems the most talked about columnist of the moment. Hope for the theater so long as John Golden remains on the battle front. Percy Hammond's Ohio town sounds like a sudden bee sting—Cadiz. That's a grand new crook term for money—"fur."

One word description of John N. Garner—quincey. Bud Fisher in a Fedora is a ringer for Jimmy Walker. Until last night I had not read Browning's "A Grammarian's Funeral." And what delicious satire. Maybelle Manning's new Park Avenue gown shop—all in white. K. C. B.'s daughter, Betzi, of the Follies, is a cute trick.

Joe Cook, an Evansville, Ind., boy, who made good in the city. Odd to see a sign on Altman's, so long a holdout. And why do public buildings flaunt those carved Latin inscriptions only a handful understand? A wrench to the Friars clubhouse abandoned. Will the Lambs be next?

Ring Lardner's two boys down from Harvard. One of my favorite people—Rob Wagner. Young Will Hearst is becoming quite a speaker. What became of Arthur West? Never saw Oliver Herford north of Gramercy Park. The third time I've come to the wrong hotel to see the same fellow. Plenty nit-wit.

Owney Madden, paroled gangster, is a connoisseur of fine pigeons of every description. Feeding, mating and studying them are his relaxations and he has flocks scattered in various roosts about New Jersey, Brooklyn and Long Island. Lonely folks so often turn to pigeons somehow.

Speaking of pigeons, Earl Carroll in his seasonal play had planned in a certain scene to have a flock of them, brightly dyed in the manner of Mme. Bradna, of the circus, released from the balcony to whirr a rainbow flutter to the stage. The pigeons were secured — from Owen Madden I hear — but at rehearsal a dozen refused to return to cages. Efforts to corral them proved futile. Three hours before opening night curtain they were there. As a last desperate measure Carroll secured a marksman with an air rifle and the last was brought tumbling down 15 minutes before doors were thrown open.

The sportsman Anthony J. Drexel was the only dandy to wear a white derby at the races around New York this season. In every detail of correct dress he is a stickler for accuracy. To the opera he wears an Inverness and his walking sticks and cuff links invariably blend with his ensemble.

America's best dressed newspaperman since Richard Harding Davis is Phil Sims, long an European correspondent and now writing from Washington. Twenty years ago he was wearing a white-lined Inverness and concertina hat to opening nights as far mid-west as Cincinnati. Later when he blossomed as smart as paint on the Paris boulevards even the French chatter writers took notice. One writing, "Is this American trying to dim the effulgence of Count Boni de Castellane?" Sims came from La Grange, Ga., by the way of Atlanta and Cincinnati.

Likely no one has suffered more from an exploding match packet than Leon Errol, the comedian. In neglecting to tuck in the flap before striking a light, he received a severe hand-burn. An infection set in that jumped from one part of his anatomy to another and was 18 months in running its course. There are hospital records of two arm amputations from this dangerous type of burn.

That rare philosopher of the sport pages, W. O. McGeehan, suggests that if the Davis tennis cup ever returns to America it should be melted and the bullion turned over to some European country as a loan. Adding: "In that way we should never hear of it again."

At George Buckley's last night a group of us began to rack our memories to recall the name of a recently imported British film star. After a long time in the silences I suddenly shrieked: "Feather Heaven." It developed the lady's name was Heather Angel, but it was pretty close.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

What Do You Think About American Public Schools?

Maybe we'd better ask this one first—what do you KNOW about American public schools?

Do you know what has happened to our schools during these last three years—what may possibly happen before next summer?

Chances are you don't. Like most Americans, you've probably taken our schools for granted. Maybe you're saying to yourself right now:

"Why start a fuss about schools? Our schools are all right. There's one thing at least that won't go bust in America. We've always had the best public schools in the world, and we always will have."

Wrong on every count, stranger. We HAVEN'T "always had the best public schools." Time was when America had almost no public schools! For, contrary to most of our pretty, patriotic notions, this nation didn't start out to be a poor man's land.

Yes, it took plenty of battling to put the American public school on the map. And now—

ARE WE OR ARE WE NOT, GOING TO KEEP IT THERE?

For, though it still may be news to you, the American Public School is on the verge of folding up. There's an article by Helen Christine Bennett in the November issue of THE COSMOPOLITAN. It is called "THE LITTLE RED SCHOOLHOUSE IS IN THE RED." Every American citizen should read that letter. And should his face be red!

For there's an article that calls our bluff! Here we are boasting about our homes, yelling to the world about how we "Reverence Motherhood and Protect the Dear Little Children." And what have we been doing to the Dear Little Children these last four years? We've been doing plenty! Listen to a few figures.

"Five hundred thousand to 1,000,000 were out of school last spring long before the school term ended. Many of them do not expect their schools to open at all this fall.

"In one state alone 178 schools of the 2,000 in the state reported they would be unable to open this fall; 500 schools in the same state will open for four months or less. Only a few will be open during the entire term.

"Teachers' salaries have been cut 10 per cent, 33 per cent, 50 per cent and even 100 per cent. Thirty-three states have reported 80,000 unemployed teachers.

"In many states employed teachers have not been paid in cash for periods varying from four months to three years. In Tennessee there are teachers still working who have not been paid in three years.

"Two hundred and fifty thousand children are now permitted to attend only half time because the available class rooms and teachers are only half adequate in number and must take the children in two shifts."

But why all this?

BECAUSE TAXES HAVE DWINDLED AND DWINDLED—AND EXPENSES HAVE INCREASED AND INCREASED.

Schools are largely supported by taxes on property. You know what has happened to taxes. In Michigan alone, $100,000,000 property tax has not been collected! There are also, in every state, vast areas of "exempt" property, largely religious. So between taxes that aren't paid and taxes we can't collect, things have gone from plenty bad to worse. And even when the money has come in, there have been a thousand uses for it beside the school.

THEY'RE SPENDING THIRTEEN MILLION DOLLARS IN FLORIDA THIS YEAR FOR ROADS, AND LESS THAN FIVE MILLION FOR EDUCATION.

And all this time, while the teachers have been starving and the schools folding up, more and more children have been crowding into the schools, particularly the high schools.

FOR IF CHILDREN CAN'T FIND WORK, THEIR PARENTS PUT THEM IN SCHOOL.

IN 1900 THERE WERE 500,000 YOUNGSTERS IN OUR NATIONAL HIGH SCHOOLS. TODAY THERE ARE 5,387,000.

So what?

YOU tell. What do YOU think should be done about our American public schools? We didn't have them once. We may not have them again—if we don't do something pronto.

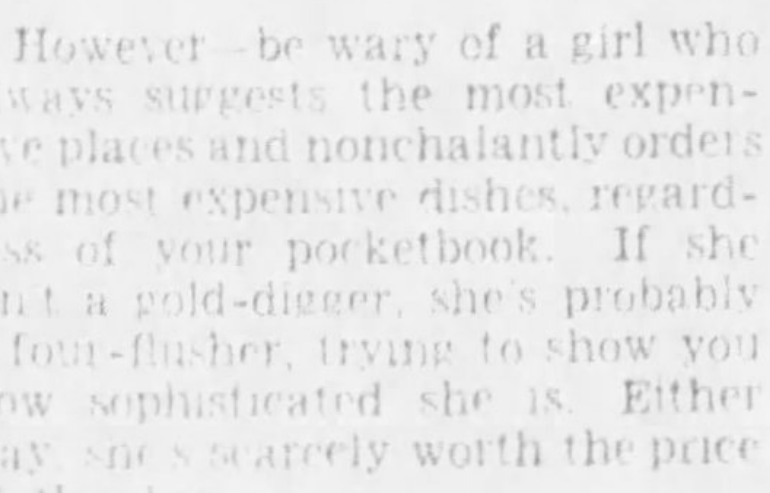
What should we do?

MARRY-GO-ROUND

By Helen Rowland

How to Size HER Up

Getting a line on a woman is a much more difficult matter than getting a line on a man. You have only to watch a man in a restaurant (as I've already stated) in order to get a pretty good working knowledge of him. But a woman in a public place is usually "on parade."



HOW MUCH MONEY DO YOU MAKE ?

However—be wary of a girl who always suggests the most expensive places and nonchalantly orders the most expensive dishes, regardless of your pocketbook. If she isn't a gold-digger, she's probably a four-flusher, trying to show you how sophisticated she is. Either way, she's scarcely worth the price of the dinner.

* * *

Don't marry a girl who is more interested in what salary you are getting than in what you are doing or accomplishing—and don't lose your heart to one who is more enthusiastic about your next "raise" than she is about your work. After all, a "helpmate" is not just somebody to help you spend your money.

* * *

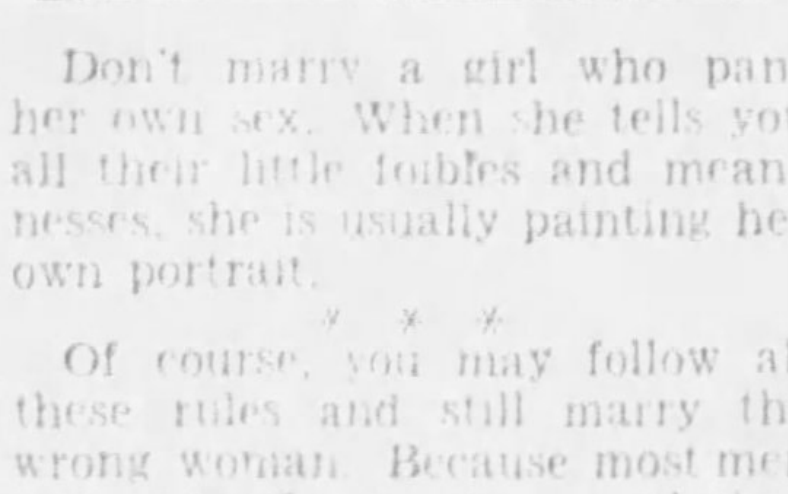
Don't marry a girl who breaks or forgets her dates with you. She is probably only using you for a "spare" and will marry you only if the other man "goes dead" on her—and stick to you only until somebody more interesting comes along.

* * *

Don't marry a girl who is always reaching for her lipstick and repairing her smile. She may have the loveliest face in the world, but she probably hasn't anything back of her temples except "the great open spaces" or a lot of excess vanity. If you must have something just to LOOK at, buy a pretty picture and hang it on your wall.

* * *

Don't marry a girl who passes her kisses around like cocktails and sandwiches. After all, when you take a wife, you don't want a remnant off the bargain counter—and that easy-kissing habit may be chronic.



IS THAT ALL YOU CAN DO ?

Don't marry a girl who pans her own sex. When she tells you all their little foibles and meannesses, she is usually painting her own portrait.

Of course, you may follow all these rules and still marry the wrong woman. Because most men just put off marrying until they are in the mood and then casually marry the girl who happens to be nearest at hand.

Human Side of the News

Mother Shipton's Prophecy, and Another Contemporary One, Even More Startling—Ching Ling and Unrest in China

By Edwin C. Hill

SOME 200 years ago an old Englishwoman, Mother Shipton, made an almost incredible prophecy. She predicted that man would fly like a bird, walk on the bed of the ocean and talk across great distances. She foresaw most of our great inventions. And they laughed at her for a crazy old witch.

Today a young Englishmen in our midst predicts wonders even more startling. He says that by the end of this century electricity, sugar and starch will be as cheap as sawdust, that the oceans will be purple with fish, and the deserts a mass of vegetation.

He predicts that disease will be abolished a little later, and that generations will just disintegrate together. In the year 5,000,000 man will be perfect and his span of life will be 3,000 years. Another 5,000,000 years beyond that and man will disintegrate and the people of the earth will all move to the planet Venus, shooting there in projectiles and rockets.

Now nobody laughs out loud at this prophet, because he happens to be a great scientist. He is J. B. S. Haldane, professor of biochemistry at Cambridge University and one of the admittedly great intellects of science; a facile, gifted writer and a human test tube. For Dr. Haldane does such stunts as take poisons and lock himself up in gas-filled rooms to find the effects on the human system.

Withal, he is neither preacher nor lawgiver, for he says:

"I don't think I know enough to lay down the law for other people. It's not the scientific man's business to tell his fellow-men what they should think."

I don't know that I would care to spin out my earthly existence 5,000,000 years, or even 5,000, but I would certainly like to be around, say, 100 years from now, or even 50, to see what amazing changes will have come over this still infant earth. When the chemists of today can extract dynamite from sawdust, also perfumes, colors and medicines from a lump of coal, who dare predict what their inspired genius will produce even 50 years from now?

Sees Fruits of Victory Destroyed

THE voice of Ching Ling cries out in China against Marshal Kai-Shek and his Nanking government. She charges that mediocre men, with darkly feudal minds, are destroying the fruits of the rebellion which liberated China from the Manchus.

Almost a sacred personality in China is Ching Ling, better known to us as Mme. Sun Yat Sen. Before her marriage she was Ching Ling Soony, daughter of a Christianized Methodist Y. M. C. A. worker, and herself a graduate of the Wesleyan College at Macon, Ga.

She is only 42, this strong-souled and brilliant widow of the George Washington of modern China. She is famous for her beauty, charm and wit—a lovely lady all ivory and sheening silk. She speaks fluently in the tongues of many lands—English, German, French and Russian, as well as her own ancient Chinese.

Her father was Sun Yat Sen's closest friend and adviser. He took his charming young daughter back to China, after her college commencement in 1911, and in Yokohama she first met the great Dr. Sun, then an exile in Japan. Twenty-one then, little Miss Chang fell head over heels in love with the fifty-year-old liberator. To her he was Washington, Garibaldi and Kosciusko all in one man. She threw herself into the Republican movement as Dr. Sun's secretary.

Fearful of scandal, wise old heads among the Chinese exiles in Japan sent back to China for Sun Yat Sen's wife. When that estimable lady heard that her noted husband had acquired a young fascinating and entirely lovely secretary, she surmised the inevitable. She obtained a divorce and accepted the situation with the fatalism of her race. Falling in love with attractive secretaries is not, you see, a peculiarity of the West.

Return to Canton With Russian Aid

CHING LING and Dr. Sun were married by bell, book and candle. They survived the scandal and returned in triumph to Canton with the aid of the Russian Bolsheviki. For several years they worked for the emancipation of the men and women of China, but another revolution, in 1922, drove them from power.

During the fighting, Ching Ling lay among the corpses and feigned death to escape capture by rebels, who most certainly would have chopped off her pretty head. Once more victory perched on the banner of Dr. Sun, but it was barely within his grasp when he gave up the breath of life and went to his honorable ancestors. Immediately his followers split with Kai-Shek, brother-in-law of Ching Ling, who set up the government at Nanking.

Ching Ling fled to Moscow and has never allowed herself to be reconciled to Gen. Kai-Shek or the Nanking government, despite threats and cajoleries. She is by no means a Communist or a Red, especially of the Russian variety. But she sympathizes with some of the milder doctrines of Communism. She wants to rid China of the usury that has robbed the poor people for centuries and fattened the money lenders. She wants to end militarism and bring about a reign of peace.

All signs point to a great upheaval in China. The Japanese see it coming and are preparing for it. A diluted Communism is spreading like wildfire through the old pieces of the Celestial Kingdom. Keep your eye on China—and on that fascinating lady, Ching Ling.

Forestry Army Should Build Landing Fields

By James T. Williams, Jr.

IF the Roosevelt administration is well advised, it will give swift and sympathetic consideration to the resolutions adopted at the annual convention of the National Aeronautic Association, which was recently held in the federal city.

This association is not only national but non-partisan. Its efforts are devoted to the development of aeronautics in the public interest, and its recommendations this year, as in the past, attest the soundness of its program as well as the patriotic spirit that quickens its leadership.

These resolutions urge upon the federal government fidelity to the following policies:

To maintain all possible activities designed to foster civil aviation.

To avoid any curtailment of service or any change of policy which might adversely affect the safety, the reliability or the general usefulness of air navigation or of air transport service.

To maintain on a scale which will avoid the necessity of abandoning the ground already gained all the aids for air transport, financial and navigational, that are now provided by the federal government.

Urge Development Of Air Forces

THE development of the air forces as an arm of the national defense of the United States is earnestly urged upon the President and the Congress, in this specific recommendation:

That not less than $60,000,000 be allotted by the Public Works Administration for the immediate purchase of new military and naval aircraft, and for carrying out an airship development program for the Navy.

There is tremendous unemployment in the aircraft industry today. This would be relieved by the expenditure of public works funds for purchase of military and naval aircraft, already requested and badly needed by the armed forces.

Another practical recommendation adopted by the association, of which Orville Wright has been a leader since its foundation, ought to be welcomed by the Civilian Conservation Corps. It is that the director of this corps add to his program the building of landing fields "in the rugged and heavily wooded portions of the national domain."

More Landing Fields Are Needed

THERE is a serious shortage of landing fields in these areas today. Building these landing fields now would increase the safety of air navigation and make these areas, many of which are of great scenic beauty, much more accessible to visitors. Another useful purpose which this construction would serve is the more extensive employment of aircraft in survey work and in the prevention and control of forest fires.

It is estimated that at least 300 new landing fields could be created within the next six months in our national and state forests by the men of the Civilian Conservation Corps.

Aeronautics has suffered some hard blows since the Roosevelt administration entered power. Not one of the three assistant secretaryships for air, which Congress created at the request of the Morrow board, has been filled.

What is much worse, the aeronautic branch of the Department of Commerce has been reduced to confusion worse confounded by a "disorganization" that is a serious reflection on the Democratic party.

The resolutions of the National Aeronautic Association should be welcomed by the President and the Congress because they offer constructive remedies for a few of the many destructive things which have been recently done to air development by pork-barrel politicians and their incompetent appointees.

OUR RHYMING OPTIMIST

The Silence

The silence is a river
That flows beneath all sound
And swallows every voice at last
Within its tides profound.

Bright floods of silence, rising
Within the waiting breast
Sweep all its strife and clamor out
And set the soul at rest.

The silence, outward-flowing
Bears grief and care along,
And leaves peace lingering in the wake,
More sweet than any song.

O, waves of silence, enter,
O, stillness lap me round;
Come, silence, deep and mighty stream,
That flows beneath all sound!
